Faith and I spoke to Castor. It did not go particularly well. He said that he was surprised that we wanted to exclude Jason from the interviews and that he thought it had been understood that Jason would attend. He said that the Chairman wants to just send subpoenas and to do depositions. I pointed out to Steve that doing depositions wouldn't get Jason in the room, and since that was the one issue we were discussing, subpoenas wouldn't seem to accomplish much. Steve said that the Chairman was already upset that Steve was going to allow the presence of agency counsel and preferred to do depositions anyway. I asked Steve whether he would hold off serving the subpoenas until the end of the day Monday and he said he would.
