Even Bill Easterly, the guru of "foreign assistance doesn't work," is praising this book. This is from the NYT Book Review – the review is by Bill Gates.

Stepping into the public square to announce that foreign aid is important and effective can be lonely work. As someone who has attempted to make that case over the past decade, I can assure you that the world is often eager to hear just the opposite.

But aid money can and does work. It improves people's lives and makes the world a better and safer place.

Fortunately, an elegant and deeply researched new book has come along to reframe the debate and tip it, I hope, in a new direction. The title says it all: "Getting Better: Why Global Development Is Succeeding—and How We Can Improve the World Even More."

The book's author is Charles Kenny, a senior economist on leave from the World Bank and a fellow at the Center for Global Development and the New America Foundation. He writes a weekly column for ForeignPolicy.com as "The Optimist," but he is a realist, too, and he brings an economist's eye to this complicated topic.

In making his case, Mr. Kenny is going up against some notable critics. Recent books by writers like Dambisa Moyo and Matt Ridley have depicted aid as wasteful and even damaging to societies. But even some outspoken aid critics have been impressed by "Getting Better." One of the best known, the economist William Easterly, even provided a blurb, praising the book. "You will never look at global economic development the same way again," he says. To me, that's exactly right.

Mr. Kenny acknowledges that the hundreds of billions of dollars that the West has poured into poor countries has had a limited impact on income, which is what most economists use to measure progress in living standards. As he notes, many countries in Africa today have real per capita incomes lower than that of Britain at the time of the Roman Empire. Over the past several decades, through good times and bad, the income gap between rich and poor countries has grown. And no one really knows why.

But income is only one measure of success and maybe not the most meaningful one. Mr. Kenny shows that quality of life—even in the world's poorest countries—has improved dramatically over the past several decades, far more than most people realize. Moreover, with reams of solid data to support his case, he argues that governments and aid agencies have played an important role in this progress.

We care about income mostly as a proxy for what money can buy: food, shelter, health, education, security and other factors that contribute to human well-being. Mr. Kenny's great insight is to point out the flaw in focusing solely on income. Other trends, related to direct measures of quality of life, are much more encouraging.

Fifty years ago, more than half the world's population struggled with getting enough daily calories. By the 1990s, this figure was below 10%. Famine affected less than three-tenths of 1% of the population in sub-Saharan Africa from 1990 to 2005. As Mr. Kenny suggests, the record has thoroughly disproved Malthusian prophecies of food shortages caused by spiraling population growth. Family sizes have fallen for many decades now in every region, including Africa.

And there's more good news. Virtually everywhere, infant mortality is down and life expectancy is up. In Africa, life expectancy has increased by 10 years since 1960, despite the continent's HIV pandemic. Nearly 90% of the world's children are now enrolled in primary schools, compared with less than half in 1950. Literacy rates in the sub-Saharan region have more than doubled since 1970. Political and civil rights also have gained ground.

The case made by Mr. Kenny in "Getting Better" is a powerful antidote to overly gloomy assessments of development aid. Wasteful and corrupt aid projects are probably inevitable, and they should never be tolerated. But overall, when you look at the big picture, quite a lot of good things are happening.

What's more, the book suggests ways to make aid more efficient and effective. Mr. Kenny notes that dramatic improvements in quality of life have been achieved even in poor countries where incomes have fallen. How can this be? He credits the spread of new technologies and ideas. Because of them, as he writes, many of "the best things in life are cheap."

Eradicating smallpox from the face of the Earth, for example, cost about 32 cents per person in infected countries. In just six years, a drive to vaccinate African children against measles reduced the number who died of the disease by three-quarters, from more than 500,000 a year.

Even larger gains in public health can still be achieved at a stunningly low cost relative to the benefits. Of the 10 million children who die each year in poor countries, one-third could be saved through the wider use of breast feeding, insecticide-treated bed nets and oral rehydration therapy (a simple sugar and salt solution) to combat the effects of diarrhea.

Mr. Kenny recommends focusing development aid on helping to spread such ideas and the cheap technologies that can measurably improve quality of life. He suggests, among other things, that we create a global technology bank to fund research or award prizes for advances that particularly benefit the world's poor.

After years of doom and gloom on the subject of foreign aid, it is refreshing to find so thoughtful and contrarian an approach to the topic. Charles Kenny shines a light on the real successes of aid, and he shows us the benefits that additional smart investment can bring.

—Bill Gates is chairman of Microsoft and co-chairman of the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation. His website, TheGatesNotes.com, features a video interview about "Getting Better" with author Charles Kenny.

Kin:

Greetings. Ambassador Booth (Addis) has visited Lalibela and provided a short readout. If memory serves correctly, PDAS Yamamoto, DAS Wycoff, and Desk Officer Wiegert have also visited.

Don Booth visited Lalibela at Christmas and said it was fabulous. It truly is a "wonder of the world." There are about a dozen churches carved into the rock. All but St. George church (the one you see in tourist posters) are in one compound with access from the center of town. St. George is a couple hundred yards away from the main grouping of churches. You need good walking shoes as surfaces are not terribly level and there are no handrails. Guests remove shoes before entering the churches. Several churches have Orthodox priests with traditional garments, drums, crosses, etc. There are a lot of wonderful photo opportunities.

Post estimates that a charter or milair flight could make the trip in about 35-55 minutes from Addis (depending on the type of aircraft). Airport specifics need to be considered as well. The Lalibela airport is approximately a fifty minute drive from Lalibela town over a surfaced but mountainous road.

Lalibela churches hold daily services. As a result, they are open to the public 0900 – noon and 1400 – 1700 daily. There is a hotel about a 10 minute drive from town (MountView Hotel) that is modern and relatively new. It sits on a point with a beautiful view of the countryside and is a great venue for lunch/ drinks.

This email is UNCLASSIFIED.

PAKISTAN MEDIA ANALYSIS
SPECIAL SATURDAY EDITION: ISLAMABAD VISIT OF SECRETARY CLINTON
SBU – For U.S. Government purposes only
May 28, 2011

- Secretary Clinton's trip to Islamabad dominates Saturday news
- Headlines largely positive; editorials remain skeptical
- Key messages: "Relations at a turning point," and "No evidence that senior leaders knew about OBL"
- Storm clouds ahead? Gilani tells Clinton: stop drone strikes

Secretary Clinton's Friday visit to Islamabad was the lead story in all Pakistani media Saturday. Coverage was largely straightforward on the front pages of the main dailies, although the reaction among TV commentators and editorial writers ranged from skeptical to critical. The overall tone is that while Pakistan and the U.S. have by no means kissed and made up, they have at least crawled back from the precipice.

Most Urdu headlines trumpeted the Secretary's exhortation at her Embassy press conference that "Pakistan must do more on al Qaida," as mass-circulation "Jang" had it. Her comment that there is no evidence that senior Pakistani leaders knew OBL was in Abbottabad was highlighted in nearly all coverage. English dailies picked up a wider variety of themes: "Pak-US ties at a turning point," "Pakistan needs to take decisive steps against terrorists," and "Anti-Americanism, and conspiracy theories will not end problems." The headline in the leading English paper, "Dawn," claimed, "Split in Pakistan-US ties averted."

Most TV news bulletins and front pages juxtaposed the Secretary's comments with reports that Prime Minister Gilani "clearly and categorically" told Secretary Clinton that the GOP intends to implement a resolution of parliament which calls for a review of US-Pak relations if drone strikes continue. Most vernacular press also reported that Chief of Army Staff General Kayani told JCS Admiral Mullen that the, "ISI will either cooperate with the CIA on equal grounds, or will not cooperate at all" – a story almost entirely absent from the English media space.

The Secretary's visit engendered a more critical response on the editorial pages. "Jang" wrote that "Pakistan is facing a very serious situation due to its all-out support to the U.S. and its allies in the war on terror, and attacks on its military installations, troops, check-posts and police stations have become a daily practice.... It is unprecedented that so many American officials have ever visited Pakistan in such a short span of time, and sought to achieve their objectives by exerting diplomatic pressure.” Number-two “Nawa-i-Waqt” opined, “By advising Pakistan to continue its efforts against terrorism after the NATO troops’ withdrawal from Afghanistan, the United States has spilt the beans that it will continue to engage Pakistan in the war that is being fought to safeguard U.S. interests.” Another widely-read Urdu paper, “Express,” piled on: “Every American official says the same things whenever he or she comes to Pakistan, or speaks in Washington, DC, hence it will not be wrong to say that the Secretary of State Clinton has just harped on the ‘do more’ mantra.”

TV talking heads made much of the Secretary’s comment that there was no evidence that senior Pakistani officials knew bin Laden’s whereabouts, and the usual professional anti-Americanists used the Secretary’s visit to vent their spleen anew. On Dunya TV, Cricketer-turned-politician Imran Khan claimed, “Pakistan-U.S. relations have not been based on the principle of parity and mutual respect. It is a master-slave relationship cultivated by the Americans to achieve their national goals.” Khan added that, “Osama’s killing has provided the U.S. a rare and golden opportunity to leave Afghanistan. They were facing a humiliating defeat there. But now they can tell their people that the real goal of the war has been achieved.” Another well known journalist said on Aaj TV that “We [Pakistan] have lost nearly 35,000 men, and our national economy suffered a loss worth $68 billion, while we have received only $19 billion from the Americans over the last decade. On the other hand, Washington ‘rewarded’ us by signing a nuclear deal with our archrival, New Delhi, while expressing baseless doubts on our sincerity in fighting the war against terrorism.” On Dunya TV, analyst Moeed Pirzada said that even “pro-U.S.” Pakistanis are exasperated with the U.S. after Abbottabad and are thinking of severing the alliance, but that the Pakistani government will probably have to compromise since their bargaining power had been undercut by the discovery of OBL.

Urdu Editorials:

“U.S. Officials’ Visits – We must Defend our Stand,” an editorial in the leading mass-circulation populist, often sensational Urdu daily “Jang” (cir. 300,000) (05/28)

“Pakistan is facing a very serious situation because of its all-out support for the U.S. and its allies in the war on terror. Attacks on its military installations, troops, check-posts and police stations have become a daily occurrence. Following the Abbottabad operation and the attack on the Mehran base in Karachi and security facilities, some quarters are expressing apprehension that terrorists are planning to launch suicide assaults on the Artillery Center in Attock and the Pakistan Ordnance Factory. With growing terrorist incidents in Pakistan, U.S. officials including Secretary Clinton, Admiral Mullen, the NATO Commander in Afghanistan, the CIA Deputy Director, and Senator John Kerry have started their visits to Pakistan. These visits give an impression that, by meeting with Pakistani officials, the American officials want to increase U.S. pressure on Pakistan, and that the U.S. does not want to give the Pakistani rulers any more time. It is unprecedented that so many American officials have ever visited Pakistan in such a short span of time, and sought to achieve their objectives by exerting diplomatic pressure.”

“Hillary and Mullen’s Pressure on Pakistan to Do More,” an editorial in the second largest Urdu daily “Nawa-i-Waqt” (circ. 150,000) (05/28)

“It seems that the recent visit of Secretary Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen is a strategy to force Pakistan to remain stuck to its assurances of achieving the U.S. targets in any way. By advising Pakistan to continue its efforts against terrorism after the NATO troops’ withdrawal from Afghanistan, the U.S. has spilled the beans that it will continue to engage Pakistan in the war that is being fought to safeguard the U.S. interests. Now, if the U.S. is telling us to resolve our issues by ourselves, then there is no need for us to remain engaged in the U.S. war and devastate our own country. If the U.S. does not care about our independence, sovereignty and security, then we also have nothing to do with their (American’s) problems.”

“Hillary Clinton Visit to Pakistan and Pak-U.S. Ties,” an editorial note in the center-right Urdu daily “Pakistan” (circ. 10,000) (05/28)

“Secretary Hillary Clinton said nothing new during her visit to Pakistan. She just repeated the same stereotypes: that the U.S. appreciates Pakistan’s role and performance in war on terror, but it should take more action. Every American official says the same things whenever he or she comes to Pakistan, or speaks in Washington DC, thus it is not wrong to say that Secretary of State Clinton just harped on the ‘do more’ mantra... Whenever a terrorist incident occurs in Pakistan, the Taliban or the TTP immediately take responsibility, but our government neither takes any action against them, nor hunts the Taliban sympathizers in different cities and towns of Pakistan. Perhaps that is the reason that every American official who visits Pakistan criticizes Pakistan. We need to devise a two-pronged policy: a. either we will have to convince Taliban to renounce violence and rejoin the mainstream of the Pakistani society, or b. if they (Taliban) are not ready to do so, then we will have to wipe them out by force.”

Comments in various bulletins on TV networks:

1. Neither Hillary Clinton's visit nor meetings behind closed doors can remove deep-rooted misunderstandings in Pak-U.S. ties : Opposition Leader in National Assembly: Chaudhry Nisar Ali, PML-N leader – Geo News TV.

2. With the killing of Osama bin Laden, the first phase of Pak-U.S. partnership came to an end. Now, the primary concern for the United States is that Afghanistan should not again become a stronghold of terrorism and religious extremism after the withdrawal of foreign forces from that war-torn country. To achieve this objective, Islamabad can play a pivotal role and Washington is fully aware of this fact. I think the real agenda of Secretary Clinton's visit was to convince Pakistan to play this role: -Nazir Naji, columnist on SAMAA TV.

3. If Pakistan fails to take initiative to improve the security situation in this region, the U.S. will maintain its presence here. I think it is in our own national interest that we utilize all our resources and energies to eliminate the menace of terrorism and extremism, because the war on terror has now become our own war: defense analyst Shehzad Chaudhry on SAMAA TV.

4. In his meeting with Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, President Asif Zardari demanded that the U.S. respect the sovereignty of Pakistan and immediately stop drone attacks on our territory. He told her that, in case Washington does not honor the resolution unanimously approved by the Pakistani parliament, our bilateral ties will be negatively affected. The Americans know that the political leadership, military and people of Pakistan have reservations over the drone issue. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton has been categorically told that Pakistan will not compromise on its sovereignty and its national interests. If the U.S. does not respond to our demands, we will devise future strategy. Federal cabinet and coalition parties also have been taken into confidence regarding Pakistan's relations with the United States: Information Minister, Firdous Ashiq Awan's press talk - PTV News.

TV Talk Shows:

Program: "Policy matter" Duniya TV (05/27)

Hosts: Naseem Zuhra

Participants: Khwaja Asif (PML-N); Azam Swati (JUI-F); Moeed Pirzada (analyst); Marvi Memon (PML-Q)

Topic: Hillary, Mullen Visit to Pakistan; What is the Outcome?

Summary: During this show, the participants discussed the recent visit of U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen to Pakistan. Analyst Moeed Pirzada said that the purpose of the U.S. military and political leadership was to bridge the gap between the establishments of both countries following the U.S. operation in Abbottabad. He said he thinks that, after the events of May 2, even the pro-U.S. circles in Pakistan are annoyed with the U.S. and are saying that friendship with the U.S. is a difficult business, and that the government should explore the possibility of getting rid of America. While talking about the U.S. high officials' visit, he said it was a tough and difficult visit, however he felt that Pakistan must compromise with the U.S. since we lost some of our bargaining power following the Abbottabad operation. PML-Q leader Ms. Marvi Memon condemned Secretary Clinton's statement in which she demanded that the Pakistan military urgently take more steps. She said that Hillary Clinton insulted the unanimous resolution adopted by our parliament when she reiterated that the U.S. can again take unilateral action inside Pakistan in case of the presence of a high-valued target. She also said that is why a First Investigation Report (FIR) should be lodged against Hillary Clinton. JUI-F leader Azam Swati said that, in the meetings with U.S. military and political leadership, our leaders should have conveyed to them to not talk about our (Pakistan's) domestic issues in public.

Program: "News Watch" Dunya TV (05/27)

Host: Javed Iqbal

Participants: Sami Yousufzai (Senior Journalist); Imran Khan (PTI)

Topic: Visit of Secretary Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen

Excerpts:

Host: In her meetings with Pakistani military and civilian leadership, during today's visit to Islamabad, U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton made it clear to her hosts that they would have to take decisive measures against the terrorists present in the country. The visiting U.S. officials acknowledged that top Pakistani leadership was unaware about Osama's presence in Abbottabad. Secretary Clinton said that her country's relations with Pakistan are of utmost importance and that these ties will further strengthen in the coming years. What was the real agenda of this visit by Secretary Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen? Did they come here to explore the ways to remove mutual misunderstandings between the governments of the two countries or to learn about Pakistan's reservations, and to express those of the United States? Has this visit produced the desired results?

