

just such mutually self-reenforcing relationships. In The Analects, the Sage tells one of his disciples that his doctrine has only “one single thread running through it.” What is it? “Loyalty and reciprocity, and that’s all,” he replies.

When another disciple asks him, “Is there any single word that should guide one’s entire life,” Confucius replies, “Should it not be reciprocity? What you do not wish for yourself, do not do to others.”

In classical Chinese, the character used for the idea of “reciprocity” is shu, which carries a broader resonance of “tolerance,” “generosity” and even of willingness to “excuse,” “forgive” and “show mercy.” It also implies that one’s actions towards others - or by implication between countries - will invariably condition their responses (and visa versa) in an endless dialectic chain of cause and effect.

In the Confucian universe of shu, a concession made as a demonstration of good intention, should not simply be accepted by the recipient as something “won,” but should be allowed to serve as a catalytic gesture which then presents an opportunity, even an obligation, for the counterpart to reciprocate with a comparable gesture.

Precisely because this Confucian notion of reciprocity is uniquely Chinese, as a home-grown intellectual lode, it can be mined and used by Chinese leaders without any worry that they will be accused of capitulating to foreign ideology. And, with Chinese Communist Party Secretary General and President Hu Jintao and Premier Wen Jiabao both lauding the constructive role that traditional cultural values can now play in contemporary society - even calling for the state to become an agent of a latter-day of the Confucian idea of "harmonious society," or hexie shehui, as a recipe for social stability - it would hardly be an incongruity for diplomatic strategists to call for a return to the virtues of shu in their own pursuit of a more reciprocal and harmonious world.

So, what has prevented Beijing from embracing this Confucian notion? A fear that manifesting an abundance of shu might make China appear too conciliatory and thus weak has certainly been an impediment. (President Obama and Secretary Clinton learned something about such an imputation, when they were criticized at home as a result of their own efforts.) On the other hand, if such gestures evoked a positive response, China would only appear magnanimous and strong, or, at least more self-confident. And, at least up until now, in its relations with the Obama Administration, I have every confidence that a new Chinese demonstration of reciprocity would lead to the development of more relaxed and collaborative relations.

If there was ever a time when an urgent need existed for such reciprocity, it is now. For, if the hope for a closer and better relationship is not forged soon, the opportunity could well pass. After all, ponder what might happen should President Obama become ever more consumed in domestic acrimony over loss of jobs to China, the US's imbalance of payments, the vagaries of currency exchange or if China becomes embroiled in civil unrest.

It is undeniable that there are many issues that still divide our two countries. But, President Obama has sought to extend a new hand of friendship to Beijing. If Chinese leaders truly want better relations, they need to recognize that fact and find new ways to respond themselves in a more overtly reciprocal manner. For, the sound of one hand clapping is silence.

Subject: Secretary Chu's draft remarks for Dinner and Lunch

Good Morning Everyone,

Apologies for the short fuse - DOS has been asked to clear on Secretary Chu's remarks for the Nuclear Security Summit dinner on April 12 and the lunch on April 13. These will be co-sponsored by Secretaries Clinton and Chu. DOE has noted that these are drafts and that they were prepared with the assumption that Secretary Chu will follow Secretary Clinton. These are simply welcoming and do not represent a substantive presentation. Please provide comments by 1500 today.

Thanks,

Huma – I've attached a few more photos that were taken the other day at different angles. The centerpiece would be a beautiful arrangement of white tulips. The caterer is ordering the linens/chairs/placesettings to set-up a full table shot but will not get them delivered tomorrow morning. We can also arrange for the linen to be sent over, but I understand you are traveling.

We need to make a final decision by COB Thursday so everything can be ordered on time without incurring additional expense. If you want to see other linen options, we have a few other pictures we can send you as well, just let us know. Thank you!

Subject: Trilat Space

We'll be able to use the trilat space, and then have that converted into a bilat space for D and P's use after the lunch (if they used it in the morning, it's be set up for the trilat). Attached is the trilat space as originally set up with longer tables. It kind of fills the space. Then, two photos of the trilat space with shorter tables (4 at the table, 2 backbenchers). Shorter tables creates a more intimate space. The back two walls will be piped and draped (in a couple hours). We'll then use six flags as the backdrop behind the Secretary's head table. They're looking into supplemental lights for the space as well.

