My understanding is that some documents were made available for review and some publicly available documents were turned over. We still have not seen many of the documents from ATF that the Chairmen is interested in, so hopefully this new team will get them and determine whether there is anything that can be shared.

Another thing: I was told we gave Issa a bunch of docs but have now heard that is not the case. What's the deal?

Have we parachuted a team into ATF to get a handle, finally, on Congressional requests. New eyes there are a necessity.