Imran Khan: I have said repeatedly that the Pakistan-U.S. relations have not been based on the principle of parity and mutual respect. It is a master-slave relationship cultivated by the Americans to achieve their national goals. Our partnership with the United States is tactical not strategic. They hire our services in exchange for dollars. Our leadership has always ignored Pakistan's own long-term interests. Consequently, Washington dictates our governments to act according to its will, no matter if it's against our own interests. This subservient attitude of the Pakistani leaders has given rise to strong popular reaction in the country. Today, no part of the country is immune from bomb blasts and suicide bombings. In fact, these incidents are the direct reaction to our government's servitude to the American hegemony which has virtually turned Pakistan into client state of the U.S. By joining the so-called war against terrorism, our leaders have turned this country into hell. Ironically, the Americans themselves are negotiating with the Afghan Taliban while, at the same time, they are not ready to use this channel to politically engage our own alienated people. Now, after the terrorist attack on Mehran naval base, they are spreading rumors that Pakistan's nuclear weapons may end up in the hands of extremist elements.

Host: Is there any evidence that the U.S. is negotiating with the Afghan Taliban?

Sami Yousufzai: I think the Americans have started sincere efforts to engage the Taliban in political dialogue. After Osama bin Laden's death, the Afghan Taliban have no complications in negotiating with the United States. Now, I think, they also can show their readiness to compromise on certain issues. On the other hand, the Americans also think that they have achieved their stated goal -- the killing of Osama bin Laden and dismantling al-Qaeda to the extent that it will not be able to perpetrate any major terrorist attack. The time has come for them to get out the Afghanistan quagmire, which is costing them heavily in terms of human and financial losses. Washington also seems convinced that the Taliban's links with al-Qaeda remnants also have been considerably weakened. On the hand, there also are indications that the Taliban, too, are ready for some sort of a power-sharing arrangement in the future ruling setup in their country. Hence, it is quite possible that both sides may reach some agreement regarding the future of Afghanistan.

Host: There are reports that the Americans are preparing to withdraw their forces from Afghanistan. Have they devised any face-saving strategy in this regard?

Imran Khan: I think that Osama's killing has provided the U.S. a rare and golden opportunity to leave Afghanistan. They were facing a humiliating defeat there. But now they can tell their people that the real goal of the war has been achieved. In fact, Osama's death has provided them an excellent face-saving strategy. America's further stay in Afghanistan will result in more destabilization of Pakistan. We're already seeing that, following Osama's killing, the bomb blasts in our cities and on our sensitive installations have become almost a daily-life routine.

Program: "Pakistan At 7" Aaj TV (05/27)

Host: Nadia Naqi

Participants: Air Vice Marshal (R) Shehzad Chaudhry (Defense Analyst); Mujeeb-ur-Rehman Shami (Senior Journalist)

Topic: U.S.-Pakistan Relations

Excerpts:

Host: The bilateral relations of the United States and Pakistan are experiencing an unusual strain today. Analysts believe that the national interests of the two countries are diverging regarding the end-game in Afghanistan. There also is a mutual trust-deficit between them. The Americans are saying that they have provided huge military and civilian assistance to Pakistan in exchange for the services it has rendered in the ongoing war against terrorism. But Islamabad is suspicious about Washington's strategic tilt towards New Delhi. What will be the future of the U.S.-Pakistan relationship? Do you think that the current tension in their ties is temporary and both sides will be able to reverse the ongoing deterioration in their relations?

Mujeeb-ur-Rehman Shami: Pakistan has rendered huge sacrifices, both in men and material, in the war against terrorism, but the United States, instead of appreciating our role in this regard, views us as an unreliable partner. The U.S. assistance provided to Pakistan is negligible as compared to the losses we have had to suffer in this war. We have lost nearly 35,000 men, and our national economy suffered a loss worth $68 billion, while we have received only $19 billion from the Americans over the last decade. On the other hand, Washington rewarded us by signing a nuclear deal with our arch rival, New Delhi, while expressing baseless doubts on our sincerity in fighting the war against terrorism. Worse, the U.S. itself is killing our innocent people with drone attacks, besides regularly violating our national integrity.

Host: Why is the U.S. losing trust in Pakistan?

Shehzad Chaudhry: Undoubtedly, Pakistan has rendered meritorious services in the war against terrorism, but, unfortunately, some strange developments have led to the widening mistrust between the two countries. For example, we have failed to provide satisfactory answers raised by the Americans about the presence of Osama bin Laden on our soil. For more than decade, the Americans have been wondering if they can trust Pakistan. They suspect that the Pakistani establishment, which receives financial and military aid from the U.S. and publicly proclaims allegiance, is privately acting against U.S. global interests. Osama bin Laden's six-year-long presence and his ultimate killing on Pakistani soil further amplified Washington's concerns about Islamabad's real intentions. The Americans also have suspicions that Pakistan is not doing enough against the extremist organizations operating from its territory. Ironically, these extremist groups are not a headache for the Americans only, but they also are involved in terrorist activities in our own country. We need to come out of this state of denial and go after the elements that have turned Pakistan into an inferno. I repeatedly have said that now the war against terrorism has become our own war, and in order to win this fight, it has become imperative to maintain our existence as an independent country. As far as our complaints about the drone attacks and other such U.S. actions are concerned, I think our government should use diplomatic channels to convince the U.S. that such policies are counter-productive and they only breed more terrorists.

PAKISTAN MEDIA ANALYSIS
SPECIAL SATURDAY EDITION: ISLAMABAD VISIT OF SECRETARY CLINTON
SBU – For U.S. Government purposes only
May 28, 2011

- Secretary Clinton's trip to Islamabad dominates Saturday news
- Headlines largely positive; editorials remain skeptical
- Key messages: "Relations at a turning point," and "No evidence that senior leaders knew about OBL"
- Storm clouds ahead? Gilani tells Clinton: stop drone strikes

Secretary Clinton's Friday visit to Islamabad was the lead story in all Pakistani media Saturday. Coverage was largely straightforward on the front pages of the main dailies, although the reaction among TV commentators and editorial writers ranged from skeptical to critical. The overall tone is that while Pakistan and the U.S. have by no means kissed and made up, they have at least crawled back from the precipice.

Most Urdu headlines trumpeted the Secretary's exhortation at her Embassy press conference that "Pakistan must do more on al Qaida," as mass-circulation "Jang" had it. Her comment that there is no evidence that senior Pakistani leaders knew OBL was in Abbottabad was highlighted in nearly all coverage. English dailies picked up a wider variety of themes: "Pak-US ties at a turning point," "Pakistan needs to take decisive steps against terrorists," and "Anti-Americanism, and conspiracy theories will not end problems." The headline in the leading English paper, "Dawn," claimed, "Split in Pakistan-US ties averted."

Most TV news bulletins and front pages juxtaposed the Secretary's comments with reports that Prime Minister Gilani "clearly and categorically" told Secretary Clinton that the GOP intends to implement a resolution of parliament which calls for a review of US-Pak relations if drone strikes continue. Most vernacular press also reported that Chief of Army Staff General Kayani told JCS Admiral Mullen that the, "ISI will either cooperate with the CIA on equal grounds, or will not cooperate at all" – a story almost entirely absent from the English media space.

The Secretary's visit engendered a more critical response on the editorial pages. "Jang" wrote that "Pakistan is facing a very serious situation due to its all-out support to the U.S. and its allies in the war on terror, and attacks on its military installations, troops, check-posts and police stations have become a daily practice.... It is unprecedented that so many American officials have ever visited Pakistan in such a short span of time, and sought to achieve their objectives by exerting diplomatic pressure." Number-two "Nawa-i-Waqt" opined, "By advising Pakistan to continue its efforts against terrorism after the NATO troops' withdrawal from Afghanistan, the United States has spilt the beans that it will continue to engage Pakistan in the war that is being fought to safeguard U.S. interests." Another widely-read Urdu paper, "Express," piled on: "Every American official says the same things whenever he or she comes to Pakistan, or speaks in Washington, DC, hence it will not be wrong to say that the Secretary of State Clinton has just harped on the 'do more' mantra."

TV talking heads made much of the Secretary's comment that there was no evidence that senior Pakistani officials knew bin Laden's whereabouts, and the usual professional anti-Americanists used the Secretary's visit to vent their spleen anew. On Dunya TV, Cricketer-turned-politician Imran Khan claimed, "Pakistan-U.S. relations have not been based on the principle of parity and mutual respect. It is a master-slave relationship cultivated by the Americans to achieve their national goals." Khan added that, "Osama's killing has provided the U.S. a rare and golden opportunity to leave Afghanistan. They were facing a humiliating defeat there. But now they can tell their people that the real goal of the war has been achieved." Another well known journalist said on Aaj TV that "We [Pakistan] have lost nearly 35,000 men, and our national economy suffered a loss worth $68 billion, while we have received only $19 billion from the Americans over the last decade. On the other hand, Washington 'rewarded' us by signing a nuclear deal with our archrival, New Delhi, while expressing baseless doubts on our sincerity in fighting the war against terrorism." On Dunya TV, analyst Moeed Pirzada said that even "pro-U.S." Pakistanis are exasperated with the U.S. after Abbottabad and are thinking of severing the alliance, but that the Pakistani government will probably have to compromise since their bargaining power had been undercut by the discovery of OBL.

Urdu Editorials:

"U.S. Officials' Visits – We must Defend our Stand," an editorial in the leading mass-circulation populist, often sensational Urdu daily "Jang" (cir. 300,000) (05/28)

"Pakistan is facing a very serious situation because of to its all-out support for the U.S. and its allies in the war on terror. Attacks on its military installations, troops, check-posts and police stations have become a daily occurrence. Following the Abbottabad operation and the attack on the Mehran base in Karachi and security facilities, some quarters are expressing apprehension that terrorists are planning to launch suicide assaults on the Artillery Center in Attock and the Pakistan Ordnance Factory. With growing terrorist incidents in Pakistan, U.S. officials including Secretary Clinton, Admiral Mullen, the NATO Commander in Afghanistan, the CIA Deputy Director, and Senator John Kerry have started their visits to Pakistan. These visits give an impression that, by meeting with Pakistani officials, the American officials want to increase U.S. pressure on Pakistan, and that the U.S. does not want to give the Pakistani rulers any more time. It is unprecedented that so many American officials have ever visited Pakistan in such a short span of time, and sought to achieve their objectives by exerting diplomatic pressure."

"Hillary and Mullen's Pressure on Pakistan to Do More," an editorial in the second largest Urdu daily "Nawa-i-Waqt" (circ. 150,000) (05/28)

"It seems that the recent visit of Secretary Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen is a strategy to force Pakistan to remain stuck to its assurances of achieving the U.S. targets in any way. By advising Pakistan to continue its efforts against terrorism after the NATO troops' withdrawal from Afghanistan, the U.S. has spilled the beans that it will continue to engage Pakistan in the war that is being fought to safeguard the U.S. interests. Now, if the U.S. is telling us to resolve our issues by ourselves, then there is no need for us to remain engaged in the U.S. war and devastate our own country. If the U.S. does not care about our independence, sovereignty and security, then we also have nothing to do with their (American's) problems."

"Hillary Clinton Visit to Pakistan and Pak-U.S. Ties," an editorial note in the center-right Urdu daily "Pakistan" (circ. 10,000) (05/28)

"Secretary Hillary Clinton said nothing new during her visit to Pakistan. She just repeated the same stereotypes: that the U.S. appreciates Pakistan's role and performance in war on terror, but it should take more action. Every American official says the same things whenever he or she comes to Pakistan, or speaks in Washington DC, thus it is not wrong to say that Secretary of State Clinton just harped on the 'do more' mantra... Whenever a terrorist incident occurs in Pakistan, the Taliban or the TTP immediately take responsibility, but our government neither takes any action against them, nor hunts the Taliban sympathizers in different cities and towns of Pakistan. Perhaps that is the reason that every American official who visits Pakistan criticizes Pakistan. We need to devise a two-pronged policy: a. either we will have to convince Taliban to renounce violence and rejoin the mainstream of the Pakistani society, or b. if they (Taliban) are not ready to do so, then we will have to wipe them out by force."

The Nation – 5/28

Daily Times – (5/28)

Comments in various bulletins on TV networks:

1. Neither Hillary Clinton's visit nor meetings behind closed doors can remove deep-rooted misunderstandings in Pak-U.S. ties : Opposition Leader in National Assembly: Chaudhry Nisar Ali, PML-N leader – Geo News TV.

2. With the killing of Osama bin Laden, the first phase of Pak-U.S. partnership came to an end. Now, the primary concern for the United States is that Afghanistan should not again become a stronghold of terrorism and religious extremism after the withdrawal of foreign forces from that war-torn country. To achieve this objective, Islamabad can play a pivotal role and Washington is fully aware of this fact. I think the real agenda of Secretary Clinton's visit was to convince Pakistan to play this role: -Nazir Naji, columnist on SAMAA TV.

3. If Pakistan fails to take initiative to improve the security situation in this region, the U.S. will maintain its presence here. I think it is in our own national interest that we utilize all our resources and energies to eliminate the menace of terrorism and extremism, because the war on terror has now become our own war: defense analyst Shehzad Chaudhry on SAMAA TV.

4. In his meeting with Secretary of State Hillary Clinton, President Asif Zardari demanded that the U.S. respect the sovereignty of Pakistan and immediately stop drone attacks on our territory. He told her that, in case Washington does not honor the resolution unanimously approved by the Pakistani parliament, our bilateral ties will be negatively affected. The Americans know that the political leadership, military and people of Pakistan have reservations over the drone issue. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton has been categorically told that Pakistan will not compromise on its sovereignty and its national interests. If the U.S. does not respond to our demands, we will devise future strategy. Federal cabinet and coalition parties also have been taken into confidence regarding Pakistan's relations with the United States: Information Minister, Firdous Ashiq Awan's press talk - PTV News.

TV Talk Shows:

Program: "Policy matter" Duniya TV (05/27)

Hosts: Naseem Zuhra

Participants: Khwaja Asif (PML-N); Azam Swati (JUI-F); Moeed Pirzada (analyst); Marvi Memon (PML-Q)

Topic: Hillary, Mullen Visit to Pakistan; What is the Outcome?

Summary: During this show, the participants discussed the recent visit of U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen to Pakistan. Analyst Moeed Pirzada said that the purpose of the U.S. military and political leadership was to bridge the gap between the establishments of both countries following the U.S. operation in Abbottabad. He said he thinks that, after the events of May 2, even the pro-U.S. circles in Pakistan are annoyed with the U.S. and are saying that friendship with the U.S. is a difficult business, and that the government should explore the possibility of getting rid of America. While talking about the U.S. high officials' visit, he said it was a tough and difficult visit, however he felt that Pakistan must compromise with the U.S. since we lost some of our bargaining power following the Abbottabad operation. PML-Q leader Ms. Marvi Memon condemned Secretary Clinton's statement in which she demanded that the Pakistan military urgently take more steps. She said that Hillary Clinton insulted the unanimous resolution adopted by our parliament when she reiterated that the U.S. can again take unilateral action inside Pakistan in case of the presence of a high-valued target. She also said that is why a First Investigation Report (FIR) should be lodged against Hillary Clinton. JUI-F leader Azam Swati said that, in the meetings with U.S. military and political leadership, our leaders should have conveyed to them to not talk about our (Pakistan's) domestic issues in public.

Program: "News Watch" Dunya TV (05/27)

Host: Javed Iqbal

Participants: Sami Yousufzai (Senior Journalist); Imran Khan (PTI)

Topic: Visit of Secretary Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen

Excerpts:

Host: In her meetings with Pakistani military and civilian leadership, during today's visit to Islamabad, U.S. Secretary of State Hillary Clinton made it clear to her hosts that they would have to take decisive measures against the terrorists present in the country. The visiting U.S. officials acknowledged that top Pakistani leadership was unaware about Osama's presence in Abbottabad. Secretary Clinton said that her country's relations with Pakistan are of utmost importance and that these ties will further strengthen in the coming years. What was the real agenda of this visit by Secretary Hillary Clinton and Admiral Mike Mullen? Did they come here to explore the ways to remove mutual misunderstandings between the governments of the two countries or to learn about Pakistan's reservations, and to express those of the United States? Has this visit produced the desired results?

Imran Khan: I have said repeatedly that the Pakistan-U.S. relations have not been based on the principle of parity and mutual respect. It is a master-slave relationship cultivated by the Americans to achieve their national goals. Our partnership with the United States is tactical not strategic. They hire our services in exchange for dollars. Our leadership has always ignored Pakistan's own long-term interests. Consequently, Washington dictates our governments to act according to its will, no matter if it's against our own interests. This subservient attitude of the Pakistani leaders has given rise to strong popular reaction in the country. Today, no part of the country is immune from bomb blasts and suicide bombings. In fact, these incidents are the direct reaction to our government's servitude to the American hegemony which has virtually turned Pakistan into client state of the U.S. By joining the so-called war against terrorism, our leaders have turned this country into hell. Ironically, the Americans themselves are negotiating with the Afghan Taliban while, at the same time, they are not ready to use this channel to politically engage our own alienated people. Now, after the terrorist attack on Mehran naval base, they are spreading rumors that Pakistan's nuclear weapons may end up in the hands of extremist elements.