Alternatively, I've also attached the pic of the bilat room. The table there can't be altered.

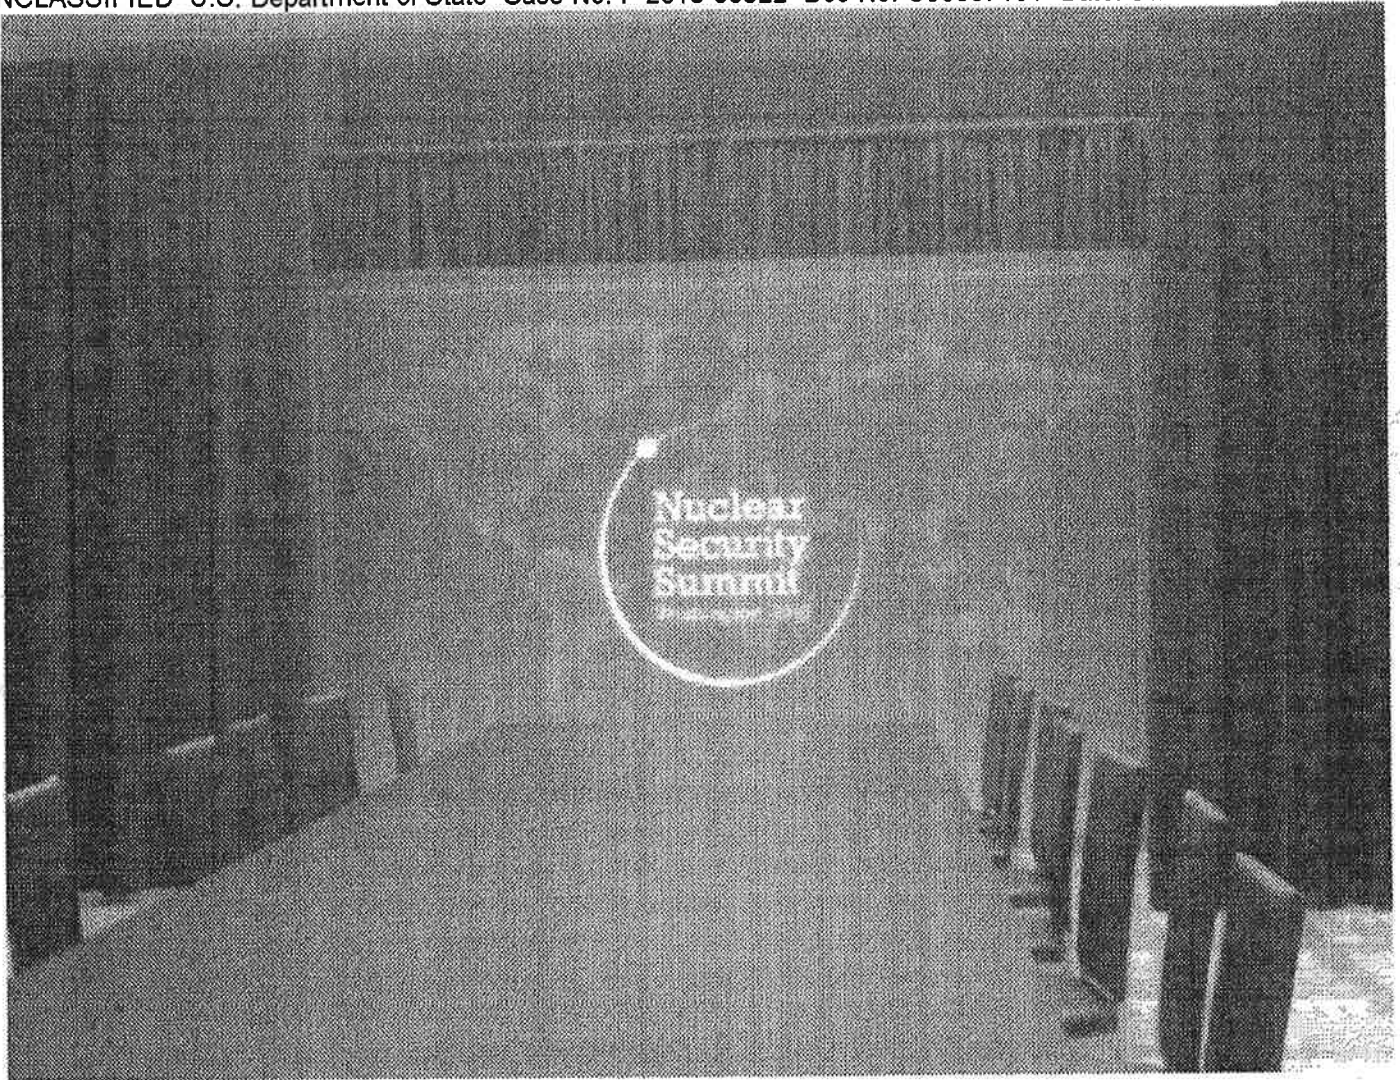

Thoughts?

Subject: Attempt to connect GEN Shalikashvili and SEC Clinton

Doug,

Thank you for sharing Huma's email and phone contact information with Mrs. Shalikashvili. I have been working on connecting General Shalikashvili to Secretary Clinton in hopes that they might speak for a few minutes about a request for her to give the keynote at an event in D.C. in June. I realize that it is quite late in the game, so I have attempted to contact Huma to ask her to reference the Secretary's calendar and see if anytime on June 17 & 18th might be available for this speaking engagement. I certainly understand how busy the Secretary is these days, therefore making Huma quite busy as well. My first attempt to contact her was a week or so ago. I've left both voicemails and sent an email. General Shalikashvili is asking for just a moment of the Secretary's time. He understands that it is unlikely that her schedule would be free during that time, but is inclined to ask her about her interest level in this event and if she is unavailable, ask her about her interest in a future event. When I spoke to the General's son and Mrs. Shalikashvili, they directed me to speak with you. Is there anyway that you might be able to assist with the coordination of a short phone call from the Secretary. My apologies as I know this is not within your normal daily activities. Any assistance and/or advice would be appreciated. My number is [REDACTED] and the General can be reached directly at [REDACTED]. Thank you in advance.

Warm Regards,

Rachel McLain
Executive Assistant to General John M. Shalikashvili

RELEASE IN FULL

For USAirways, it doesn't make a difference if you leave Friday or Saturday. Its $276 to NY and $201 back to DC.

Unless, you buy something called a "Coach non-refundable seat", you can get as cheap at $82 to NYC and $82 back, whether you leave on Friday or Saturday. Not all flights are available with the $82 fare.

