It's ok I guess.

[redacted] is one of the dumbest people and worst unit chiefs I've ever worked with, but he's on his way out within a month or so to be SSA in Sacramento, so anyone who comes in behind him will be a big improvement (literally anyone).

I think there are a couple of good candidates I've heard may be coming in to replace [redacted] in 1A and if they bring in someone good for 1B [redacted] (just left there) that will help a lot. [redacted] is UC or 1C and he's ok but kind of a goofball.

[redacted] is the ASC and I think he is a good guy based on my limited interaction with him.

In my opinion things could be more aggressive and organized and better marketed, but there is good work there.

That's my two cents. I say go after that job and then when Sandy leaves (which I think could be by the end of the year/early next year), they can just swap you over to CD-4. Would be a piece of cake.