Host: Is there any evidence that the U.S. is negotiating with the Afghan Taliban?

Sami Yousufzai: I think the Americans have started sincere efforts to engage the Taliban in political dialogue. After Osama bin Laden's death, the Afghan Taliban have no complications in negotiating with the United States. Now, I think, they also can show their readiness to compromise on certain issues. On the other hand, the Americans also think that they have achieved their stated goal -- the killing of Osama bin Laden and dismantling al-Qaeda to the extent that it will not be able to perpetrate any major terrorist attack. The time has come for them to get out the Afghanistan quagmire, which is costing them heavily in terms of human and financial losses. Washington also seems convinced that the Taliban's links with al-Qaeda remnants also have been considerably weakened. On the hand, there also are indications that the Taliban, too, are ready for some sort of a power-sharing arrangement in the future ruling setup in their country. Hence, it is quite possible that both sides may reach some agreement regarding the future of Afghanistan.

Host: There are reports that the Americans are preparing to withdraw their forces from Afghanistan. Have they devised any face-saving strategy in this regard?

Imran Khan: I think that Osama's killing has provided the U.S. a rare and golden opportunity to leave Afghanistan. They were facing a humiliating defeat there. But now they can tell their people that the real goal of the war has been achieved. In fact, Osama's death has provided them an excellent face-saving strategy. America's further stay in Afghanistan will result in more destabilization of Pakistan. We're already seeing that, following Osama's killing, the bomb blasts in our cities and on our sensitive installations have become almost a daily-life routine.

Passed away this morning. Kissinger called through ops saying he wanted to talk to you.

You ok with this statement?

Former Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger was a strong voice and stalwart champion for America's values. His passing is America's loss. Larry spent a lifetime defending America's interests wherever he was needed, first in the Army, and later as an officer in the Foreign Service. As an analyst studying Cuba, he stood up against communism during the height of the Cold War. As Ambassador to Yugoslavia, he fought for human rights in Eastern Europe. As delegate to NATO, he helped build strong international institutions. At the end of the Cold War, he became the first career Foreign Service Officer to be named Secretary of State. From his days as a First Lieutenant to his tenure as Secretary of State, Larry believed in the strength of America's values, and he fought for them around the world. He was outspoken, but always the consummate diplomat. Even in retirement, Larry remained a staunch advocate for the causes he believed in. He never stopped caring, contributing, and speaking out. My thoughts and prayers are with his sons Lawrence Scott, Lawrence Andrew and Lawrence Jason, his beloved family, and his countless friends and colleagues in and out of the State Department.

Good you slept some. quiet here
Most people just taking it easy in their rooms, some people up. But you haven't missed up.
Its 1pm here
There are 3 restaurant options here. I'm walking through them now. 1 main restaurant that's supposed to be good, an arab restaurant and a thai restaurant.

If you want to walk, you can walk thru the mall which they say is great just to look around. You can also walk to the burj khalifa, the tallest bldg.

Reminder we need to do kim and glamour this afternoon. Only new flight info is wheels up 7pm because pilots got to bed so late.

Background: You last spoke with Nafie on June 17 in follow up to your June 13 meeting in Addis Ababa Ethiopia. The last round of calls was focused on reaching agreement on the text on arrangements for Abyei, which has now been achieved. The draft resolution for an Ethiopian peacekeeping force is currently with the UN Security Council for approval.

You also expressed concern about a lack of a cessation of hostilities in Southern Kordofan, which have been ongoing since June 5. On June 22, Nafie returned to Addis Ababa for talks with SPLM-North leader Malik Agar focused on achieving a cessation of hostilities in Southern Kordofan. [REDACTED]

Turkish MFA issued this statement around 1 am local; final para calls for UNSC to "to adopt a resolution that will also incorporate the necessary measures to provide for the protection of the Syrian people." Suspect FM will repeat this when he speaks to G8 FM's.

No:102

10th April 2012

PRESS RELEASE

We observe that the Syrian Regime has failed to fulfill its pledge as expected of it by today (10 April) to cease troop movements towards population centers, end the use of heavy weapons in these centers and to begin the pullback of military forces in and around population centers, in accordance with the Joint Special Envoy for the UN and League of Arab States Kofi Annan's Six Point Plan and the UN Security Council's Presidential Statement dated 5 April 2012 and that the Syrian Regime continues its acts of violence in an ever increasing manner. In fact, the Syrian Regime's attacks on civilians have gained intensity in recent days in areas along the Turkish-Syrian border and camps within Turkey have also received gun fire.

Turkey has fully supported Joint Special Envoy for the UN and League of Arab States, Kofi Annan's mission from its very inception; has assisted and continues to assist Mr. Annan's efforts aimed at bringing an immediate end to the bloodshed in Syria and initiating a political transition process in line with the people's legitimate expectations. The Syrian opposition's support for Kofi Annan was openly communicated in Istanbul to his deputy Nasir El Kidva.

The UN Security Council's Presidential Statement stipulates the condition that the Syrian Regime must fulfill all its commitments as pledged to Mr. Annan, 48 hours prior to 12 April, the date on which violence in all its forms should be brought to an end in its entirety. Since this has not occurred, we urgently expect the Security Council to adopt a resolution that will also incorporate the necessary measures to provide for the protection of the Syrian people.

When do I have to leave for Syracuse on the 23rd? [REDACTED] I don't have the schedule for day so don't know what's possible.

B6

I know I have to be back in DC for the dinner at State.

What do you know about the Time dinner and who's working on remarks--they should be funny and short. Is it black tie?

I will stay in NY May 10-13 and come back during day on 14th.

And I will be in NY May 25-28 and come back early the 29th and leave as planned for Tromso on the 30th, spend day of 31st there, then to Oslo. What happens in what order on the 1st-8th? What do I do in Istanbul the 7th and 8th besides the Forum? Am I still doing Armenia, Georgia and Azer? I could go right to NY from Andrews for weekend and come back to DC morning of the 11th.

Any further thoughts about event I could do in California either evening of Thursday June 14 or morning of 15th? If not, pls book commercial flight for evening of 14.
What is schedule? [REDACTED]

- May 10th-15th. Stay in NYC after womens breakfast and come back in time for FAPE dinner on the 15th. Unless we attempt to move FAPE to the 17th which will give you 2 more days.

- May 25-30th: Extend Memorial day weekend. Depart for norway on the 31st, do oslo on the 1st, do tromso on back end. [REDACTED]
[REDACTED]

- June is an impossible month
- July we can keep July 18th-30th open for you. But that might be too far down the road?
Let me know what you think.

I have to give the Peruvians a date for their social inclusion summit and I want to stop in Central America. I'm looking at October. The Pathways mtg is in Cali, Columbia Oct 24-26 so we could factor that in as well. It may also be my last time to go to Mexico to say goodbye to the Calderone Admin and to meet the new.

Anyway, the urgency is Peru so let's decide soon to tell them.

Dear Hillary:

I saw Theresa Loar at a reception last night and she was speaking very highly of her friendship with you. I hope all is well.

I am writing now with a request. In June (mid/end) I am guest editing one issue of the New Statesman - a (serious) British weekly current affairs magazine. This is not the start of a journalistic career! But politics here is pretty stuck and this is one way of providing some ventilation.

I would love to have an article from you in the magazine (or an interview). It could be about the state of the world ("Why America is not in decline") or "How globalisation can be made progressive". Or it could be more personal - about your passion for women's empowerment as real foreign policy. Or just "10 things I have learnt as Secretary of State". (I assume something more political is ruled out.)

Really the choice is yours - but I hope it would be a chance to set out something you care about.

Many thanks. I hope this works out.

It would be a real boost.

David

- 1) There will be a memorial service for B Rapaport in DC on May 15 at 5pm that I have to go to. I don't know where but Bill is speaking.
- 2) Can I fly w Bill to California June 14 if one of the events he's doing is a Democratic party fundraiser altho the other is charitable? What are the rules? Can I fly back w him? But he may fly straight to Brazil according to his schedule. We need to sort out so I can make plans.
- 3) The Foundation is holding Oct 25, 29 and 30 for its Gala in NYC so I'd like option of doing. If it is the 25th, that likely means no Pathways in Cali, Columbia. HUMA--do you know anything more about the date?
- 4) Bill is having his Foundation retreat Nov 9-11 in Little Rock. Pls put as option for me. And also as option the Club of Madrid there Dec. 17-18. WE STILL NEED LR DATES FOR THE EXHIBIT ON OUR MOTHERS AND THE AIRPORT DEDICATION.
- 5) Pls be sure Bill's office knows we have a mtg in the City at 4 on Friday--same place as one last month. And, I assume I'm on the 2pm shuttle?

Pir and just did a call with cheryl. And looped kurt and jake as well. We all agree given the present circumstance, not ideal to do it there. Even though issue doesn't come out till sept, concern is there could be a leak that u did shoot. Pir is calling traveler to see what arrangements they are able to make. I love the idea of a photo in bangladesh - no one does that. Would be unique. And so would kolkata. We will keep you looped as pir hears back.

You have had quite a few days! But bravo on pulling it out. I truly wished I could have been with you on the ground. This is no time to be sending you extra reading, but I have written a piece on women, work-family balance, and how far our society still needs to go for The Atlantic (it is slated to be the cover story for the July-August issue). I think you will like it and will certainly enjoy reading it, as it naturally deals a great deal with my time in DC. I'll send it within the next week. But I want to make sure you are comfortable with the one place that I quote you directly:

"Ten years later, whenever I am introduced at a lecture or a speech, I insist that the person introducing me mention that I have two sons. It seems odd to me to list degrees, awards, positions, and interests and not include the dimension of my life that is most important to me—and that takes an enormous amount of my time. As Secretary Clinton once said in a television interview in Beijing when the interviewer asked her about Chelsea's upcoming wedding: "That's my real life.""

I am certain that is what you said, because it struck me so forcefully, but there is no public record. So please let me know via Huma or Cheryl.

Best,
AM

Dear Huma,

Please keep this confidential. ☐ Could you give this to Hillary?

Thank you,

Grace Nelson

Dear Hillary,

I want to let you know I will be going to Rwanda in mid June for their National Day of Forgiveness and taking women leaders from other nation's. ☐ Jeannette Kagame and Aloisea Inyumba have been friends since our first trip there and they have invited us to the event. ☐ We are going to be there for 3 days early to focus on the friendship and on what is of true value. ☐ These women have attended the National Prayer Breakfast through the years ☐ We are dreaming for a Revolution of Love ☐ The division and hate is our biggest problem ☐ If we can get our relationships right, we can solve our problems so these women want to be a voice in their nation. ☐ To encourage "treating others the way you want to be treated." ☐ I just got off the phone with our Ambassador Don Koran, discussing the trip with him. ☐ I just thought I would let you know that I am planning on going.

Much love from your friend and sister,

Grace

We were also surprised that the conference was moved from the ciragan. We found that out after you left for trip just a few days ago. We told post months ago we wanted ciragan. Its crazy expensive and they always have limited rooms In any case, I've never been crazy about the rooms there and your room is nothing great. What makes it spectacular is the view. Do you want me to try and switch people so you can move to the conrad? I'm not sure we can but we can at least try. Let me know.

RELEASE IN FULL

FINAL (Mulvey)

SECRETARY OF STATE HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON
CHILD SURVIVAL CALL TO ACTION KEYNOTE REMARKS
WASHINGTON, DC
THURSDAY, JUNE 14, 2012

Thank you, Senator Isakson. Johnny and I served together on the Senate HELP Committee, where we worked on a range of issues including children's health, so thank you for your leadership and for joining our call to action today.

I want to acknowledge our co-hosts, Minister Azad from India and Minister Tedros from Ethiopia. Your countries are two of the hardest hit by child mortality, but you aren't shying away from the challenge. You are putting this problem front and center, not just at home but on the global stage. When we talk about country ownership—as I did in Oslo two weeks ago—this is exactly what we mean. Thank you for your leadership and your partnership.

FINAL (Mulvey)

Let me also acknowledge all our partners from the private sector, non-profit groups, and faith-based organizations who are here.

Saving children's lives isn't just a job for governments.

Partnerships involving many of the governments, corporations, and civil society groups represented in this room have yielded nearly a quarter of a billion dollars for fighting preventable child deaths.

More than 60 faith-based organizations from 40 countries are making new commitments that will reach more than 250 million people, encouraging mothers to breastfeed their newborns, immunize their children, and go to the doctor when their kids are sick. That's what shared responsibility is all about.

And, finally, I want to thank Raj Shah for organizing this conference and for his outstanding leadership of USAID.

FINAL (Mulvey)

Now some of you may have seen a picture of a very young Rajiv in the last few weeks as part of this campaign. I also dug up a photo of myself at age five, and it reminded me so much of that time in my life. Looking forward to growing up, going to school, making friends—all the things we want for our own children. I was lucky. All those dreams were possible for me. But this year millions of children will never get to take a similar photo, because they won't survive their first five years.

That isn't the future we want for our children, or for anyone's children. And so we are all here today with one vision: to make sure every child lives to see his or her fifth birthday... to eliminate preventable child death in a generation.

This is a big goal, to say the least. Last year, I laid out a vision of an AIDS-free generation. Ending preventable child deaths is just as ambitious.

FINAL (Mulvey)

Now, not everyone agrees that goals like this are achievable or that we should set our sights so high. But we have good reasons for optimism. We already have many of the tools and much of the knowledge we need, whether it's good nutrition for expecting mothers or the best way to prevent malaria in the first few years of life. And these tools and knowledge have brought us a long way already. In just the past 50 years, child mortality has plummeted by 70 percent. In two decades, we've cut the number of children who die each year by more than 4 million.

FINAL (Mulvey)

This is one of history's great development stories. And yet: progress is not the same thing as success. The raw numbers alone are mind-boggling. This year, more than 7 million children will die from preventable causes before they reach their fifth birthday. That's roughly the population of New York City. And the gap between rich and poor is just as shocking. A child born in sub-Saharan Africa is seven times more likely to die before the age of 5 than one born in the United States. Child-mortality rates are coming down—but slowly. On the current trajectory, they will be the same in rich and poor countries... in a century.

That's too long. We can't wait a hundred years for a child from Pakistan or Nigeria to have the same chance at life as a child in the United States. Think about the millions of lives we'll lose. Think of the parents who will grieve the loss of not just one child, but two or three. None of us want to live in a world where a child's life comes down to the luck of the draw.

FINAL (Mulvey)

And this isn't only about building a more just and equitable world. Bringing down child mortality rates also makes the world more prosperous and more stable.

Consider the so-called demographic dividend. In many developing countries, the population looks like a pyramid, with a small number of working-age adults supporting far more children and young people. In the developing world, 40 percent of the people are under the age of 20. That limits the opportunities for economic growth and puts an enormous strain on the government to provide schools, health care, and other services.

FINAL (Mulvey)

But we can change the shape of this pyramid—if we drive down child mortality, along with investing in girls' education and improving access to voluntary family planning. It sounds like a paradox, but when fewer children die, people choose to have smaller families, knowing their kids will survive to adulthood. Eventually there are more working adults supporting fewer dependents, which makes it easier for the country to make investments that drive sustained economic growth.

And that country will likely be more stable, less prone to political crises, and more apt to become a partner that can help solve global problems.

So for all these reasons—politically, economically, morally—we see the benefits of saving children's lives.

FINAL (Mulvey)

That's why I'm so excited about the goal of this conference: to accelerate our progress... to make sure that one day all children, wherever they're born, have the same chance to survive... and to see this day arrive not in a hundred years, but within our lifetimes.

So how do we speed up our progress? How do we bend the curve and drive down the number of child deaths even faster?

It begins by changing the way we approach the problem. The evidence tells us what works, but we need to be more rigorous about following that evidence. We've set targets for reduction, but even if we achieve Millennium Development Goal 4, millions of children will still die every year from preventable causes. To accelerate progress, we need a new way forward. That's why we're all here—representatives from 80 countries. That's the goal of the new Global Roadmap for reducing child mortality that you'll be discussing over the next two days.

FINAL (Mulvey)

Later today, Secretary Sebelius will commit the United States to this new plan. I ask that each of you join this effort as well.

This Roadmap identifies five ways we can shift our work—based on the evidence—to speed up our progress and save far more lives.

First, we'll focus our efforts in the countries where child mortality rates are the highest. Eighty percent of children's deaths occur in 24 countries, but those countries don't receive nearly 80 percent of global support or funding. We want to work with those governments willing to lead the effort within their own borders. We're joined today by leaders from India, Pakistan, Ethiopia, Nigeria, and the Democratic Republic of Congo—the five countries that suffer half of all childhood deaths. You'll hear from all of them about how they're meeting this challenge, just as you'll hear about our efforts here in the United States.