It does make a difference on Delta though. If you leave on Friday it will cost you $494 round trip. If you leave on Saturday, it will cost you $341 Round trip.

Subject: U.S. Military confirms deaths of two al-Qaida leaders in Iraq (U)

(U) The U.S. military confirms Abu Omar al-Baghdadi and Abu Ayyub al-Masri have been killed in a joint operation with Iraqi forces. Iraqi Prime Minister Nouri al-Maliki announced the killings earlier today at a news conference in Baghdad. General Odierno says the deaths are potentially the most significant blow to the terrorist organization since the beginning of the insurgency.

Hi Hillary,

I am back from the unpredictable and exciting elections in Britain.

Congratulations on all the good things you are doing at State.

You have so many fans from Manmohan Singh, who smiled broadly when we talked about you, to those women who never stop dreaming.

I would love to catch up. I have to be in DC from the 12th-15th May, in case you have any time to sneak away for a few minutes.

I understand it may not be possible, but thought I would check.

In any event, I remain your loyal adoring pal.

RELEASE IN PART B6

From: Alan Patricof <[REDACTED]>
To: Abedin, Huma
Sent: Thu Apr 22 14:15:51 2010
Subject: FW: Annual Dinner

You may recall Columbia asked Hillary to speak at the annual dinner for the Business School on May 3rd. She ultimately came back and said, because of her schedule being unknown for that date so far in advance, the most she would commit to was a video message. I just received the following message from the school and as you can see the President of Wellesley is attending among other prominent dignitaries and the Board (except for me who is not so prominent). Is there any chance she might now be able to deliver her message in person since we are so close to the date and she might actually be near NYC that night. It obviously would be that much more effective. I would expect they will have about 1500 people in attendance.
 Let me know. In the meantime your big date is getting closer. Hope all is going well in that connection.

