We are deeply distressed by this harsh and unwarranted sentence. Ms. Saberi has already endured a four-month confinement in Evin Prison, and we are very concerned for her well-being. We appeal to all of those who share our concerns to ask that the Iranian authorities show compassion and allow her to return home to the United States immediately with her parents.

RELEASE IN FULL

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIEDINFORMATION MEMO FOR THE SECRETARY

FROM: PM – Andrew J. Shapiro

SUBJECT: Managing 1207, the Pakistan Counterinsurgency Capabilities Fund, and a 1206-like Pilot Program in the Administration's FY 2011
Budget

We are making some progress in returning programmatic oversight of appropriate security assistance programs to State in FY 2011. Our budget settlement with OMB includes funding to administer the Pakistan Counterinsurgency Capability Fund (PCCF) and a direct program for reconstruction, security, and stabilization activities to replace the process of receiving and implementing DoD "section 1207" funds. Although details are being finalized this week, State also has requested funds and authorities for a flexible "section 1206"-like pilot program for FY 2011. After analyzing the resource requirements and implementation mechanisms for transitioning 1) PCCF, 2) a 1207-like program, and 3) a 1206-like program to State, I am confident that the Department will be able to manage and oversee these programs to ensure they bolster and are aligned with the Administration's foreign policy objectives.

"1207-like" Fund for Reconstruction, Security and Stabilization

The "1207-like" program will be the easiest to take over since we propose to implement using the same interagency process currently used for the 1207 program. This approach identifies problems in countries at risk of conflict that require immediate intervention outside the regular budget cycle. S/CRS consults extensively with State and USAID regional and functional bureaus and DoD's Combatant Commanders to identify these countries and then works with post to develop innovative whole-of-government programs. In many cases, these programs would be linked to S/CRS's Civilian Response Corps deployments. Final funding decisions are reviewed first by a working-level committee, and then by a DAS-level committee, each with representation from S/CRS, F, USAID, DoD's Joint Staff, and OSD. Since FY 2006, the 1207 process has successfully funded $350 million in programs in 22 countries. Although the process will continue to seek a "whole of government" consensus on countries and programs, shifting the funding to State should improve efficiency.

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

Pakistan Counterinsurgency Capabilities Fund

For PCCF, which is a $1.2 billion program, PM is committed to a seamless transition from the current DoD-managed Pakistan Counterinsurgency Fund (PCF) program to an equally agile State-managed program that will not degrade DoD's mission. PM has already engaged with DoD's PCF managers to discuss transition issues and has developed a notional, interagency-inclusive process for implementing PCCF. Based on our analysis, PM will require three full-time positions to effectively implement PCCF. In order to administer State's concurrence under PCF, PM has already developed expertise. Reshuffling that current expertise on Pakistan security assistance resident within PM will allow us to continue to prepare PCCF's transition to State in the near term, but we will ultimately require permanent positions to manage this program effectively. PM is also working with M to identify the personnel and administrative resources necessary to quickly stand up a team whose primary mission and focus will be to work closely with Richard Holbrooke's team to manage PCCF and ensure the program's success.

The PCCF management and implementation process we envision is similar to the current DoD PCF process, particularly in its responsiveness and flexibility, but will provide the opportunity for senior-level State Department guidance and oversight earlier in the process. Specifically, under the current DoD PCF process, while Embassy Islamabad's Office of the Defense Representative is actively involved in generating the initial assessment of requirements in coordination with Ambassador Patterson, State does not have a formal opportunity to validate requirements to ensure they align with larger regional policy context until just prior to submission of a spend plan as part of the congressional notification.

The new process that we propose (Tab 1) will continue to rely on DoD to generate programmatic details given their proven expertise (much as we do for traditional security assistance). But senior leadership at State, in addition to the Chief of Mission, will have the opportunity to review/approve the initial requirements, as well as the actual spend plan, after DoD has formulated them. This process, shepherded by PM, will reflect the time sensitive urgency of the program while also allowing input from regional and functional policy experts from key offices and bureaus (SCA, S/SRAP, F, H, L, S/CT) upon which a recommendation for approval to senior leadership will be based. In cases where there is disagreement with a DoD proposal, the issue will be promptly raised to the appropriate leadership level for resolution (PM A/S, S/SRAP, D (L), S). In terms of implementation, we expect to continue to rely principally on DoD to execute PCCF given its expertise and ownership over the defense acquisition system and processes that will be used to procure PCCF-funded equipment and training.