FINAL (Mulvey)

Even as we focus on the hardest-hit countries, we will also identify the specific populations where children are most vulnerable. That's the second shift. Wherever you find inequality holding people back, you're likely to find a higher child mortality rate. It may be a slum where vaccinations are hard to come by. Or a rural area where the water isn't safe to drink. No matter the situation, we will find the communities where children are suffering most and tailor our responses to their specific needs.

Third, we'll prioritize fighting the illnesses and conditions that are claiming the most lives. Pneumonia. Diarrhea. Neonatal complications. We will scale up the most effective solutions and support innovative research into new lifesaving measures.

FINAL (Mulvey)

At the same time, we recognize that children aren't born into a vacuum. They are surrounded by families and communities—and the strength of those families and communities can mean the difference between life and death. So the fourth shift is to look at the broader social and economic factors that are closely linked to high child mortality. Are girls being educated? Are women empowered? Do they have access to family planning? Can they make decisions about when to take their children to the clinic? Is the government making investments that drive inclusive economic growth? Child survival is strongly correlated with each of these areas—and we will seek to advance them.

Finally, we will make mutual accountability and transparency a centerpiece of our efforts. Now, the word “accountability” gets used a lot in development circles. If everyone who talked about accountability was actually held accountable, we wouldn't need to have events like this one. But by coming together to support this agenda, we can all work to give accountability some teeth.

FINAL (Mulvey)

Ethiopia's leadership is a great case in point. As Minister Tedros said, his government is using a scorecard to track their progress, providing transparency and accountability for their commitments. If every country developed their own scorecard and came together every year to share their data, we'd know who was living up to their commitments and who was falling short.

For our part, the United States is committed to making these five shifts part of our broader effort to change the way we do business.

Already we are the largest funder of children's health—including maternal care, family planning, nutrition, and other areas. Last year alone, PEPFAR reached 660,000 HIV-positive pregnant women, enabling 200,000 babies to be born HIV-free. And PEPFAR has joined UNAIDS in leading a partnership to virtually end mother-to-child transmission by 2015.

FINAL (Mulvey)

We will maintain that kind of financial, technical, and diplomatic commitment even as we do a better job coordinating our programs and aligning our resources to support country-led plans.

And we're supporting several new initiatives that will help put this new Roadmap to the test.

Along with the Norwegian government, Merck, Every Mother Counts, and the American College of OB/GYNs, we recently helped launch Saving Mothers, Giving Life, a public-private partnership that will work to protect mothers and newborns during labor and delivery.

FINAL (Mulvey)

We have also partnered with seven organizations to launch Survive and Thrive, which will connect health care professionals in the United States with their counterparts in low- and middle-income countries so they can share insights and strengthen their skills in caring for mothers, newborns, and young children.

And finally, we are launching the Women's Health Innovation Program—a partnership with the What To Expect Foundation and the Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation that will provide expecting mothers with pregnancy information, education, and social support.

I'm eager to see what other commitments will be made today and tomorrow. But more important is what happens on Monday, and next week, and next year. Because we can only meet our goal if we keep up the efforts, day after day, year after year, and if we are relentless about holding each others' feet to the fire.

FINAL (Mulvey)

I think about the great global health stories of our time. In the 20th century, the world came together to eradicate smallpox. We're close to finishing the job on polio. If we meet the goal we are committing to today – if we make sure that every child everywhere has the same chance to reach his or her fifth birthday – then we will have added another story to the short list of the greatest things people have ever done for one another. We will have set ourselves on a path to a world that is more stable, more prosperous, and more just.

And it will all have started here, with a simple call to action. I am honored to stand with all of you as we make this pledge together.

Thank you.

[pause]

FINAL (Mulvey)

Now it's my pleasure to welcome another tireless partner in this effort. Ben Affleck's work has shined a light on the struggles facing the people of eastern Congo. When I visited there in 2009, I saw firsthand how the Eastern Congo Initiative is supporting civil society groups to meet some of the biggest challenges in that country. Please help me welcome ECI's founder, Ben Affleck.

MS -- Huma and I spoke earlier about next Saturday. I have notionally worked out the 3pm speaking slot at the Goldman Sachs Tower in Jersey City. That is during their regular working session, after lunch and before gala dinner. We can do in and out -- speaking and departing, saves you from sitting through a meal. USSS has confirmed a 60 minute drive time so departing Chappaqua at 2pm.

I did check in with Geither (who did this 2 or 3 years ago and was "very unlikely") and Nides (traveling overseas). Hormats is scheduled to speak at a different time, I believe on Friday.

The Spanish FM has said he is canceling but I am sure upon hearing you are coming on Saturday, will reverse his decision. I will call Mendendez's office shortly to confirm Saturday.

The Secretary's Call Sheet for Saudi Foreign Minister Prince Saud al-Faisal

Purpose of Call: To express your condolences following the death of Crown Prince, Deputy Prime Minister, and Minister of Interior Naif bin Abdulaziz.

Expression of Condolence: I am truly sorry to hear of Crown Prince Naif's [NAI-yif] passing. He was a dedicated public servant and a true partner in our joint efforts to combat extremism and promote stability and security in the region. His contributions as Crown Prince and Minister of Interior have been invaluable to these efforts. We will sorely miss his partnership and advice, and my thoughts and prayers are with you and your family.

Delegation: We are now in the process of assembling an official delegation to personally pay our condolences to King Abdullah and the Saudi people and government. Our Embassy will be in touch with more details. We would welcome any guidance on the right time for the delegation to come to the Kingdom.

Background: On June 16, Saudi Crown Prince Naif bin Abdulaziz passed away in Geneva, Switzerland, where he had gone for medical tests. The official announcement did not name the cause of death, but he was known to have suffered from multiple illnesses, including heart disease and diabetes, and associated complications. His body will be flown back to the Kingdom on June 16, with funeral prayers performed after sunset on Sunday, June 17 at the Grand Mosque in Mecca. The funeral will likely be followed by a three-day period of official mourning beginning June 18. The Allegiance Commission, convened by King Abdullah, will then meet to discuss Naif's successor. Minister of Defense Salman bin Abdulaziz is widely expected to be named the new Crown Prince. King Abdullah will also need to appoint a new Interior Minister.

In this scenario, no speech in finland - they wanted a womens event. Ambassador said I was being over-sensitive to the idea of re-creating a big speech, that the fins didn't care. You would take the original osce themed/ now more general speech and do it in latvia as a topper at townnterview in latvia.

Sounds like you have had a crazy weekend. I can only imagine how happy margorie was to see you. Europe trip is coming together ok. How do you feel about only having one townnterview on this trip? Just in latvia and not move ahead with Finland In all our back and forth, it hasn't really come together and there has been so much of an emphasis on a womens theme in finland which none of us think makes sense. So I think you can do a good townnterview in latvia and just talk about finlands wonderful womens empowerment in your public remarks at press conference. Ok?

My proposal for the OTRs is below. You will visit 2 of the great sites (monument and Catherines Palace) on your official schedule already. let me know what you think.

9:30-11am

Leave the hotel on foot, walk to St Isaacs Cathedral, walk along River Bank, visit Peter the Greats Statue, visit the Palace Square, end up at the must-see Hermitage Museum.

11am-1:00pm

Hermitage Museum tour (can be from 45min-2 hours)

1:30pm-3:00pm

Either visit a second museum, the Russian Museum or go to lunch at a nice cafe/restaurant.

3:30pm-4:30

Downtime to prepare for evening events

ART: The Hermitage Museum

Картина 3 из 16013

Картина 5 из 16013

The foundation of the Hermitage Museum was laid in 1764, when Empress Catherine the Great purchased a considerable collection of European paintings for a new pavilion to be built near her Winter Palace. The Winter Palace was home to the tsars until 1917. The collection of the State Hermitage includes more than three million works of art and artifacts.

ART: The State Russian Museum This is an art museum housing art by Russian artists (all non-Russian art is at the Hermitage). They have art ranging from icons from the 13th century to paintings from the 18th century.

Картина 2 из 7940

The Russian Museum was the first state museum of Russian fine art in the country. It was established during the reign of Emperor Nicholas II and opened for visitors in March 1898. The museum is located in the Mikhailovskiy Palace, which was constructed in 1825 for Great Prince Mikhail, the brother of Tsar Alexander I. The Russian Museum is a unique depository of artistic treasures and houses numerous collections of outstanding Russian painters, such as Repin, Kandinskiy, Malevich, and others.

History/Culture: The Catherine Palace

 <http://www.spb-rf.ru/images/pushkin%20188.jpg> http://tzar.testing.spb.ru/files/Images/Catherine%20Palace/The%20Amber%20Room/img\_09.jpg

The Catherine Palace (until 1910 known as the Great Palace of Tsarskoye Selo) is situated in the town of Tsarskoye Selo (renamed Pushkin during the Soviet Era after Russia's great bard) about 20 kilometers from St. Petersburg. The palace was completed in 1756 and became one of the most luxurious summer residences of the Russian Tsars. After the October revolution of 1917 the palace was turned into a museum. It was largely destroyed during WWII. Extensive restorations took place after the war, and the palace was reopened in 1959. Of particular interest is the famous Amber Room, a gift from King Frederick William I to Emperor Peter the Great, which was lost during the Nazi occupation of the area. Restoration of the stunning Amber Room was completed in 2003.

 St Isaac's Cathedral

St. Isaac's was built between 1818 and 1858 by the French-born architect Montferrand. The cathedral's dome served as the architectural model for the reconstruction of the United States Capitol dome. Its facades are decorated with sculptures and massive granite columns, while the interior is adorned with detailed mosaic icons, paintings and columns made of malachite and lapis lazuli. Designed to accommodate 14,000 standing worshippers, the cathedral was closed in the early 1930s and reopened as a museum. Today, church services are held here only on major ecclesiastical occasions.

History/Culture: Statue of Peter the Great There is a famous statue of Peter the Great in a park near the hotel (just on the other side of St. Isaac's Cathedral) which is also easily walkable. It is a famous statue of Peter on a horse overlooking the river. For Russians it is one of the most popular statues in the city.

Dear Hillary,

Hope you are having □ at least a handful of stolen pleasures this □ summer! I want to run an idea past you and see if you like it. I am producing □ a Newsweek & The Daily Beast summit in November, which we have named The Hero Summit. It will be a powerful two-day gathering at the Institute of Peace on November 14-15, 2012 where we explore issues of war and peace, present the stories of men and women whose courageous service in the Armed Forces inspires us and discuss how we now maximize the potential of returning veterans and ensure their continued welfare. Jane Harman is helping us with her terrific knowledge of national security issues. And on the second night, Stephen Spielberg is giving us an exclusive screening of his new movie, LINCOLN, followed by a discussion with himself, Daniel Day Lewis, and Tony Kushner.

We're planning a keynote luncheon conversation on November 15th and would love it □ if □ you would consider joining with former Secretary Gates to appear together to discuss how "soft" and "hard" power can be used in concert to approach geopolitics and national security. Given that the Summit is a week after the election, all thoughts will be on how America begins anew and re-considers its role and responsibilities in the context of a new economy. I think a conversation between the two of □ you would be □ agenda-setting. The audience will be every bit as influential as Women in the World.

Is there any chance you might be □ available to participate in the Summit? (Clearly we would be flexible if lunch time didn't work.) □ If □ you are able, do you like the idea □ of joining with Secretary Gates? I have not asked him yet as I wanted to first sound you out. I would be so thrilled if you can do it!

Best,
Tina

Subject: IMPORTANT TRIP INFO: Staff Memo for SecState Departure for EUR-EAP-NEA Trip on July 5-15, 2012

Attached is the guest/staff memo plus weather forecast for travelers on the Secretary's plane for the EUR-EAP-NEA trip on July 5-15, 2012.

- 1) We have a confirmed wheels up time of 10:00am on Thursday, July 5. Transportation will leave at 7:45am due to morning rush hour and road construction en route to AAFB. We strongly encourage all travelers to take the staff vans, especially if you are returning to Washington commercially or are not familiar with driving to Andrews.
- 2) There will be a classified briefing at the DV Lounge for USG travelers - please see the attached guest memo for details.
- 3) For those self-driving to Andrews on Thursday, please note check-in time and parking procedures on the staff memo. Please be mindful of morning rush hour traffic.
- 4) Please send an email to me and SES-EX_GSO if you place any baggage behind the Line.
- 5) Please confirm your method of transportation to AAFB as soon as possible and let me know if you have any questions.

Thanks!

Well, even though ryan was in vintage outraged form, it looks like things will stay as is with the meet and greet first. But will know for sure when they start waking up there. his staff is half-terrified they made the change without asking him and half rolling their eyes at his reaction. We left it at our end that we would be respectful of the ambassadors wishes and asked them to lei us know what to do since he's so upset.

So we aren't sure we can do the meet and greet first. Ryan really doesn't want to change it and they had a hard time reaching people to make the change. So may need to keep to original plan.

Its a long story.

Ashton was first upset because siem reap was sold to her as a joint ashton/clinton womens event. None of us knew that. she wasn't even on our schedule. She was told that we couldn't appear with her, that she should speak early and you would come later. She then learned that you had downtime before the event and said she wouldn't bother coming in that case. Steven called to tell me how upset she was, told him we had no idea and that you would of course stay for ashtons remarks. Steven said she was so far over the edge, he wasn't sure he could convince her. He then volunteered that she was also disappointed to hear that she wasn't included in EAS. Cambodians assured they would include her as an honorary guest as they have done for others in the past. Have shared this with boys too to see if there's anything we can do.

Steven suggested a bilat in pp instead. I suggested breakfast before EAS. He said they couldn't do 9am cause she like everyone else is going to see PM.

We left it that he would go back on Siem Reap.

Before steven called back, our guys offered a bilat in pp at 9am even though they were on all these email exchanges to hold. So when you emailed me steven had just called to say that they got the hint that not only did we not want her in siem reap, but we were making a bilat in pp impossible by officially offering a time that didn't work.

So, after all the back and forth, siem reap is still off. I assured him we would do a bilat in pp, it wouldn't be at 9am. She has open slots between wed and thurs. We could do thursday breakfast at 8am or we can do late afternoon at 5:45pm. Really up to you.

Hi Monica,

SRAP just sent up this thank you cable and letter for Ambassador Munter that they would like S to approve this weekend. They would like the text of the cable to be read out aloud at Ambassador Munter's farewell ceremony on Monday; for the cable to arrive in time in Islamabad, it must go out this weekend. The hard copy of the letter can wait for S' signature on Monday.

Would it be possible to run the cable by S for her approval this weekend? Thanks!

RELEASE IN FULL

Dear Mr. Ambassador:

I want to express my deep appreciation for your exceptional service as U.S. Ambassador to Pakistan during two of the most challenging years in the history of our bilateral relationship. During my visits to Islamabad over the past two years, I saw first-hand the great regard that your staff, colleagues, and Pakistani counterparts have for you. It is a testament to your leadership, exemplary service, and commitment to our Mission.

The work you and Mission Pakistan have done to further U.S. policy, under very difficult circumstances, is truly remarkable. Your efforts have helped to guide the bilateral relationship toward a more stable, realistic future. As I look back on the past year's challenges – including the May 2 raid in Abbottabad that killed Osama bin Laden, the November 26 cross-border incident, and the closure of the ground lines of communication – your efforts were instrumental in resolving each crisis and maintaining our relations with a country that is vital to our national security interests.

As you return to Washington, I want to extend to you my personal thanks for your contributions to our nation. We are all the better for your service to our country. I wish you all the best in your retirement.

With appreciation and best wishes, I am

Sincerely yours,

Hillary Rodham Clinton

July 20, 2012

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

ACTION MEMO FOR THE SECRETARY

FROM: S/SRAP – Marc Grossman

SUBJECT: (SBU) Thank You Letter to Ambassador Munter

Recommendation

(SBU) That you sign the attached letter, which will also be sent as a cable, to Ambassador Cameron Munter, thanking him for his service and dedication to our Mission in Pakistan. The letter will be presented to him during your upcoming meeting in Washington. The text of the cable will be read aloud during his July 23 farewell ceremony at post.

Approve _____ Disapprove _____

Background

(SBU) Ambassador Cameron Munter will depart post early morning July 24. The letter recognizes his leadership and dedication as U.S. Ambassador to Pakistan. Under difficult circumstances, Ambassador Munter helped to further our bilateral relationship with Pakistan through his sustained efforts to encourage Pakistani counterterrorism cooperation, support for the NATO campaign in Afghanistan, robust people-to-people ties, and religious tolerance. Ambassador Munter is requesting a meeting with you when he is in Washington for outgoing consultations.

For your situational awareness, we've included a note below from Ops:

Spain's king ousted as WWF honorary president

MADRID - (AP) The World Wildlife Fund's branch in Spain says it has ousted King Juan Carlos as its honorary president, a title he'd held since 1968, because the monarch's recent elephant hunting safari was incompatible with the group's goal of conserving endangered species.