Subject: Annual Dinner

Dear Alan,

I hope you are well. With the Annual Dinner just under two weeks away, we are really looking forward to the event. Thank you again for your support. We are delighted to report that we have just surpassed our $2.7m fundraising goal.

As you can imagine, there is a lot of excitement surrounding our government honoree Secretary of State Clinton. We cannot thank you enough for the critical role you played in securing her as an honoree. At this time, her office is holding to her participation via video only. Since it is not clear that she has a firm conflict, we remain hopeful that she may still choose to attend assuming her travel schedule can accommodate it. Is there any chance that you will have an opportunity to speak to her or her Chief of Staff in this regard? Sec. Clinton might be particularly interested in knowing that the president of Wellesley College will attend as a guest of [REDACTED] and several of Sec. Clinton's Wellesley classmates including [REDACTED] and [REDACTED]. In addition, we will be welcoming a particularly international crowd this year with prominent business leaders from Europe and Asia.

B6
B6

Please let me know if you would be willing to share this information with Sec. Clinton. I am working closely with her office, but I know that hearing this from a personal contact will be more meaningful.

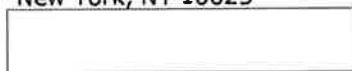

Thank you again for your ongoing support.

All the best,
 Kristen

 They would like for both HRC and WJC participate in wed program.
 Heading to a meeting shortly.
 I don't think they want them together however.

Big role for HRC in program and want WJC to close. Will have more details later. Please hold Wednesday evening if possible. I am assuming rightly or wrongly HRC will attend National Cathedral.

I second Philippe's assessment. In a funny way, having the few negative quotes (which basically posit the standard critiques) works in our favor, because the rest of the piece undermines/marginalizes them very effectively.

I can't even remember now what if anything in it bugged me yesterday. Nothing in it has anyone making a double take to flesh out so far.

Its overall frame of the partnership paints you in exactly the way I think people respect you most, and I think Hirsh might actually have come up with a theme that will stick.

Metropolitan Museum Announces "American Woman: Fashioning a National Identity" for Spring 2010; First Costume Institute Exhibition Based on Renowned Brooklyn Museum Costume Collection

Gala Benefit May 3, 2010, with Co-Chairs Oprah Winfrey, Patrick Robinson, and Anna Wintour

Exhibition dates: May 5–August 15, 2010
Exhibition location: Iris and B. Gerald Cantor Exhibition Hall, second floor
Press preview: Monday, May 3, 10 a.m.–1 p.m.

(New York, September 8, 2009) – The spring 2010 exhibition organized by The Costume Institute of The Metropolitan Museum of Art will be American Woman: Fashioning a National Identity, the first drawn exclusively from the newly established Brooklyn Museum Costume Collection at the Met. The exhibition, on view from May 5 through August 15, 2010 (preceded on May 3 by The Costume Institute Gala Benefit), will explore developing perceptions of the modern American woman from 1890 to 1940, and how they have affected the way American women are seen today. Focusing on archetypes of American femininity through dress, the exhibition will reveal how the American woman initiated style revolutions that mirrored her social, political, and sexual emancipation. “Gibson Girls” and “Screen Sirens” laid the foundation for today’s American woman – a theme that will be explored in a video installation.

The exhibition is made possible by Gap.

Additional support is provided by Condé Nast.

American Woman: Fashioning a National Identity

To celebrate the opening of the exhibition, the Museum's Costume Institute Gala Benefit will take place on Monday, May 3, 2010. The evening's Co-Chairs will be Oprah Winfrey; Patrick Robinson, designer for Gap; and Anna Wintour, Editor-in-Chief of Vogue. This fundraising event is The Costume Institute's main source of annual funding for exhibitions, operations, and capital improvements.