1206-like Fund

Under its existing 1206 authority, DoD provides, with your concurrence, military training and equipment to foreign military forces for counterterrorism purposes or for participation alongside U.S. forces in stability operations (e.g., contributing to the Afghanistan effort.) A new 1206-like pilot program at State would provide a flexible account to meet emergent train and equip requirements during a given fiscal year. Since the program's inception in FY 2006, PM has led the 1206 process at State, to include providing guidance to our embassies in the field; reviewing, analyzing and prioritizing proposals based on input from regional and functional office and bureaus; and recommending projects for your concurrence. Based on our initial analysis, PM will require one full-time position to effectively implement a 1206-like pilot program. Reshuffling current 1206 expertise resident in PM will allow us to manage a 1206-like pilot program in the near term. We will work with M to identify resources to provide full-time support over the longer term.

While having three separate assistance streams transition to State in the same year may seem initially challenging, the needs of the three programs are quite different and the programmatic management is spread to different parts of the Department. Programs funded by 1207 already are implemented by State and USAID and the interagency decision process will continue. SCA and SRAP obviously will work with PM on policy management of the Pakistan fund, with continued strong Embassy involvement, and DOD implementation. While we still have work to do with OMB and the NSC to resolve the 1206-pilot proposal, PM already has taken steps to identify the capacities needed.

As the budgets and authorities for PCCF, 1207 and possibly 1206 transition to State, we will have to prove to the interagency and to Congress that we have the capacity to manage and provide leadership for these programs. Indeed, from the internal Administration perspective, this initial transition will be seen as the test case for State's ability to grow capacity more broadly in other areas, as envisioned in the QDDR process, while from the Hill perspective, it will be seen as a reassertion of State's prerogatives. The Department's existing expertise, supplemented by modest increases in personnel, will provide the necessary capacity to manage and add value to these programs.

I stand ready to answer any questions that you may have on this subject.

Just so you know I have been on the phone for the last hour with Rendell, Janice Jacobs' office and various people in Haiti dealing with these orphans. It seems that fewer of them were processed than we originally thought and these American women who have been taking care of them are understandably emotionally attached. Rendell has expressed frustration but has finally come to understand the importance of ensuring that the paperwork is correct. So we were able to let him board the plane with a lot fewer children than he originally thought. Will keep u updated.

Subject: Criticism of Haiti relief efforts by the head of Italy's Civil Protection Agency

The Ambassador called Gianni Letta in Berlusconi's office first thing this morning to complain about comments to the Italian press by Guido Bertolaso, head of Italy's Civil Protection Agency and the person who spearheaded relief efforts after last year's earthquake in L'Aquila. (As you will have seen, Bertolaso criticized relief efforts in Haiti as "pathetic," calling US military efforts ineffective and out of touch for the scope of the emergency.)

The Ambassador expressed our unhappiness and disappointment with Bertolaso's comments and noted that while Frattini tried to undo the damage by distancing the GOI from Bertolaso's comments in remarks to the press as he took off for Washington, this was not enough. He told Letta that the GOI should do what the French did and make clear publicly that the GOI did not agree with Bertolaso's comments. The Ambassador noted that Frattini will undoubtedly encounter an angry Secretary Clinton first thing this morning in Washington and so the GOI needed to do something to correct the record.

Letta told the Ambassador he will discuss this with Berlusconi. The Ambassador will circle back with Letta later in the day, and left the door open on what our public response would be, since we will undoubtedly get inquiries from the press here.

We will keep you all posted as this unfolds here today but wanted you to have the latest as soon as possible before the 8:15 between the Secretary and Frattini.

RELEASE IN FULL

ADVANCING WOMEN'S and GIRL'S DEVELOPMENT in AFGHANISTAN

The advancement of women's rights is critical to political and economic progress everywhere around the world. This is especially true in Afghanistan, where women's human rights have been attacked and eroded over the past thirty years and even more so under Taliban rule. Under the Taliban, women's exclusion from public life and persecution spread like a tsunami. Girls were banned from attending school, women from daily shopping unless accompanied by a male relative, and cultural activities open to women were eliminated. Forced to cover up when they left the house, they silently and furtively moved through the streets, afraid of engendering the watchful eye of the religious police who brutalized women found in violation of the highly restrictive Taliban edicts.

