I get that--but timing would be bad if we have to go to Cincy now. So, I will assume we can go over this here as I get the information I've already asked for? Thanks

Lois,

It is a visit, not an OP review. I am interested in meeting the front -line employees and the management teams for EP and EO.

I am also interested in the questions Imraan sent to them. Some answers shou ld be readily at hand. Others certainly won't be. I can wait and you and I can take them up at future OP reviews here in DC. There will be no "beatings". The questions just serve as a framework for a broader conversation about how things are going and what is on our respective minds.

We can chat more as we go along.

Thanks as always - Joseph

I'm confused. During my op review when we talked about the Cincinnati visit, you were very clear that you were not planning on doing an op review out there. It was to be more like a meet and greet and a town hall, which is what my folks are expecting and planning. I remember specifically because I said either Holly or I should be there if it was an op. review. We just got an very extensive information request from Imraan --sure looks like op review material. I'm especially concerned that information about pipeline is being asked about. One of my commitments is to analyze the pipeline and make recommendations. I just spoke with both Cindy and Holly about the impact the auto-revocation process is having on the work and gave them instructions about the overall analysis I would like. Add to that the fact that Cincinnati is smack dab in the middle of the c4 Congressional inquiries and is about to get a request from TIGTA on all of that, this is NOT a good time to be asking them for anything or to be talking to them about issues in their work.

Everyone is stressed to the max and at their wits end, so can we put this off please? If you plan to go ahead with this, I will make plans to be in Cincinnati --you guys are very nice, but they will feel like it's a beating. Perhaps we can talk