"The ideal of the American woman evolved from a dependence on European, Old World ideas of elegance into an independent New World sensibility that reflected freedoms still associated with American women today," said Andrew Bolton, Curator of The Costume Institute. "The show will look at fashion's role in defining how American women have been represented historically, and how fashion costumes women into archetypes that still persist in varying degrees of relevance."

Exhibition Overview

The exhibition will feature approximately 75 examples of haute couture and high fashion from the Brooklyn Museum Costume Collection at The Metropolitan Museum of Art, which was transferred to the Met from the Brooklyn Museum in January 2009. Many of the pieces have not been seen by the public in more than 30 years.

Visitors will walk through time as they enter circular galleries that reflect the milieu of each feminine archetype. Period clothing will be brought to life with panoramas animated by music, video, and lighting. The first gallery will evoke the ballroom of the "Heiress" (1890s), filled with ball gowns by Charles Frederick Worth. Scenes of the great outdoors will showcase the athleticism and physical independence of the "Gibson Girl" (1890s) as characterized by bathing costumes, riding ensembles, and cycling suits.

Picture galleries in connecting corridors will put faces to the archetypes and demonstrate how the gradual emancipation of the American woman was reflected in the media of the day. The "Heiress," embodied by Consuelo Vanderbilt and others, will be seen in oil paintings; the "Gibson Girl" in fashion illustrations; the art-collecting "Bohemian" (early 1900s) in photographs of Rita Lydig; and the "Suffragist" (1910s) in poster art showing Alice Paul, Lucy Burns, and others.

Photographs of "Flappers" (1920s) such as Clara Bow and Louise Brooks will precede galleries showing beaded chemise dresses by Lanvin and Molyneux, among others. Filmic representations of the "Screen Siren" (1930s) will herald a nightclub scene that will include body-cleaving, second-skin bias-cut gowns, including the Siren dress designed by Charles James and worn by Gypsy Rose Lee. In the final gallery, a video installation will demonstrate the significance of contemporary archetypes and the media's role in sustaining them despite the multi-dimensionality of the modern American woman.

Designers in the exhibition will include Travis Banton, Gabrielle Chanel, Callot Soeurs, Madame Etá, Elizabeth Hawes, Madame Grès, Charles James, Jeanne Lanvin, Liberty & Company, Edward Molyneux, Paul Poiret, Elsa Schiaparelli, Jessie Franklin Turner, Valentina, Madeleine Vionnet, Weeks, Charles Frederick Worth, and Jean-Philippe Worth, among others.

A simultaneous exhibition of masterworks from the Brooklyn Museum Costume Collection will be presented at the Brooklyn Museum from May 7 – August 1, 2010. American Style: Fashioning a National Collection will take a look at historic designs of the 19th and 20th century by designers including Charles James,

Norman Norell, Jeanne Paquin, and Elsa Schiaparelli collected by prominent women including Dominique de Menil, Millicent Rogers, and Lauren Bacall. Many of the objects have never been previously exhibited. This exhibition will be organized by Jan Glier Reeder, Consulting Curator of the Brooklyn Museum Costume Collection at The Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Credits

The Metropolitan Museum exhibition is organized by Andrew Bolton, Curator, with the support of Harold Koda, Curator in Charge, both of the Met's Costume Institute. Nathan Crowley, a production designer of films including The Prestige, The Dark Knight, and Public Enemies will serve as the exhibition's creative consultant, as he did for the 2008 exhibition Superheroes: Fashion and Fantasy.

The design for the 2010 Costume Institute Gala Benefit will be created by Nathan Crowley with Raul Avila.

Online Feature and Publication

The Metropolitan Museum's website (metmuseum.org) will feature information about the exhibition.

A book, High Style: Masterworks from The Brooklyn Museum Costume Collection by Jan Glier Reeder, will accompany both the Met and Brooklyn exhibitions. It will be published by The Metropolitan Museum of Art and distributed by Yale University Press.

My update from this list:

Sandy Levin will be this week, working on the other Hill appointments and will get Walter I. in as soon as possible.

Staff retreat -- I don't believe we could use Blair House on the 14th but Huma will remember better than me. The 28th is the Friday before Memorial Day weekend, not sure if people have plans that would interfere?