As Secretary Clinton said recently, "the vast majority of people in the country want to see their daughters educated, their wives to have access to economic livelihoods, and their mothers to healthcare." Women's empowerment is inextricably linked to security, economic opportunity, effective governance, and social development. It is a simple fact that no country can prosper if half its citizens are left behind. All the development indices show that investments in women are the single most effective poverty alleviation mechanism contributing to a society's prosperity; similarly, lack of investment characterizes failed states.

The President's strategy for Afghanistan includes the provision of assistance to women to build their capacity to participate fully in Afghan society thereby building their country's future. Secretary Clinton has long been committed to improving the rights of Afghan women, both in her work as Senator and as Secretary of State. When Ambassador-at-Large for Global Women's Issues Melanne Verveer traveled to Afghanistan last June, she noted that "the women in Afghanistan are critical to progress and stability...it is only by men and women working together can Afghanistan move forward." Ambassador Holbrooke has met with women Parliamentarians on every visit since 2006, and has said that the sessions got to the heart of the cross-cutting issues of civil reconstruction that nation now faces. Senior USG officials have lobbied for effective Afghan ministers in the key ministries who are committed to women's issues and deliver results. We have also advocated increased numbers of women serving in the Cabinet and other senior government positions where they can ensure women's voices resonate throughout the Afghan government.

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

1/25/2010 5:09 PM

The promotion of women's rights is integrated into overall U.S. strategy and programs, including education/literacy, health care, security, rule of law, political participation and economic development, covered in the State Department's Regional Stabilization Plan. The United States Government (USG) is committed to the Afghan leadership of programs that directly enhance development, particularly as it relates to women's issues, and as is laid out in both the Afghan National Development Strategy (ANDS) and, more specifically, the ten-year National Action Plan for the Women of Afghanistan (NAPWA), which concerns itself with: 1) Security; 2) Government, Rule of Law, and Human Rights; and 3) Economic and Social Development. Women's issues are not confined to government-to-government ties; they enjoy the collaboration of the private sector and individuals in the US who have come together through the US- Afghan Women's Council to work in tandem with USG to support Afghan women to meet their critical needs; for example by conducting training programs for businesswomen and NGO leaders, economic development projects and burn specialists, to mention a few.

Our objectives are to:

1. Initiate and bolster existing program initiatives to improve women's and girls' access to education.
2. Initiate and bolster existing programs related to women's security and the institutions that serve women.
3. Support women's leadership development in both the public and private sectors.
4. Promote women's access to formal and informal justice mechanisms and the enforcement of existing laws and Constitutional guarantee of equality.
5. Initiate and bolster existing program initiatives to improve women's and girls' access to healthcare.
6. Strengthen existing activities to support and expand economic development opportunities for women.

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

1/25/2010 5:09 PM

Key Initiatives

Education: Investing in girls' education is the single most effective development decision a country can make. Beyond doubling the skilled workforce, this investment results in healthier young women, delayed marriages, and healthier children in the families that these educated young women create. Moreover, Afghan men increasingly want girls to be educated, because educated girls are more productive members of the household and better contribute to the well-being of families.

Under the Taliban, fewer than 900,000 boys – and no girls – were enrolled in Afghanistan's schools. Today, more than 6.2 million students are enrolled in Afghanistan schools, 40 percent of whom are girls. Although educational indicators for women remain poor – only an estimated 21 percent of Afghan women are literate – USG initiatives are removing barriers and opening doors.

Since 2001, the U.S. Agency for International Development (USAID) repaired or built more than 670 schools, printed 69 million textbooks, and improved the qualifications of 54,000 Afghan teachers in instructional methodologies, subject knowledge and professional attitudes. These programs have expanded and improved the quality of community-based education in areas where there are no government schools. USG assistance has extended to 18 provinces, 1,565 communities, more than 43,000 children (60 percent of whom are girls), and 1,565 teachers. In the last fiscal year, we provided literacy training and instruction in productive skills to more than 100,000 people from over 1,500 communities in 20 provinces. We are committed to working with the government of Afghanistan to further expand these programs, and to enhance the female literacy rate and women's and girls' access to formal and informal education at all levels.