The fund said in a statement that "although such hunting is legal and regulated" it had "received many expressions of distress from its members and society in general." It says members voted in a meeting in Madrid on Saturday to "to get rid of the honorary President."

News of the king's April elephant hunting trip in Botswana upset many Spaniards who considered it an opulent extravagance at a time of economic distress in the country.

The Royal Palace declined immediate comment on the WWF announcement.

SECRETARY OF STATE HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON
REMARKS AT THE 2012 INTERNATIONAL AIDS
CONFERENCE
WASHINGTON, DC
MONDAY, JULY 23, 2012

It has been far too long since anyone could say these five words at the International AIDS Conference: "Welcome to the United States." I'm delighted that we finally have you all back.

I want to thank the leaders of the many countries who have joined us today. I also want to acknowledge my colleagues from Congress who have contributed so much to the fight against AIDS. And finally, let me salute all of the people here who actually do the work. On behalf of all Americans, thank you.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

Think how far we've come since the last time this conference was held in the United States. It was 1990, in San Francisco. Dr. Eric Goosby, who's now our Global AIDS Ambassador, ran a triage center for all the HIV-positive people who became sick during the conference. They set up IV drips to rehydrate patients. They gave antibiotics to people with AIDS-related pneumonia. Many had to be hospitalized, and a few died.

Even at a time when the world's response to the epidemic was sorely lacking, there were places and people of caring, where people with AIDS found support. But, tragically, there was so little that could be done medically. Thankfully, that has changed. Caring brought action, and action has made an impact.

The ability to prevent and treat the disease has advanced beyond what anyone might have reasonably hoped 22 years ago. AIDS is still incurable, but it no longer has to be a death sentence.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

This is a tribute to the work of countless people around the world—many of whom are here at this conference. And for decades, the United States has played a key role. Starting in the 1990s under the Clinton Administration—we helped make HIV treatment drugs more affordable in sub-Saharan Africa. And then in 2003, President Bush launched PEPFAR with strong bipartisan support from Congress, and this country began treating millions of people.

Today, we're building on this legacy. PEPFAR is shifting out of emergency mode and starting to build sustainable health systems that will help win this fight and deliver an AIDS-free generation. It's hard to overstate how sweeping—or how crucial—this change is. When President Obama took office, we knew that if we were going to win the fight against AIDS, we couldn't keep treating it as an emergency. We had to fundamentally change the way we, and our global partners, did business.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

We've engaged diplomatically—with Ministers of Finance and Health, but also with Presidents and Prime Ministers—to listen and learn about their priorities and needs in order to chart the best way forward together. That's required difficult conversations about issues that some leaders don't want to face—like government corruption, or injecting drug users. But it has been an essential part of helping more countries manage more of their own response to the epidemic.

We've also focused on supporting high-impact interventions, making tough decisions driven by science about what we will and will not fund. We're delivering more results for the American taxpayer's dollar by taking simple steps like switching to generic drugs, which saved more than $380 million in 2010 alone.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

And, crucially, we've vastly improved our coordination with the Global Fund; where we used to work independently of each other, we now sit down together to decide, for example, which of us will fund AIDS treatment, and which of us will fund the delivery of that treatment. That's a new way of working together for both of us.

All these strategic shifts have required a lot of heavy lifting. But it only matters if it means we're saving more lives. And we are.

Since 2009, we've more than doubled the number of people who get treatment that keeps them alive. We're also reaching far more people with prevention, testing, and counseling.

FINAL (Daniel)

I want to thank Dr. Eric Goosby, who has been on the front lines of all this work since the 1980s. More than anyone else, he had a vision for what PEPFAR needed to become and the tenacity to make it happen. And I want also to thank his extraordinary partners Dr. Tom Frieden at CDC and Dr. Raj Shah at USAID.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

Now, with the progress we have made together, we can look ahead to a historic goal: creating an AIDS-free generation.

This is part of President Obama's call to make fighting global HIV/AIDS at home and abroad a priority for his administration. In July 2010, he launched the first comprehensive National HIV/AIDS Strategy, which has reinvigorated the domestic response to the epidemic.

FINAL (Daniel)

And last November, at the National Institutes of Health, I spoke in depth about the goal of an AIDS-free generation. I laid out some of the ways we are advancing it through PEPFAR, USAID, and the CDC. On World AIDS Day, President Obama announced an ambitious commitment to reach 6 million people globally with lifesaving treatment.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

Since that time, I've heard people raising questions about America's commitment to an AIDS-free generation. They wonder whether we're really serious about achieving it.

I am here today to make it clear: The United States is committed, and will remain committed, to an AIDS-free generation. We will not back off. We will not back down. We will stand up and fight for the resources necessary to achieve this historic milestone.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

I know many of you are passionate about achieving this goal. In fact, some would say I'm preaching to the choir. But right now, I think we need a little preaching to the choir. We need the choir and the congregation to keep singing, lifting their voices up, and spreading our message to everyone who's still standing outside.

So while I want to reaffirm my government's commitment, I'm also here to boost yours. This is a fight we can win. We've come so far already—too far to stop now.

Today I want to describe some of the progress we've made toward that goal and some of the work ahead.

FINAL (Daniel)

Let me begin by defining what we mean by an AIDS-free generation. It is a time when, first, virtually no children are born with the virus; second, as these children become teenagers and adults, they are at significantly lower risk of becoming infected than they would be today; and third, if they do acquire HIV, they have access to treatment that helps prevent them from developing AIDS and passing the virus on to others.

HIV may be with us well into the future. But the disease that it causes need not be.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

As of last fall, every agency in the U.S. government involved in this effort is working to get us on the path to an AIDS-free generation. We're focusing on what we call combination prevention. Our strategy includes condoms, counseling, and testing, and places special emphasis on three other interventions: treatment as prevention; voluntary medical male circumcision; and stopping the transmission of HIV from mothers to children.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, ComplexScript Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

Since November, we have elevated combination prevention in all our HIV/AIDS work—including right here in Washington, which still has the highest HIV rate of any large city in our country. Globally, we have supported our partner countries' shifting their investments toward the specific mix of prevention tools that will have the greatest impact for their people. For example, Haiti is scaling up its efforts to prevent mother-to-child transmission, including full treatment for mothers with HIV, which will in turn prevent new infections. And for the first time, its Ministry of Health is committing its own funding to provide anti-retroviral treatment.

We're also making notable progress on the three pillars of our combination-prevention strategy.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

On treatment as prevention, the United States has added funding for nearly 600,000 more people since September, which means we're reaching nearly 4.5 million people now and are closing in on our national goal of 6 million by the end of next year. That's our contribution to the global effort to reach universal coverage.

On male circumcision, we've supported more than 400,000 procedures since last December alone. And I'm pleased to announce that PEPFAR will provide an additional $40 million to support South Africa's plans to provide voluntary medical circumcisions for almost a half million boys and men in the coming year. This procedure reduces the risk of female-to-male transmission by more than 60 percent, for the rest of the man's life—so the impact is phenomenal.

FINAL (Daniel)

In Kenya and Tanzania, mothers asked for circumcision campaigns during school vacations so their teenage sons could participate. In Zimbabwe, some male lawmakers wanted to show their constituents how safe and virtually painless this procedure is—so they went to a mobile clinic and got circumcised. That's the kind of leadership we welcome.

We're also seeing the development of new tools that would allow people to perform the procedure with less training and equipment than they need today, without compromising safety. When such a device is approved by the World Health Organization, PEPFAR is ready to support it right away.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

On mother-to-child transmission, we're committed to eliminating it by 2015—getting the number to zero. Over the years, we've invested more than $1 billion for this effort. In the first half of this fiscal year, we reached more than 370,000 women globally, and we're on track to hit PEPFAR's target of reaching an additional 1.5 million women by next year.

We're also setting out to overcome one of the biggest hurdles in getting to zero. When women are identified as HIV-positive and eligible for treatment, they're often referred to another clinic—one that may be too far away for them to reach. As a result, too many women never start treatment.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

Today I am announcing that the United States will invest an additional $80 million to fill this gap. These funds will support innovative approaches to ensure that HIV-positive pregnant women get the treatment they need to protect themselves, their babies, and their partners.

So let there be no mistake: The United States is accelerating its work on all three of these fronts in the effort to create an AIDS-free generation.

Let's look at how all these elements can come together to make a historic impact.

In Zambia, we're supporting the government as they step up their efforts to prevent mother-to-child transmission. Between 2009 and 2011, the number of new infections went down by more than half. Half!

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

And we're just getting started. Together, we're going to keep up our momentum on mother-to-child transmission. In addition, we will help many more Zambians get on treatment and support a massive scale-up of male circumcision as well—two steps that, according to our models, will drive down the number of new sexually transmitted infections there by more than 25 percent over the next five years. As the number of new infections in Zambia goes down, it will be possible to treat more people than are becoming infected each year. We will, for the first time, get ahead of the pandemic there. And eventually, an AIDS-free generation of Zambians will be in sight.

Think of the lives we can touch in Zambia alone—all the mothers, fathers, and children who will never have their lives ripped apart by this disease. Now multiply that across the many other countries we're working with. If you're not getting excited, please raise your hand and we'll have someone come check your pulse.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

Now, creating an AIDS-free generation takes more than the right tools, as important as they are. Ultimately, it's about people—the people who have the most to contribute to this goal, and the most to gain from it. That means, for example, embracing the essential role that communities play—especially people living with HIV—and the critical work of faith-based organizations. We also need to make sure we're looking out for orphans and vulnerable children, who are too often overlooked in this epidemic.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

I want to highlight the particular role that women play. In sub-Saharan Africa, women account for 60 percent of those living with HIV. Women want to protect themselves from HIV, and they want access to adequate health care. We need to answer their call. PEPFAR is part of our comprehensive effort to meet the health needs of women and girls, working across the U.S. government and with our partners on HIV, maternal and child health, and reproductive health—including voluntary family planning and the Child Survival Call to Action.

Every woman should be able to decide when and whether to have children. This is true whether she is HIV-positive or not. I agree with the strong message that came out of the London summit on family planning earlier this month. There should be no controversy about this. None.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

Across all our health and development work, the United States is emphasizing gender equality because women need and deserve a voice in the decisions that affect their lives. We're working to prevent and respond to gender-based violence, which puts women at higher risk for contracting the virus. And because women need more ways to protect themselves from HIV infection, last year we invested more than $90 million in research on microbicides. All these efforts will help close the health gap between women and men, and lead to healthier families and communities as well.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

If we're going to create an AIDS-free generation, we also need to address the needs of the people who are at the highest risk of contracting HIV. One recent study of female sex workers and those trafficked into prostitution in low- and middle-income countries found that, on average, 12 percent of them were HIV-positive—far above the rates for women at large. People who use injecting drugs account for about one third of all the people who acquire HIV outside sub-Saharan Africa. And in low- and middle-income countries, studies suggest that HIV prevalence among men who have sex with male partners could be up to 19 times higher than among the general population.

Over the years, I have seen how difficult it can be to talk about a disease that is transmitted the way AIDS is. But if we're going to beat AIDS, we can't afford to avoid sensitive conversations, and we can't fail to reach the people who are at the highest risk.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

Unfortunately, today, very few countries monitor the quality of services delivered to key populations. Fewer still rigorously assesses whether the services actually prevent transmission, or do anything to ensure that HIV-positive people in these groups get the care and treatment they need. Even worse, some take actions that—rather than discouraging risky behavior—actually drives more people into the shadows, where the epidemic is that much harder to fight.

The consequences are devastating—for the people themselves, and for the fight against HIV. When key groups are marginalized, the virus spreads rapidly within those groups, and also in the lower-risk general population. We're seeing it happen right now in eastern Europe and southeast Asia. Humans might discriminate, but viruses do not.

FINAL (Daniel)

There's an old saying that goes: "Why rob banks? Because that's where the money is." If we want to save more lives, we need to go where the virus is.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

That means science should guide our efforts. Today I am announcing three new efforts by the United States government to reach key populations. We will invest $15 million in implementation research to identify the specific interventions that are most effective for each key population. We are also launching a $20 million challenge fund that will support country-led plans to expand services for key populations. Finally, through the Robert Carr Civil Society Network Fund, we will invest $2 million to bolster the efforts of civil society groups to reach key populations.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

Americans are rightly proud of the leading role that our country plays in the fight against HIV/AIDS. The world has learned a great deal through PEPFAR about what works, and why. We've also learned a great deal about the needs that aren't being met, and how everyone can work together to meet those needs.

For our part, PEPFAR will remain at the center of America's commitment to an AIDS-free generation. I have asked Ambassador Goosby to take the lead on developing and sharing our blueprint of the goals and objectives for the next phase of our effort, and to release this blueprint by World AIDS Day this year. We want the next Congress, the next Secretary of State, and our partners around the world to have a clear picture of everything we've learned and a roadmap that shows what we will contribute to an AIDS-free generation.

FINAL (Daniel)

Reaching this goal is a shared responsibility. It begins with what we can all do to help break the chain of mother-to-child transmission. This takes leadership at every level, from investing in health care workers to removing the registration fees that discourage women from seeking care. And we need community and family leaders, from grandmothers to religious leaders, to encourage women to get tested and demand treatment if they need it.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

We also all have a shared responsibility to support multilateral institutions like the Global Fund. In recent months, as the United States has stepped up our commitment, so have Saudi Arabia, Japan, Germany, the Gates Foundation, and others. I encourage other donors—especially emerging economies—to increase their contributions to this essential organization.

FINAL (Daniel)

Finally, we all have a shared responsibility to get serious about promoting country ownership—the end state where a nation's efforts are led, implemented, and eventually paid for by its government, communities, civil society and private sector.

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

I spoke earlier about how the United States is supporting country ownership. We also look to our partner countries to do their part. They can follow the example of South Africa, Namibia, Botswana, India, and others, who are able to provide more and better care for their people because they're committing more of their own resources to HIV/AIDS. Partner countries also need to take steps like fighting corruption and making sure their systems for approving drugs are as efficient as possible.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

I began today by recalling the last time we met here in the United States. I want to close by recalling another symbol of our cause: the AIDS Memorial Quilt.

For a quarter-century, this quilt has been a source of solace and comfort for people around the world. A visible way to honor and remember and mourn husbands and wives, brothers and sisters, partners and friends.

FINAL (Daniel)

Formatted: Font: (Default) Times New Roman, 17 pt, Complex Script Font: Times New Roman, 17 pt

Some of you have seen the parts of the quilt that are on view in Washington this week. I still remember the moment in 1996 when Bill and I went to the National Mall to see the quilt for ourselves. When we saw how enormous it was, we were heartbroken. It covered acres of ground. It stretched from the Capitol building all the way to the Washington Monument. And in the months and years that followed, the quilt kept growing. In fact, that was the last time it could be displayed all at once. It just got too big. Too many people died.

We are all here because we want to bring about the day when we stop adding names. When we can come to a gathering like this one and not talk about the fight against AIDS—but instead celebrate the birth of a generation that is free of AIDS.

FINAL (Daniel)

That moment is still in the distance. But we know what road we need to take. And we're closer to the destination than we've ever been. As we continue on this journey, we should be encouraged and inspired by the knowledge of how far we've already come. Today, and this week, let us restore our faith and renew our purpose, so we may reach that goal of an AIDS-free generation together.

Thank you very much.

- as you know, ghanaian president mills is dead. not sure if that means we might need to stop in ghana given how soon your visit is. there is no word on funeral etc.
- also, johnnie feels strongly about going to kenya given the 2013 elections. can be a quick stop but you were amenable to this last time we spoke. Johnnie was recommending dropping namibia in order to do this. i am leaving namibia on schedule so you can see what it looks like.
- lastly, mandela is switching days on us which makes cape town quite a lieisurely stop. it does tighten up the joburg/pretoria schedule but it works out.

i will be in the office tomorrow and thursday fyi.

tonite: foreign minister has insisted on greeting you personally on arrival which means there will be cameras. we requested closed press but we have lost that battle.

tomorrow: Melanne has asked for a photo with Binta Diop who you know and other senegalese women leaders. they are coming to speech anyway so we will organize a photo at the beginning.

molly melching is in town and looking forward to seeing you. if you want to have drinks or dinner with her, there is a nice outdoor restaurant at the hotel you can go to. lew lukens is in touch with her. monica is looped and can take care of it.

you will notice some downtime in the middle of the day, before the meet and greet. i am not sure you need it but its there. we can always try and do meet and greet earlier so then you are just done with the day.

I know this wasn't intentional but now that everyone has been looped into the additional stops, posts and press are asking questions. So I'd like to suggest the following.

Pick what you prefer between what we discussed. If you decide you don't want to add any or all of these countries, ideally we pull the plug so the speculation stops. We can also ask Jonathan when he will be in Abuja. Benin will make anything work.