I will follow up on Vietnam symposium and I did call Reyes' office but never heard back so will try again tomorrow.

Here are a few odds and ends:

Since I'm going to the Bahrain Manama Conf in December, I want to decide where else I might go. The climate conf in Mexico will be held Nov 29-Dec 10. There is also a Dec 10 conf on trafficking in Luxor sponsored by Mrs. Mubarak that Melanne hopes I could attend.

Add to list of meetings the following--

Ron Kirk
Hilda Solis
Walter Isaacson--high priority
Sandy Levin
Loretta Sanchez
Max Baucus
Eliot Engel

Ben Cardin wants me to come give a speech about the 35th anniversary of the Helsinki Accords on the Hill so I thought if I'm going back to Helsinki for a speech about the Helsinki Accords in July maybe I should do the Hill speech around that time.

Also, Cheryl wants a staff retreat/meeting so what about May 14 or 28?

Did you get info about the Vietnam symposium the State historian, Carland, invited me to open on 9/29?

I want to plan to go to the Arctic Council in Greenland next April.

Did you find out when Cong Reyes's conf on border security was in August?

Dear friends,

The event on May 12th (www.turkicamericanassembly.org) is extremely important for our community. Even a stop by of our Madam Secretary would mean a lot! This will be the largest Turkic American organization in the USA bringing together more than 150 Turkish and Turkic Cultural Centers, more than 50 business associations, and several interfaith dialog centers, private non-profit schools. I wish I could come and explain to you before the organization and the event but I could not. We are extremely proud of the work our Madam Secretary has been doing and her showing up for even 15 minutes will motivate our community as it had done several times before!

 I am sure the DG's office has formal bios for them. I can get it, just let me know.

According to Wiki and Harvard webpages, it's Drew Gilpin Faust. This is a woman. Her legal first name is Catherine, but looks like she goes by Drew.

Subject: AFSA Plaque Ceremony Remarks

RELEASE IN FULL

I want to put this in writing so that we have a record of it for next year.

For the last 2 years at the AFSA Plaque ceremony, the Secretary has delivered the president's message in its entirety. We do this simply because it is tradition.

This year, the President's message was written much differently than it was last year, and it virtually mirrored her own remarks. In the future we will not include his message in her verbal remarks, and instead include it in the written program. One other problem is that the person who introduced her, Susan Johnson, also accounted how each person passed. So at the plaque ceremony, the audience heard the stories of the deceased 3 different times... first from Susan, then from the President, and finally from HRC. Not ideal. Passing along so we have reference for next year.

We're not asking for anyone besides Amb. Eikenberry at this time. If Jake Sullivan is planning to attend, I would have to determine who else would attend. But because we are not planning to have anyone else, I can't answer this at that time.

Hello, Lona –

I was told that you are the Secretary's scheduler. Just wanted to draw your attention to a request from Amb. Eikenberry to meet with S sometime on Monday prior to her meeting with President Karzai. Because this is happening Monday and we will need to draft paper, just wanted to put this on your radar.

THANKS!

Hi guys –

Please tune in – or set your TiVo – for a profile of Secretary Clinton on 60 Minutes this Sunday at 7pm on CBS.

A million thanks to everyone who helped with this very involved project, which literally began more than a year ago.

From CBS.com...

"THE SECRETARY OF STATE - Scott Pelley follows Hillary Rodham Clinton as she performs her duties as secretary of state and questions her on the latest developments in foreign policy and the recent terror scare in New York's Times Square. Henry Schuster is the producer."

Subject: Turkish American Community's message about the condition of President Clinton

Dear Friends,

Please share this email with the Madam Secretary:

Dear Mrs. Clinton,

We were deeply saddened by the news that Mr. Clinton had needed an operation due to his heart condition and were thankful to Almighty God to hear that the operation went very well and he was recovering. We would like you and him to know that we are ready to help by any means if and when necessary to you and and to your family as your "friends".

We would like to visit him at the hospital or at your residence if possible to present our deepest feelings. His Presidency was a legacy and his current service to our county and to humanity is vital.

Yours Faithfully,

Gokhan Ozkok on behalf of the Turkish American Community and the Turkish People all around the world.