Security: We continue to urge the Afghan government to assign police officers to protect women leaders, and to take seriously the everyday threats against women and girls by extremists who try to discourage school attendance by destroying schools or throwing acid on young schoolgirls. Our programs provide greater protection to girls' schools and health facilities by building protective walls around those institutions that request them. We are increasing women's participation in the security sector through both recruitment and promotion of women as well as training on gender-related topics for men with the Afghan National Police and Afghan National Army. From 2003 to the present, the Bureau of International Narcotics and Law Enforcement Affairs (INL) programs have trained over 500 female police officers to play a stronger role regarding women's issues within the police force; 166 of those officers are employed in the Family Response Units (FRU) devoted to domestic violence cases. Our assistance has improved the number and capacity of Police Family Response Units that respond to cases of violence against women; U.S. mentors have worked with over three dozen FRUs in 10 provinces. These FRUs addressed 897 cases during 2009. Our programs also conduct outreach to Afghan communities to teach them about the FRUs and to encourage women affected by violence to make use of their services.

Political Process: For women to have a voice in their nation's political process, they need to be able to participate in all levels of government. They need to be represented in greater numbers in civil service positions, and they need to have an active role in the peace process. UN Security Council Resolution 1325 reaffirms the need to include women in deliberations on international peace and security at all stages, including conflict resolution and post-conflict planning and peace-building. Their voices need to be heard, not only because they have the right to participate in the decisions that affect their lives, but also because their experiences and perspectives improve the quality of the resulting policies. Women's involvement in post-conflict reconciliation and the peace process is a USG priority.

Women's caucuses are being strengthened in Parliament and their leadership developed in the civil service through professional exchange programs and technical assistance. We have increased the number of male and female Parliamentarians educated about the principles of equal rights that are enshrined in the Afghan Constitution. We need to encourage the expansion of existing national and international scholarships for women, as well as expanding the number of existing internship programs for women in Afghan Government Ministries, and are looking at funding options in this regard.

We will continue to work with the Ministry of Women's Affairs (MOWA) to build its capacity to work effectively with women across the country and across the government. Our programs will support MOWA at the central, provincial, and district levels in their ability to work with NGOs that are providing legal, psychological, and shelter support services to women nationwide.

In advance of Parliamentary elections this fall, we are making use of public outreach and education as well as financial support to Afghan-led civic education programs for men and women in order to encourage women's greater electoral participation, both as candidates and as voters. We have supported training for female members of Parliament and women leaders elected at the grassroots level on how to be more effective and capable leaders.

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

1/25/2010 5:09 PM

Rule of Law and Human Rights: Some progress has been made in the area of women's human rights, but much remains to be done. Violence against women and girls is endemic, including domestic abuse, rape, forced marriages, forced prostitution, kidnappings, and so-called "honor" killings. This violence cannot be explained away as cultural; it is criminal, and must be addressed as such. The overall USG justice strategy explicitly refers to women and the need to ensure that women's rights are promoted and protected by Afghan justice systems. Central to that objective is the need to intertwine women's rights within both the formal and traditional sectors – and to ensure that US programs within the traditional justice sphere do not legitimize discrimination against women; rather, USG engagement and support for traditional justice programs provides a platform for addressing women's rights within the traditional justice sector.

Afghan women and girls can be sent to prison if they defy their family's wishes about marriage, if they run away from home, flee domestic violence, elope, or are accused of having premarital or extramarital sex. State Department programs through the INL Bureau continue to promote the social reintegration of female inmates. They examine why women are incarcerated and whether it is safe for them to return, as well as advocate for humane treatment and the provision of skills and education both during and after incarceration. 109 female corrections officers have completed the Corrections Officer's Basic Course.

