Yes - we know them well. I should have put James Rucker on my list. He's very good. Up and coming civil rights leader. They are awesome.

However, you should be aware that Color of Change is rather highly politicized. They are lead on the campaign to strip Glenn Beck of advertisers. And Van Jones is one of the founders. Not that these things should dissuade you from inviting them - I just wanted you to know.

Ben, do you know anything about Color of Change, and if anyone from that group would be a good panelist? I saw that the executive director, James Rucker, did a short video on NN.