Both options are feasible. Option 1 preserves your time in Capetown. You get home the same time

Option 1: Capetown, Abuja, Accra, Cotonou, Ankara

August 9th

9am depart Cape Town ert Abuja, Nigeria, flight time 6+15 hrs, time change - 1 hour

3pm-6pm Meetings in Abuja

7pm depart Abuja ert Accra, Ghana, flight time 1+30 hrs, time change - 1 hour

7:30pm Arrive Accra and RON

August 10th

9am-12pm Funeral for President Mills

1pm depart Accra ert Cotonou, Benin, flight time 0+50, time change + 1 hour

3-5pm Events in Cotonou

5:30pm Depart Cotonou ert Ankara, flight time 6 hours, time change +2

1am Arrive Ankara and Ron

August 11th

10am-3pm Meetings with PM, FM, Opposition leaders.

4pm Depart Ankara ert AAFB, flight time (with refuel) 13 hours, time change -7

10pm Arrive AAFB

This is the option you asked about last night.

Option 2: Capetown, Cotonou, Abuja, Accra, Turkey

August 8th

9am-2pm PEPFAR, Speech, Ann Curry Interview

3pm depart Cape Town ert Cotonou, Benin, flight time 6+00 hrs, time change - 1 hour

8pm Arrive Cotonou and RON

August 9th

9am-11am Events in Cotonou

12pm Depart Cotonou ert Abuja, Nigeria, flight time 1+15 hrs, no time change

1:30-4:30pm Meetings in Abuja

5pm Depart Abuja ert Accra, Ghana, flight time 1+30 hrs, time change - 1 hour

5:30pm Arrive Accra and RON

August 10th

9am-12pm Funeral for President Mills

1pm Depart ert Ankara, flight time 6 hours, time change +3

10pm Arrive Ankara and RON

August 11th

10am-3pm Meetings with PM, FM, Opposition leaders

Dear Hillary,

Not sure if Kenya is on your itinerary, but the Acumen East African Fellows program is incredible -- would love to tell you about it. Definitely worth meeting them if you will be there, because this is a very significant investment in building human capital, and networks that cross the economic, tribal, cultural and other divides that hobble inclusive development. It was a big gamble to organize this, but the first cohort has completed their year with amazing results.

I'm actually thinking of going on this trip -- taking over your travel shoes as you hang them up for awhile! Just wish I could have traveled with you while you've been at State, but look forward to times when your life is not so completely officially orchestrated!

Dear Jan,

I am writing to invite you to join a small group of Acumen Partners for a trip to Kenya and Uganda the week of January 13th, 2013. ☐ We will spend time with the Acumen East Africa team, visit up to five Acumen investees, and also have the chance to see the work of the amazing East Africa Fellows. ☐ In addition, for those interested there is an option to extend this trip with a safari through our partner Elevate Destinations.

All details on the trip can be found here, and we will take RSVPs on a first-come first-serve basis.

East Africa has been the fastest-growing region for Acumen over the past five years, with a portfolio that's grown to $18.5 million in 13 companies across our sectors. We've seen particular growth in agriculture and renewable energy access, which will be the primary focus of this trip, and we are learning so much about how these issues directly impact the lives and well-being of our customers.

For any questions about the trip please reply to this note or contact Megan Beck at  or

We hope you can join us!

Warm regards,

batoool sig 2

Today should be ok.

Just a warning, nairobi schedule has come together very very late. So as a result, there are the expected unknowns. We thought kibaki and odinga would be joint but they refused to do that so the day has ended up you shuttling from meeting to meeting. Everyone has asked for 30 min but we padded all meetings. Reminder the somalis are fasting so we aren't serving anything even though we host.

After all the discussion about election commission, its only 8 people between the 2 groups. When they met with post, both sides say they aren't in "crisis" mode so they all expected for this to be a cordial meeting contrary to reports AF gave us last week.

Sunday is Malawi. Banda meeting is set even though they continue to say no press avail. Still working on press since otherwise you have no press conf 2 days in a row. The feed the future event is not visually mind-blowing but its a successful program and you are giving the farmers a bull which is like giving them gold! Johnnie, who has been very laid back about canceling things on this trip has begged us to keep the girls camp glow event. Its quick, its apparently a big success story in malawi. You would spend 20 min at this school. Our advance apparently left the walk through in tears cause the girls were so emotional and inspiring.

South Africa is ok, I might need to update you on some issues later today but ok for now.

Istanbul is coming together. Pm confirmed. Dav too. and looks like gul might be surfacing for too. Fred Hof has concerns about selecting specific opposition group given how cairo opposition meeting this week. Thinks too sensitive. So we will come back to you when we agree. But maybe one meeting with syrian civil society including staff who work in syrian opposition support office. And one meeting with small group of refugees.

Will keep sending updates.

NYT reporting that Marvin Hamlisch died. I assume HRC will want to send a note to his next of kin?

August 7, 2012, 9:39 AM

Marvin Hamlisch, Composer of 'A Chorus Line,' Dies at 68

By DAVE ITZKOFF

Marvin Hamlisch, the singularly productive and sensationally decorated composer of musicals like "A Chorus Line" and songs like "The Way We Were," has died, The Associated Press reported. A family spokesman told The A.P. that Mr. Hamlisch died in Los Angeles on Monday after a brief illness but did not provide additional details. Mr. Hamlisch was 68.

In a career that spanned film, television, theater and recorded music, Mr. Hamlisch won seemingly every award available in each medium. He was a 12-time Academy Award nominee, for his score and song contributions to films like "The Spy Who Loved Me" and "Sophie's Choice," and a three-time Oscar winner for the score of "The Sting" as well as the score from "The Way We Were" and its title song (with lyrics by Alan and Marilyn Bergman). He won four Emmy Awards and four Grammy Awards, as well as a Tony Award for his score to the musical "A Chorus Line." That musical, which blended bouncy, brassy songs like "One" and "Dance: Ten; Looks: Three" with melancholy numbers like "At the Ballet," also won the Pulitzer Prize for Drama in 1976.

As recently as last month, Mr. Hamlish was working on a musical adaptation of the Jerry Lewis comedy "The Nutty Professor," for which he wrote the score. According to his biography at his official Web site, he held the title of principal pops conductor for the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, the Dallas Symphony Orchestra, the Pasadena Symphony and Pops, the Seattle Symphony and the San Diego Symphony.

In an interview in July, Mr. Hamlish talked about the emotional investment he put into each piece of music he composed.

"I'm not one of those people who says, 'I never read reviews,' because I don't believe those people," Mr. Hamlish said. "I think they read 'em. These songs are my babies. And I always say, it's like having a baby in a hospital, taking a Polaroid and going up to someone and saying, 'What do you think?' And he goes, 'I give you a 3.' That's what criticism is like. You've worked on this thing forever - 'I give you a 3.' And it's part of you. That's the bargain you've made."

We've had a few meetings on the next trip.

Cook Islands is locked. Think we finally found a perfect house. McCully was great but his suggestion didn't afford much privacy on the beach, although the beach is spectacular! All the houses are lovely. They are not out of this world amazing, but cozy and quaint and unbelievable views of water. Ill have pictures of the best house for you when you come back.

Vladivostock is a moving target. They moved the date earlier so you need to be there by the 6th. Accommodations and food less than ideal and only one choice. They are building a dorm on the russiky island for the forum and it will have a cafeteria that will provide food for all delegations.

Brunei and Timor Leste still on list.

China is on list as well. I know Jake already talked to you but since we skipped it last trip, Kurt strongly endorses.

There has been some talk about doing a south china sea stop in Indonesia.

So that's how its shaping out to be. I'd like to lock countries soon since this is a summer trip.

Dear Huma

Here is the invitation . it seems it was sent to HRC already . hoping she will make it to this event . I know it means a lot to all of them . of course I know it all depends on many things .

Please let me know when you feel it is right to tell me yes or no .

Regards

Reem

PS I am not involved in any political aspect . I am just friends with a lot of people .

RELEASE IN
PART B6

Date : May 26 , 2012

*Her Excellency Mrs. Hillary Rodham Clinton
The Secretary of States
The United States of America
Room 7226 Harry S. Truman Building
2201 C Street, NW
Washington, DC 20520
202-647-9572*

Subject:      *RAFIK HARIRI UN-HABITAT
MEMORIAL AWARD
Personal Invitation*

Dear Excellency,

It is with great pleasure and friendship that I cordially invite you to honor us with your attendance at the Rafik Hariri UN-HABITAT Memorial Award gala dinner and presentation that takes place in conjunction with the United Nations General Assembly in New York on September 28, 2012.

The Memorial Award was established to commemorate the late Lebanese Prime Minister Rafik Hariri and his achievements in leading national efforts to re-build his war-torn country after the ravages of civil war.

In September 2004, shortly before his assassination, Prime Minister Hariri was awarded the UN-Habitat Scroll of Honour, the highest United Nations award granted for achievements in the field of human settlement. The Special Citation was presented to Prime Minister Hariri for his outstanding and visionary leadership in the post-conflict reconstruction of Lebanon.

UN-HABITAT and the Rafik Hariri Foundation established a Memorial Award in the name of Rafik Hariri in March 2009. This award recognizes and rewards efforts and contributions to the development of human settlement as well as economic and social advances in step with the vision and work of my dearly loved husband.

The Award shall be given to individuals or institutions anywhere in the world, which show significant accomplishments in the areas of:

- 1. Leadership, statesmanship and good governance;*
- 2. Construction and reconstruction of settlements and communities; and*
- 3. Human resources development and benevolent activities in fighting urban poverty and the implementation of the Habitat Agenda.*

This year's winner will be honored during a presentation dinner and lecture in New York on September 28, 2012.

Venue: New York Public Library, New York.

Location: Stephen A. Schwarzman Building, Located at Fifth Avenue and Forty-Second Street.

Date: Friday, September 28, 2012.

Time: Between 7:00 PM and 11:00 PM.

As the courtesy of your response is much appreciated, kindly accept my appreciation and the assurances of my highest consideration.

Nazek Rafik Hariri

RAFIK HARIRI UM-HABIBAT

MEMORIAL AWARD

Co-Chairperson

RELEASE IN PART
B6

See the email below from Jan Piercy who's been in the Pacific, most recently in New Zealand. Her message is confusing.

Amanda Ellis is the minister for development from NZ. I thought the reason we weren't doing a separate women's event at the PIF was because Gillard wanted to make her own big gender announcement.

As Melanne well knows, we put gender events on the map in the Pacific. I don't want to be seen as abandoning them now.

And we certainly have the time to do such an event.
So, what's the story?

Amazingly, I just ran into Amanda ellis in the ANZ airport lounge about to depart for the Cook Islands as I head back to the US. She said that the gender events are off your schedule. Pls, pls revisit this if at all possible. Your presence will make all the difference in underscoring significance of focus on gender in this convening. Hope this works out, and hope change inschedule does not reflect any problems, tho how cld u not be utterly exhausted at this point?

I'm not sure what Amanda Ellis means. As far as my team knows, we are still doing a women's event but the details are not set yet. Which, given that it's a week away, is par for our planning.

I'm copying Huma and Lona so if you hear anything else, please let all three of us know.

As u can see, the schedule changed quite a bit.

- for the sultan, the wjc/cvc/your mom visit comes up in every talk with govt. [REDACTED] They say sultan sees wjc as part of his family and thus is treating you in this "informal" way. Casual family style dinner with the queen cooking

1.4(D)

- [REDACTED] you see we ended up with informal meeting. This could be the one place where we get rolled.

- they have proven to be less enthusiastic about the asean event as things finalized so its a pro-forma, small program. They don't want east west center president to speak (east-west technically administers the program) mostly because they don't like him.

Melanne,

It was a nice surprise running into you in Morocco and being able to spend a few minutes together. As I mentioned, the Moroccans, at the highest level, deeply appreciate Secretary Clinton's/Hillary's attention to Morocco these past four years. I can tell you that King Mohammed and his counselors are extremely excited about the coming launch of the Strategic Dialogue. The King views next week's event as a crowning achievement of the past thirteen years of his effort to create a strategic relationship with the US on bilateral, regional and multilateral matters.

As I mentioned last night, there are two concerns that I hope you can bring up to the Secretary. The first concerns her remarks at the event next week, and the second is in regards to the final communique that comes out following the event itself.

From the point of view of the officials at the highest levels in Morocco, this new Strategic Dialogue is the logical next step in a long history of our relations, especially over the last dozen years under the King's leadership, which have included a Free Trade Agreement, major non-NATO ally status, an MCC compact, and positive public statements that the Secretary/Hillary has made about the real progress that the King has made in Morocco on political, social and economic reforms.

It is "our" hope that Secretary Clinton/Hillary will draw particular attention to this fact, when she makes her public comments in at the SD next week, and says what this Dialogue represents and how it has come to pass as the culmination of the many things that Morocco has accomplished over the past 15 years and three US Administrations. This really is a story about the leadership of the King, including his recent interventions with the Secretary, and it is something I'm sure he would be pleased to hear. As I mentioned, there are many detractors and political adversaries in Morocco that are critical of the King and state that the US-Morocco relationship has waned, due to the fact that he has not yet met with President Obama. The SD obviously refutes this claim, and the Secretary's words in support of the King's achievements will go a long way in carefully balancing comments and correcting misinterpretations.

The Moroccans have also been working diligently on a draft final communique to be issued jointly at the end of the SD meeting, as well as a set of issues for the working groups, including women's empowerment. I am afraid the communique will get watered down without Hillary's staff's direct intervention to represent her views. I would graciously ask that you pass both messages on, and assure you that the views I express herein come from the highest levels in Morocco.

On a personal note, I would like to reiterate how proud I am to have been associated with Hillary and her team these past years. Her success makes us proud.

Talk with you soon and good luck next week with the SD,

Ed

Dear Secretary Clinton,

Deputy First Secretary of Northern Ireland, Martin McGuinness, arrives in DC this week, and I understand you will be meeting with him. As one of your Observers to the International Fund for Ireland, I have concerns about the situation on the ground in Northern Ireland and would welcome an opportunity to discuss this with you.

My principle concern, based on my observations, is the degradation of, and lack of respect for, the rule of law. I fear that, acting out of self interest, Unionists and Nationalist politicians in Northern Ireland are presenting a rosier picture than what is warranted. With the British and Irish governments distracted by their economic difficulties, renewed American attention and energy is very welcome.

Your meeting with Deputy First Minister McGuinness illustrates America's dedication, not just to the letter of the Good Friday Agreement, but to the spirit of the Agreement as well.

With deep appreciation for all you have done, and are doing, to sustain the peace in Ireland.

Sincerely,

Stella O'Leary

Yes, I have [redacted] necklace, still need to get gift box. Wanted them to find the second one for you so I could pick up both at once. Also have reached the artist who is thrilled, honored etc. I sent her the moon article for inspiration. Issue will be timing. Usually takes her a few months to order materials, sketch, cut wood etc so can you give [redacted] ate?

Also [redacted] has offered to postpone the party given recent events. I told her to move forward, she just wants to make sure you will come. In fact, she wants to cancel altogether if you dont come.

Can discuss bilats anytime. I gave you latest unga schedule in anticipation of it coming up on calls and have gotten all the call readouts which seemed to have no surprises but I can talk anytime. Donilons office called this morning about bibi bilat and told them its not locked fyi Israelis still haven't given us time.

I will be in DC Tuesday and Friday. Maybe thurs as well. I can of course come to house.

For Rorrie, you will have 1 or 2 unga meetings (including small states) on oct 1st. Wjc in philly that night. We are confirming if there's a time in afternoon you are both free.

Oscar tells me he's away till tonight. Haven't been able to get any more info out of him. I understood that he cleared with you.

After my calls today, I have more bilats to do. When can you discuss w me?

When will you be in DC next week? Can you come by the house as well as office?

Bill and I need to meet w Rorrie again. Would Monday morning/afternoon Oct 1st work for me (and Bill) for that?

Also, one of the reasons I did not go to NY today is I can't find Oscar (again) Bill told me he was away so I emailed him yesterday morning asking about his plans, but have yet to hear back. What do you know?

Here's what EU press folks just sent me:

When foreign ministers are in the room they will allow cameras in briefly. The room is very small so they are allowing only 2 cameras per P5+1 delegation. Hopefully this is what you've heard as they said they are reaching out to all dels.

Afterwards, probably around 1700, they will walk out of the meeting to a stakeout point where Cathy Ashton will share a few remarks with the press. No formal statement and no questions/answers envisaged.

HR Ashton just gave brief statement on her way out of the building, took no questions:

- Just came from a meeting w ministers of the P5+1 that was preceded by pol directors meeting (she listed all the countries)
- the meeting was to update them on developments in the process and the most recent contacts w Iranian negotiator Jalili as part of negotiations we are hosting
- We discussed the need to continue to work together and be in touch with Iran to continue this process

Subject: EU press plan for P5+1 Ministerial

Here's what EU press folks just sent me:

When foreign ministers are in the room they will allow cameras in briefly. The room is very small so they are allowing only 2 cameras per P5+1 delegation. Hopefully this is what you've heard as they said they are reaching out to all dels.