Our programs also train and educate male and female police officers, prosecutors, defense attorneys, corrections officers and others in civil society in the fair interpretation and application of the sections of the penal code that affect women. From January to mid-August 2009, 109 women and 905 men participated in INL-funded Justice Sector Support Program (JSSP) trainings and professional development opportunities. Some training topics focused on violence against women issues, including gender justice training for lawyers, victim advocacy training (with UNIFEM), gender justice training for corrections officers, and gender justice training for Family Response Unit police officers. Since 2004, INL has supported judicial education study trips for 17 Afghan women judges.

With regard to women's involvement in local shuras, we work to link the state and traditional systems of governance to encourage them to isolate and reject traditional practices that harm women while harnessing and strengthening elements that reinforce women's equality and access to justice.

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

1/25/2010 5:09 PM

Our INL programs also provide counseling and shelter services to women affected by domestic violence. To build on these services, we are mobilizing attorneys, government officials, and the public to combat violence against women and trafficking in persons. We encourage the re-establishment of the Afghan women judges association that the government previously disallowed, as well as support the development of an Afghan women lawyer's network.

We exert moral suasion to promote human rights in Afghanistan by building awareness of the provisions and obligations of the international treaties and agreements to which Afghanistan is a signatory. The U.S. continues to support the Afghan Independent Human Rights Commission (AIHRC). In addition, we support the courageous progressive voices within Afghanistan, including the movements that advocate further reform of the Shia Personal Status Law and swift implementation and strict enforcement of the Elimination of Violence Against Women law. Ambassador Verveer and other senior USG officials successfully engaged with the Afghan government during 2009 to excise and redraft the most restrictive and objectionable sections of the Shia Personal Status Law. We engage women on how they can use their roles and influence within the family and community to combat the spread of violent extremist ideologies and to cultivate support for women's development at the local level.

We put our extensive PRT presence to use in extending public outreach on women's issues beyond the cities. Gender specialists within PRTs identify key women leaders and nascent leaders in rural areas, determine their needs, and identify appropriate assistance. They also ensure that women's shuras are consulted on development projects and have a say in local development matters.

Health: Progress in women's health issues has improved in Afghanistan but challenges remain. On the positive side, under age five mortality has dropped 25 percent and infant mortality has dropped 22 percent, yet Afghanistan still has the second-highest maternal mortality rate in the world, and other health indicators for women, particularly in the area of reproductive health, are similarly low.

Drug addiction is also a problem among Afghan women and their children. INL funds the only 3 residential drug treatment centers for women, with adjacent child care and treatment facilities, in Kabul, Herat, and Balkh. Three new centers will open in Farah, Badakhshan, and Nangarhar provinces during 2010.

With USG assistance, access to health care has risen from 8 percent to 84 percent. The number of midwives available to assist with deliveries has quadrupled; the number of health facilities with women health workers has more than doubled. There has been a 26 percent increase in the total number of antenatal care visits, and a 30 percent increase in the number of deliveries in health facilities in USAID-supported provinces. Women are receiving proper care from trained health workers during pregnancy and delivery, resulting in fewer complications during delivery and better outcomes for women and newborns.

We will expand these existing programs to further increase women's access to health services, to essential medicines, and pre- and postnatal care. We are also building additional clinics and other facilities, especially in rural areas, so that women get access to the care and information they require for good health and for family planning.

Economic Development: Women are drivers of economic growth, and it is essential that they are included in all economic policies and policymaking. They invest up to 90 percent of their earnings in their families and communities, which is twice the rate that men do. To harness the multiplier effect that women provide, they need access to credit to grow their businesses. Microcredit has lifted tens of millions of women and their families out of poverty, but microcredit is not enough. Women need improved financial access in order to build these micro-businesses into small and medium enterprises. They need markets for their products, and they need education and training.

Agricultural development in Afghanistan is a top U.S. priority. Eighty percent of the Afghan people earn their income from agriculture, yet only fifty percent of the arable land is currently under cultivation. The key to increasing land yield and productivity is to increase the skilled human capital available to the country – and the most efficient way to accomplish that is by training women to participate in the workforce.

We are currently training women in agricultural production and animal husbandry; in veterinary medicine, and in poultry breeding. There are programs that provide women with skills in using farm machinery and in creating small businesses based on agriculture. Women are active participants in our agricultural programs ($3.25 million in FY 2008 and 2009), which provides economic opportunities and expanded access to financial services for micro-enterprises and agricultural small to medium sized enterprises. The program began in 2006 and has disbursed over $82 million in 21 of Afghanistan's 34 provinces. In 2008 and 2009, the program dispersed a total of $12, 736, 862 in loans, including loans to women.