Afterwards, probably around 1700, they will walk out of the meeting to a stakeout point where Cathy Ashton will share a few remarks with the press. No formal statement and no questions/answers envisaged.

Jake. got your message, but for some reason I'm having trouble responding with hotmail (maybe the 1990s have truly ended).

I am in a meeting with Ban and Muallem at 9:30. I can't miss that. And I'm chairing a meeting with agency heads on the Sahel at 11. So I don't think I'm available just before or after the small state thing (which I'm not attending).

One option would be 8:30 at the Waldorf -- if S is up and available. I'd have to leave by 9:00 to brief the SG on Syria just before the Muallem meeting. And I'd have to cancel Esther Brimmer, who asked to see me at 8:30! (I don't mind cancelling Esther.). Would 8:30 at the Waldorf work?

B6

Dear Secretary Clinton/Hillary - (via Cheryl, Huma, and Melanne) - Greetings

This is an initial informal email from a member of your greater Clinton "family". A formal invitation to follow, but the President of American University (Neil Kerwin) and the Dean of the School of International Service (SIS Dean Jim Goldgeier) of American University and I (as the Chairman of the Board of SIS) would like you to be the commencement speaker (and receive your Honorary Doctorate from American University) on Sunday, May 12th at 1pm.

I would, naturally, love that. Could you do it? We can make this a great moment to share your vision for the future and I'd work with you on this address so the messages would amplify. I think this would be a great place and time to share your vision and mission. Possible?

As you know, you and Melanne were just with SIS Dean Jim Goldgeier in NYC to launch the U.S. - Pakistan Women's Council that is being housed at AU - with Melanne, serving as its co-chair.

Let me know how you would like me to proceed. At the outset, I wanted to gauge your interest and availability. American University are hoping that I can come back to them with a "yes" — and so do I. Thanks so much for your consideration. □ I promise that this would be a great event for you

Warmest,
Alan

Are you ok with this statement? Wjc cleared.

We were deeply saddened to learn of the passing of our friend George McGovern. The world has lost a tireless advocate for human rights and dignity

We first met George while campaigning for him in 1972. Our friendship endured for 40 years. As a war hero, distinguished professor, Congressman, Senator and Ambassador, George always worked to advance the common good and help others realize their potential. Of all his passions, he was most committed to feeding the hungry, at home and around the world. The programs he created helped feed millions of people, including food stamps in the 1960s and the international school feeding program in the 90's, both of which he co-sponsored with Senator Bob Dole

In 2000, Bill had the honor of awarding him the Medal of Freedom. From his earliest days in Mitchell to his final days in Sioux Falls, he never stopped standing up and speaking out for the causes he believed in. We must continue to draw inspiration from his example and build the world he fought for. Our thoughts and prayers go out to his family and friends.

just sent you the latest draft of the schedule. the events are the same as you have seen, its mostly touring and interacting with people. very straightforward. may have some updates tonight, and obviously cdm on plane with you to review everything. also [REDACTED] its right at the cusp but we usually do it for haiti.

On the plane, in addition to usual team, you are taking:

Cheryl

Pat Leahy

Hilda Solis

Luis Moreno

Ken Merten

Tom Adams

Miguel Rodriguez- going as the NSC representative will send you other updates later. will also have a balkans plan for you tomorrow.

[REDACTED]

Huma,

Per your request, I checked with post on hotel options in Adelaide just to see what they may have.

- 1) Intercontinental - post has used the Intercon for VIP visits.
www.ichotelsgroup.com/intercontinental/en/gb/locations/adelaide
- 2) Sebel Playford - The 5-star Sebel hotel has won numerous awards for its classical style and contemporary luxury. It is well placed on the northern edge of the center of the city.
<http://www.mirvachotels.com/sebel-playford-adelaide>
- 3) Adabco Boutique Hotel - The far smaller Adabco Boutique Hotel is a more recent addition to the Boutique Hotel scene in Adelaide. It is set in a heritage-listed, 19th century Venetian Gothic Style building and has just around 18 rooms. <http://www.adabcohotel.com.au/>

Please let us know if you need more information or if you would like to move forward with this as a RON option.

Thanks, Theresa

Huma and Kris,

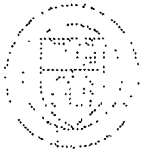

I am writing to support Cornell's invitation to Secretary Clinton to speak at the Senior Class Convocation during commencement weekend in May of 2013. I have been Chairman of the Cornell Board of Trustees since January of this year, and, having attended convocations for the past 10 years, I know how meaningful it would be to the entire Cornell community. President Clinton spoke to approximately 20,000 students, faculty and parents at this event five or six years ago, and people still talk about it today. I hope Secretary Clinton will be able to do this as well.

Attached are the invitation from the Chair of the Convocation Committee and an endorsement letter from Cornell President David Skorton. I believe both of these were sent to you, Kris.

I would really appreciate your help making this happen.

Thank you,

Bob

RELEASE IN FULL

October 20, 2012

The Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton
U.S. Department of State
2201 C Street NW
Washington, DC 20520

Dear Madam Secretary:

It is my pleasure to endorse the attached invitation from the Cornell University graduating class of 2013 to be the featured speaker during the university's 145th Commencement Weekend. We would be honored to have you with us on May 25, 2013, to deliver the Senior Convocation address.

Your achievements as an attorney, first lady, senator, and secretary of state make your experiences and views of great interest to the body of 15,000-20,000 students, families, and friends who will gather on this occasion. Your previous visits to Cornell have been significant occasions for our community, but all were before the Class of 2013 matriculated. For these graduating students and their families, you are not only an important figure in national government and politics and a key player in international relations, but a pioneer whose career inspires women around the world to take on leadership roles. Your address at our convocation would mean a great deal to all in attendance.

The Senior Class Convocation will take place at noon on Saturday, May 25, 2013, on the Cornell campus in Ithaca, New York. We request that you speak for about 25 minutes. Further details are explained in the invitation from the Class of 2013.

I look forward to your response and hope you will join us.

Best regards,

RELEASE IN FULL

The Honorable Hillary Clinton
U.S. Department of State
2201 C Street NW
Washington D.C. 20520

Dear Secretary Clinton,

When honored with the opportunity to select the keynote speaker for my class's convocation ceremony, I vowed to endorse an individual whose values, experience, and wisdom would resonate with every graduate. The message delivered on this day is one of the last things a student will remember as a part of their undergraduate experience and I strove to find a speaker who epitomizes the drive, philanthropic mindset, and international perspective with which Cornell endows every student.

Thus, on behalf of the Cornell Class of 2013, it is with great pride that I extend to you an invitation to join us on this momentous day as our Senior Convocation Keynote Speaker. The Convocation Speaker Selection Committee, consisting of over 50 student leaders from the Class of 2013, unanimously identified you as our class's top choice. It is our hope that you will, in turn, honor us with your participation in the University's 145th Commencement.

Our class is part of a generation that you helped define. We spent the year before our college matriculation watching the most momentous election in American history. You showed us from the onset of our collegiate education that cultural norms could be torn down and that we would be able to challenge the societal perceptions of equality. As the First Lady of our country, a Senator from New York, and the U.S. Secretary of State you have enacted policies that have directly impacted the past and future lives of every student on our campus. My committee believes your experience would present a unifying message that would prepare the members of our class not only to succeed, but to truly become global agents of change.

The Convocation Ceremony will be held on campus in Ithaca, NY, on Saturday, May 25, 2013 at noon. In addition to the speech, the day's events include a breakfast with student leaders, a press conference, and a reception for honored guests. We would also be proud to present you with the 13th Cornell University Convocation Medallion in recognition of your participation—the highest honor the University can bestow on a distinguished speaker.

The Cornell Class of 2013 would be deeply honored to have you participate in this memorable occasion, which will undoubtedly be one of the most important days in the lives of our new graduates. Please contact me if you have any questions. Thank you for your consideration and we hope to hear from you soon.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Ms Mastromonaco,

David Axelrod has recommended that Haim Saban and I get in touch with you to convey the attached invitation from Mr. Saban to the President to deliver a keynote speech to the Saban Forum. We have previously conveyed the invitation to the White House through National Security Adviser Tom Donilon. David told Mr. Saban that he would also speak directly to the President about the invitation.

The Saban Forum at Brookings is an annual meeting of high level American and Israeli policy-makers that is also attended by leading figures from the Arab world. Over the years the Saban Forum has been addressed by President Clinton, President George W. Bush, President Shimon Peres, President Mahmoud Abbas, King Abdullah of Jordan, as well as a host of prime ministers, secretaries of state, and foreign ministers.

This year the Forum will take place from the evening of Friday, November 30 to the afternoon of Sunday, December 2, at the Willard Intercontinental Hotel in Washington D.C.

If the President is able to address the Forum we would be pleased to accommodate his schedule within these parameters. He may wish to speak at Friday evening's Gala Dinner when we will be organizing a special tribute to Secretary of State Hillary Clinton -- it would be wonderful if he were able to participate in that tribute. But we will be happy to accommodate him earlier that evening, or any time on Saturday through Sunday's closing luncheon session.

If you need any additional information, or would like to discuss this on the phone, please do not hesitate to contact me or Tamara Wittes, the Director of the Saban Center at Brookings ([REDACTED]).

RELEASE IN FULL

October 4, 2012

The Honorable Barack Obama
President of the United States
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. President:

I am delighted to invite you to deliver the keynote address at Saban Forum 2012, the ninth annual dialogue between American and Israeli leaders organized by the Saban Center for Middle East Policy at the Brookings Institution. Saban Forum 2012 will take place from Friday evening, November 30 to Sunday lunchtime, December 2, 2012, in Washington DC at the Willard Intercontinental Hotel. It would be a great personal honor if you would agree to address this distinguished group.

Our past gatherings have allowed for an unparalleled level of candid dialogue and, because of this, the Saban Forum has become a seminal event for global leaders to exchange views and generate ideas for dealing with the complex challenges in the Middle East. Many notable participants have delivered addresses to previous Forums, including President William J. Clinton, President George W. Bush, HM King Abdullah of Jordan, President Shimon Peres and President Mahmoud Abbas, Secretaries of State Henry Kissinger, Condoleezza Rice, and Hillary Clinton, as well as Prime Ministers Ariel Sharon, Ehud Olmert, and Salam Fayyad. Ideally, you would give your remarks on the evening of November 30, but we will of course adjust our program as necessary to facilitate your participation at any time between the evening of November 30 and lunchtime on December 2.

This December we will convene in Washington at a moment of unparalleled challenge and opportunity. I hope you will grant us the benefit of your wisdom and the favor of your participation.

Sincerely,

Haim Saban
Chairman

yes, it is penfolds magill winery which is the same place jeff bleich has been suggesting. She saw our list of otr suggestions, most of it was exactly what she would recommend anyway but she added the second museum stop. she will meet you at the hotel after Techport. We made tentative reservations at the restaurants for lunch and dinner for the 2 of you. Her suggestions for pool were to ask the hotel to close it off to other guests but it is still pretty exposed. She said it isnt really pool season there so she doesnt have any better suggestions. Monica has the info for her hairdresser and will make appointment.

Shelleys schedule:

- Exit the Intercontinental by the river-side door and walk down to the river.
- Walk along the river, past the Festival Theatre complex, to the Victoria Drive crossing.
- Continue along the river walk as far as the university footbridge. (Here we pass immediately in front of Jolley's, mentioned in your e-mail, in case this is time when food is needed -- lunch or tea.)

--Here I'm adding a suggestion. Go into the Art Gallery of South Australia for a brief look at a few major Australian works. I'm thinking Tom Roberts, Hans Heysen, and Fred Williams. There is also a small mezzanine area with significant contemporary Aboriginal paintings.

- Go next door to the SA Museum and visit the Aboriginal exhibition with an Aboriginal guide.
- Proceed along North Terrace, either walking or by car, to the front gates of the Botanic Gardens. Walk through the gardens and exit by the back gate, to be met there by a car.

--Drive to my place in North Adelaide (5 to 7 minutes by car). Depending on the schedule, this could be a quick stop or a break for a cup of tea -- plus I want to show HRC some wedding photos!

--Return to the hotel for a break before dinner at Penfolds (5 to 8 minutes by car).

Also, kurt and jeff really enthusiastic about you seeing energy minister in adelaide and announcing the energy dialogue. Its fine and easy to do on your way out of hotel to techport but now he's saying he can only do 5 pm. We have walk, museums, lunch, shelleys house and dinner tentatively in play so this would be smack in the middle. Not crazy about that but its doable.

Dec 2nd: depart dc

Dec 3rd: brussels, Hina meeting

Dec 4th: nato meetings, rasmussen dinner

Dec 5th: nato meetings, US-EU energy council, ashton reception (may fall)

Dec 6th: dublin for osce, dublin speech hosted by american ireland fund, bilats

Dec 7th: belfast for bilats and event honoring you.

Dec 8th: prague

Dec 9th: greece

Dec 10: free (maybe Mog)

Dec 11th: morocco for king

Dec 12th: marrakesh for FOS

Dec 13th: tunisia forum for future

Dec 14th: UAE for gctf

Dec 15th: home

Still working through it all.

If you haven't heard, this potential winery visit has been making the news here and ileana ros-lehtinen has mentioned it.

Thank you Ami, your help is very much appreciate. It would be great to get an understanding as to whether May /June would work well as a platform in 2014, if Huma could assist on this that would be superb.

Huma, please see attached a letter we are sending to Melanne Verveer, which may give you a feel for where I am coming from!

I understand also that Chelsea is a major chip of the old block too, perhaps she would attend too.

Again, If I got the opportunity to meet on the current visit it would be superb to share our ambitions.

Please call me if you need more info at this stage.

Hi Ami,

I trust you are safe and have not personally been too affected by the tropical storm. It looks horrendous on the News. I am touching base with you to see if we can pick up from our last conversation. We have progressed our plans for the International Women's conference in 2014 and have appointed an events management company to manage the process alongside creating a local and global committee to progress our plans.

We have heard that Mr and Mrs Clinton will be in Belfast on 6th December. Putting my brash Irish neck on I wondered would we (Women In Business NI) possibly be included in an invitation at any of the events they are attending? I know it is too early to ask for a meeting but it would be great if we could get our profile raised with them and the media while they are here.

Let me know what you think and I will understand if I don't hear from you for a few days. I believe the power and transport will be down for a few days.

Keep safe

Hi Ami,

Thank you for taking time to meet Edel and me when we were in New York in early June. Hard to believe it was nearly a month ago!

I am have asked some folks to get more local feedback for you regarding the Clinton Centre in Enniskillen and will forward that to you as soon as I have it. I trust you enjoyed your brief visit there.

When we met to discuss our conference we agreed I would send my bio as I would be very keen to speak at the CGI in September. I appreciate you may have all the speakers agreed for this year but I would be delighted if you would consider me for 2013.

We were blown away with the positivity and encouragement we encountered on our visit and we are in the process of setting up local and USA committee's to move forward with our plans for the Women in Business NI International conference in 2014. We would still hope that we may secure Hilary Clinton as a speaker but understand she would not be able to commit to engagements so far ahead. We will update you with our plans as we progress.

Thanks again for taking time out to meet with us and I look forward to hearing from you.

Kind regards

Dear Melanne,

RELEASE IN FULL

My name is Roseann Kelly and I am the Chief Executive of Women in Business Northern Ireland, you met with my Chair (Edel Doherty) and Vice Chair (Kate Marshall) in Washington in June 2012. Thank you for your time on that occasion and your support to date for the International Women in Business Conference in Belfast 2014.

My reason for writing this letter is twofold: We would be delighted if you would consider speaking at our event in 2014 and secondly we would be grateful of some advice as we embark on issuing an invitation to the Secretary of State Mrs Hillary Rodham Clinton to deliver the plenary session.

We have moved on considerably with the Conference since you met my colleagues and have pledges of support and funding from the Office of the First Minister and Deputy First Minister and from the Department of Enterprise, Trade and Industry Minister. We are eager to include our neighbours in the South and are scheduled to meet with Enterprise Ireland, the business agency tasked with supporting business in the Republic of Ireland, about also supporting our initiative.

The 2014 International Women in Business Conference will provide a very positive contribution to supporting global women's leadership and influence as I believe hosting this important women's event in Belfast will add extra valuable in a number of ways:

Symbolic

A small organisation with global ambitions
A small country making International connections
A people learning to live and thrive in peace
Women championed as innovative, creative, empowered and ambitious
Northern Ireland not just male, pale and stale!

Innovative

More than a Conference – a legacy of mentoring, business visits, collaboration Global through the Hillsborough Castle Summit – Global profits, global poverty.
Creative and inclusive of all talents - hosting the play Seven in the newly constructed MAC and inviting Meryl Streep to take on the role of Inez again
Launch of the Vital Voices Global Ambassadors Programme and a Mentoring Walk

Valuable

Brilliant and relevant speakers

Modern topics for modern women
International connections
Peer learning and mentoring
Inspiring and confidence building

Personal

While the conference is all about Business – it will also offer space and opportunity for:

Personal learning and growth
Professional development
New Networks and connections both local and global

As a major global role model, I would like to extend an invitation to you to speak at our conference which will take place sometime between May and June 2014. I saw your video recently to the Women in the Law in Northern Ireland, I know you have a strong message to share with our audience. Your achievements and career are an inspiration to women from all walks of life and we would be truly honoured if you would accept our invitation.

Melanne, I would also ask your advice as to how to extend the same invitation to Hillary Clinton.

Her reputation in Northern Ireland is unequalled, and she is held in great respect by all sides. No matter what her plans are for the future, she will always be assured of a very warm welcome on this Island.

I am hoping that Hillary goes for President of the United States in 2016 (wow, how great would that be). This Conference in Northern Ireland in 2014 may be a good platform for Hillary as we know the passion she has for Ireland. I would be delighted to assist in creating benefits to the campaign. The Hillsborough Castle Summit, bringing 8-10 key female global leaders together to discuss a relevant issue, would be timely too. )

Recently, I met with US Consul General Greg Burton to update him and to re iterate our desire to have the key note speaker position filled by Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton. I have been a huge fan of Hillary Clinton for many years and reference her on the empowerment of women at every opportunity. I am a passionate supporter not only of her work in this area but her passion for equality and civil rights and the immense impact she delivers as a global role model for all women.

I hope my passion and enthusiasm is coming across as this Conference will be a real and valid boost to not only the business women of Northern Ireland but to the peace and economies of all participating countries.

To quote, US Secretary of State Hillary Clinton ...

"..Investing in women is not only the right thing to do, 'it's the smart thing as well".

The theme "Good Business is everyone's business" will be clearly evident. We are excited and determined to contribute positively to the global business community and our local economies and believe (totally in our cause) .that this conference platform will achieve our long term goals for women in business.

I look forward to hearing from you about your availability at your earliest convenience and any advice you may wish to impart.

Could you let me know if you are available to attend and I really look forward to introducing you to the fabulous business women of Northern Ireland?

Yours sincerely

Roseann Kelly

IIRC - I haven't mentioned to you yet, but I went to  for Thanksgiving and planned on driving back on Tuesday or Wednesday.

Claire, Lona and Rob will all be in the office and will be available if you need anything.

Hope that's ok and hope you had a great Thanksgiving.

Jake,

I truly do understand how difficult it is to have a private meeting with S. So, I am entirely realistic when I ask to see if you, Sylvia, and I might have a few minutes with her alone next week.

It is most likely that both she and I will be out of office before we meet again. It would give Sylvia and me the opportunity to express our views of the privilege of serving under her leadership

It would also give Sylva and me the chance to tell how we might hope to be allied together in the future..

I know it will be hard to achieve but I thank you for trying.

Sam

Hello Madame Secretary!

I hope you are well.

Only a few more weeks and then you will be able to enjoy a well deserved time of rest and recuperation from an incredible journey as Secretary of State. I have been praying for you daily. I think history will place you as the best we have ever had during some of the most difficult and trying circumstances in our world

Congratulations.

I know this is an difficult time in our world and forgive me for imposing on mundane matters.

I write to check in on a date for September 2013 and the opportunity for you to be our featured speaker at the 175th anniversary of the United Methodist City Society.

I know this is far in advance of the time, but I would ask that we might have a few dates during September or even October in which we might plan our event for the United Methodists in the New York metropolitan region. We will need to reserve a banquet space soon and it would be a great help to know of your schedule. Our committee is open to your schedule and plans.

I also wanted to ask if you would like to meet our new Bishop, Martin D. McLee. I have become a part of his extended program cabinet since he wants to focus on urban ministry. He is newly elected but already making a great impact. Bishop Park is now serving in the Harrisburg area which is called the Susquehanna Annual Conference.

I had thought Christmas eve might be a nice time to introduce you to Bishop McLee at Mt. Kisco UMC, if you will be there. However, he will be traveling on that evening. Judy and I are planning to attend and hope that we will see you. I am not sure that you have met Rev. Karen Burger, but trust you will on Christmas eve.

If you are going to be in New York toward the end of January, would you be open to a lunch meeting with the Bishop? We could meet in the city or in Westchester.

I look forward to your reply or your staff contacting me with some possible dates.

If I don't see you, a very Merry Christmas!

Rev. Bill

Dear Hillary,

I hope you got my thank you note for the wonderful brunch at Easter.

So Thank you again.

I wanted to follow up on our conversation concerning the United Methodist City Society and the denomination in general. I am attaching my report to the Board of the society (today's meeting) concerning the General Conference. Unfortunately, being a very positive person, I had to write a rather negative report

To some extent, the General Conference is becoming a microcosm of the world with all the issues that divide us being the center of attention. In a small way, we need a Secretary of State like you to be in the church to work with all the factions. Uhm, maybe a new job for you after January, 2013.

The other item I wanted to mention was a follow up concerning your willingness to be the main speaker at the 175th anniversary banquet of the UMCS next year.

As we look at our calendar we are thinking of a Sunday afternoon in September --September 8, 15, 22, or 29 in 2013.

I think the event would be at the Crowne Plaza in White Plains, or perhaps the Brooklyn Marriott

To be honest, I want to work around your schedule because it will be such a blessing to us if you are the main speaker. Of course, Marc and Chelsea and Bill will be invited too.

If these dates don't work, then we can move back to the drawing board.

I hear you were at Matt's last service at Mt. Kisco. I attended the retirement celebration of the pastor he is replacing in Valley Stream. They are excited about having a young pastor and family and I made sure to tell a few of them how much I respect Matt.

We have often attended the Drew Church, where Karen Burger has served for the last ten years. She will be different, but she is very creative in family ministries and outreach ministries. If you would like me to help facilitate an introduction, I would be happy to do so.

The other bad news I share is that UMCS lost our Head Start contract with Administration for Children's Services. The Early Learn RFP that we talked about mostly was awarded to large providers and many of the traditional smaller program providers like us, lost out in the awards. As you know from the news, there is a great deal of concern for the cuts that Bloomberg has proposed. We are trying our best to find a way to save our program which has taken a great deal of energy.

I also want you to know that I keep you in my prayers each and every day. You are doing such a remarkable job and you are truly a "peacemaker" as Jesus describes for our world.

Have a blessed day. Oh, and Happy Father's Day to Bill.

Dear Ms. Grunwald,

I'm a correspondent in the Washington bureau of The New York Times and I'm writing in hopes of arranging a telephone interview with you. There has obviously been a great deal of speculation about Secretary of State Clinton's future plans, but many people are also wondering about the team of loyal staffers who have worked with her for so many years. I'm working on a what's next for Huma Abedin piece for our Style section that will be focused on Ms. Abedin, but will also mention the plans of several of Mrs. Clinton's other close advisers. I'd love to talk to you today. Please let me know if there's a good time to contact you. You can reach me via email or at 202-862-0364.

Thank you for your time. I look forward to hearing from you.

All best,

There has obviously been a great deal of speculation about Secretary of State Clinton's future plans, but many people are also wondering about the team of loyal staffers who have worked with her for so many years. I'm working on a what's next for Huma Abedin piece for our Style section that will be focused on Ms. Abedin, but will also mention the plans of several of Mrs. Clinton's other close advisers. I'd love to talk to you today. Please let me know if there's a good time to contact you. You can reach me via email or at [REDACTED]

Thank you for your time. I look forward to hearing from you.

All best,
Rachel Swarns

Office of the Spokesperson

For Immediate Release

December 13, 2012

2012/1979

MEDIA NOTE

The U.S. Department of State Once Again Ranks in Top 10 of 2012 Best Places to Work in the Federal Government Rankings

The Partnership for Public Service yesterday released the results of the 2012 Best Places to Work in the Federal Government rankings, and the Department of State has once again ranked in the top 10, placing 3rd overall among the 19 large Federal agencies, and also ranked 3rd in effective leadership, strategic management, and support for diversity. The Department leadership is very pleased the positive feedback from our employees keeps us in the top 10.

The rankings measure federal employee satisfaction and commitment and are based on responses from more than 700,000 federal workers. The Best Places to Work rankings include 292 federal agencies and subcomponents – representing 33 percent of the 2.1 million person federal workforce.

Best Places to Work is the most comprehensive assessment of how federal employees perceive their jobs and agencies, providing insights into issues ranging from leadership to pay, to teamwork and work-life balance.

To view all the rankings and analyses of the results, visit <http://www.bestplacestowork.org>

Of course. Easy to continue.

She sees all of them, because we send responses to every single one of them. If anyone emails, texts, calls or sends a note to any staff, we send a note back from your mom. So your mom sees the original note as she signs her response and she's been reading them.

Cdm, melanne, capricia etc have been great about forwarding things to us. Your mom signed over 200 responses before she came to ny and we are drafting even more as additional notes have come in.

Hi Huma - fyi re the below - think once she's better she would really like to read a compendium of all the emails she's been receiving that you, melanne, cheryl, capricia think would be particularly meaningful to her

Bari - pls check to see if the Foundation or my dad's office has received any similarly meaningful messages that could be forwarded on to whomever would be the point person

Dear Ambassador Verveer,

Happy new year 2013, hope you are doing well, long time no news, we are fine here, abit worried about the uncertain peace process and woman rights , you know there are so many processes right now, Qatar process,
Paris conference, etc.

I hope you will kindly, keep an eye on the situation here.

I heard the shocking news of Secretary Clinton, being hospitalized , we woman here in Afghanistan pray for her health and quick recovery. She is certainly a role model for all of us around the world, for Afghan woman certainly she is a hope, we are sure that with her support things will not change to the worst for us.

Please convey my best wishes and prayers message for her quick recovery to her.

My best new year greetings .

Fawzia,

Subject: Greetings from Afghansitan.

Dear Ambassador Verveer,

This is Fawzia Koofi, member of Afghan parliament and chairperson for women rights, Human rights, and Civil Society standing committee of the parliament.

B6

If you re-call, we met in a gathering last year in Kabul.
I am writing this , because I believe on your commitments and struggles for women rights around the globe.

I wanted to write to you to let you know our concerns over the so called peace and reconciliation process. We women of Afghanistan believe that a sustainable peace will only be achieved when the process is transparent and inclusive.

History teach us that women rights in any society, especially in Afghan society are the easy elements to be compromised, therefore, we would like to have your support in the following issues.

- No peace without inclusion of of women as the main decision makers, women participation in the Bonn conference 2, which will be held this year. Women who truly represent women voice not the man politician voice.

- No compromise on Afghan constitution, as both Afghans and International partners invested blood and treasure to achieve this.

- Last but not least, democracy is the only way of governance, Afghan nation deserve to live in a democratic, peaceful Afghanistan, where its population live with dignity.

Afghan society is in a transformation, the nation of today is not the nation of 1996 when Taliban first came and imposed what they wanted on women. Women will not keep silent when they see their basic rights are being ignored.

Thank you for all your commitments to women around the world. You are our inspiration and hope.

Best regards,
Fawzia,

RELEASE IN PART
B6

Tony--

Good hearing from you and Happy New Year!

I'm thrilled to be back at the office and trying to catch up on a pile of work and postponed meetings. I'm copying Huma and Lona to ask whether there's any time we could meet tomorrow

If we can't, could we schedule a call in the next few days?

All the best, H

This just came from Vartan. Maybe it's something you want to do this week with Karzai here.

Dear Secretary Clinton:

Carnegie Corporation has been a supporter of the World Digital Library, a major project of the Library of Congress and James H. Billington, the Librarian. Over the last several years, we have given them grants totaling $4,000,000, including, in December, a renewal grant of $2,000,000. In the course of working out the renewal grant, I asked Dr. Billington whether he could do a singular service to Afghanistan and the Afghan people by having copies of the entire corpus of the Library's holdings on the country—a vast collection including history, literature, arts, etc.—put together and given to the country's National Library and eight of its top universities, as a kind of repatriation of Afghan heritage. Dr. Billington heartily agreed.

Then we discussed the best way of transmitting this corpus to the Afghans. We both thought that it would be a fitting tribute for you, as you conclude your amazing and successful tenure as Secretary of State, to be the person to hand this to the Afghan foreign minister or Ambassadors, in Washington or New York, during the month of January. We'd be happy to announce it at the State Department, the Library of Congress, or Asia Society, UN, or even Carnegie Corporation. Naturally, we are all at your disposal and will accommodate you in any way we can.

I'm delighted that you are well and have resumed your duties.

Yours,
Vartan

goosby is still being worked out he could stop at your house before departure for inauguration but i dont think thats the best idea. otherwise, we do him tues morning while others come for hearing prep which i realize you wont necessarily be dressed for. last option is wed morning on the hull before your hearing which might be crazy.

barbara is set for the 23rd. will confirm the other dates.

But as discussed, here is the answer to McCain's question about funneling more $ through the SOC

- The SOC is a very new organization -- midwifed by Ambassador Ford only a few short months ago. We've been working closely with it to develop its capacity to help direct humanitarian assistance.
- We're also coming to terms with it on direct assistance for the organization -- supporting staff salaries and overhead, for instance. And we're trying to coordinate with its assistance arm -- the Assistance Support Unit -- on an assistance shipment to Aleppo, in addition to other aid.
- It's a work in progress, but we are in fact making much progress in a short time. The larger problem is that the needs are just overwhelming.

Hi barbara - was great to see you as well and enjoyed chatting at the shoot.

First of all, its impressive to see what you have accomplished and to hear about the work you are doing on behalf of women and girls. I wish I could tell you yes, given that this is an issue important to HRC. But Feb 1st is her last day at the State Department and she has a full day and night of obligations which will keep her in DC for weekend. So sorry she can't join you bu thanks for thinking of her and hope its a successful evening. Hope to stay in touch.

All the best,
Huma

Hi Huma,
It was wonderful chatting with you yesterday at the ODLR shoot! Good luck on your last week in DC!

I'm writing with a request for Secretary Clinton from the organization I founded and run--Global Health Corps (and feeling somewhat sheepish about it).

We'll be holding a cocktail party in NYC on February 1st at 6:00pm, to celebrate the work of our Global Health Corps young leaders serving the health needs of vulnerable communities in New York, Newark, Boston, and DC

The topic of our 2nd quarter programming is women and girls' health and we were hoping to engage someone to speak about the issue at our cocktail party--obviously, Secretary Clinton was our first choice (Ambassador Melanne Verveer from the Office of Global Women's Issues was our last speaker). I know the chances are very slim, but I figured it was worth a shot (a girl can dream :)).

Given the fact that she's been the leading voice on women and girls' issues, I know her experience would provide an inspiring opportunity for our fellows to learn more broadly about health issues that affect women around the world. And, 70% of our applicants are female, with many often citing in our application that Secretary Clinton has been their inspiration for wanting to pursue leadership positions in global health.

The event will provide an opportunity to bring together our partners, supporters, fellows, and alumni from previous years as well as other members of the health community who are working to address the serious health needs of women and girls around the world. Clinton Health Access Initiative was our very first Global Health Corps partner, and we've been lucky enough to have fellows (and now several Global Health Corps alums) working with them in Rwanda, Malawi, Uganda, Tanzania, and Swaziland. Please let me know if I can pass along any additional information.

Background on Global Health Corps:

Global Health Corps mobilizes a global community of young leaders to create new solutions in global health. GHC believes young people are the future to solving global health challenges. We place recent college graduates and young professionals from around the world in health non-profits and government offices in the US, East Africa, and Southern Africa to serve communities for a year (focusing on HIV, maternal child health issues, and healthcare access). Through additional training, community building, leadership development, and mentorship these young people complete their fellowship with skills to be changemakers in the global health field throughout their careers. Since 2009, we have placed 216 fellows (from 12 countries) to serve in Burundi, Malawi, Uganda, Rwanda, Zambia, and the United States with organizations like Partners In Health, Clinton Health Access Initiative, Millennium Villages Project, and other outstanding organizations.

Global Health Corps believes that social inequities will not be solved until we have people from all the different sectors at the table, and so we recruit fellow from the private sector, the public sector, government, research and universities. We have a unique model where we place American fellows with local fellows in our international placements, in order to focus on capacity building both within the country as well as create international partnerships between fellows, while in the US, we place an American fellows with an international fellow from anywhere in the world, and have had fellows join us from countries including Zimbabwe, Nigeria, Philippines, and Italy.

RELEASE IN
PART B6

Cheryl,

Below are two categories of people I am reaching out to for paperwork: 1) list of people you highlighted yesterday on HRC's list who HRC had starred (senate and non-Senate staffers) and 2) other persons I am reaching out to based on markings on your slotting list or other conversations.

Let me know if you have any questions whatsoever. Apologies again for missing your message - having my voicemail set up today. Speaking with Maura momentarily.

Thanks,
Heather