We are developing economic opportunities for women in Afghanistan through access to credit, business training and mentoring, and providing the extension of mobile credit systems to women. The Afghanistan Small and Medium Enterprise Development Program (approx. $14.8 million in FY 2008 and 2009) is active in Helmand, Herat, Kabul, and Nangarhar provinces. This program works to increase opportunities for trade, employment, and investment in Afghanistan, focusing particularly on the economic empowerment of women. In FY 2008 and 2009 activities included providing business skills training to more than 4,300 women-owned small and medium enterprises (SMEs) throughout the country, improving their productivity and ability to compete in local and regional markets.

In FY 2008 and FY 2009, USAID helped establish 27 women business associates that provided advocacy and other services to their constituents. These associations received start-up and bridge grants which allowed them to build the basic infrastructure of their organizations. Among the newly established associations was the first women's shopkeepers association which is registered with the government and working to build the capacity of its members through business training.

USAID continues its financial and technical support to the Afghan Women's Business Federation, and umbrella organization for approximately 87 women's associations. AWBF received $500,000 in FY 2008 and 2009 in grants to support its daily organizations operations and its provision of better management services to its members.

We are working to strengthen women-led traditional artisanal industries – such as handicrafts and clothing in silk, cotton, cashmere, and suede – through enhanced training, and will help link these artisans with international markets. Through our programs, Afghan women are receiving access to trade missions and other opportunities and tools they need to begin a small business, or to take an existing business to the next level of development.

During Ambassador Verveer's trip to Afghanistan this past June, she and Ambassador Eikenberry announced the start of a small grants program to support gender equality in Afghanistan. The three-year USD 26.3 million program has recently made its first grants to women-led NGOs in the diverse areas of training in mechanized lace embroidery for sale, computer and English skills, radio programming for women, and the provision of dairy cows for women's agricultural initiatives. In all these ways, through the small grants programs and through other economic initiatives, Afghan women are improving their own lives and those of their families.

Goals

- Security:

- Increased number of Ministry of Interior, Ministry of Defense, or community police officers assigned to women leaders' personal protection;
- Fewer attacks against women leaders, schools and health facilities;
- Increased prosecution for those who perpetrate attacks against women, women's health facilities, or girls' schools;
- Increased number of female police officers and FRU personnel;
- Higher numbers of police and army personnel trained on gender issues.

- Political process:

- Increased number of women participating in peace processes;
- Increased number of women participating in the Councils at all levels, from community to provincial;
- More women in leadership positions trained to effectively lobby on behalf of women's rights;
- More consultation between members of the Afghan government and women from a broad cross-section of Ministries and civil society;
- Increased number of women interning in Afghan Government Ministries.
- Increased numbers of female leaders running for office at the district, provincial and national level;
- Higher female voter turnout in elections;
- The establishment of a Women's Leadership Development Institute;
- The development of MOWA as an implementing, rather than just policy-making Ministry.

- Rule of law and human rights:

- Greater frequency of home and community discussions among men and women on preventing violence against women;
- Greater cooperation from mullahs and other religious leaders in publicly condemning violence against women;
- An increase in the number of functioning women's outreach centers and shelters (especially those that allow children) across the country;
- More progressive and reform-oriented legislation on women's issues, and better implementation of existing reforms;

SENSITIVE BUT UNCLASSIFIED

1/25/2010 5:09 PM

- The review and modification of legal codes regarding child custody, divorce, inheritance rights and violence against women;
 - Increased protection for women and girls in detention and an increase in social reintegration services;
 - Decreased social and legal tolerance of so-called "honor" crimes;
 - Increased training of women lawyers and advancement of those lawyers to the bench;
 - Re-establishment of an independent women judges' and lawyers association;
 - Removal of provisions from the Shia Personal Status Law that contradict the Afghan constitution or are in violation of international human rights;
 - Parliamentary review and approval and government implementation and enforcement of Afghanistan's first law against violence against women (EVAW Law).
- Education:
 - Increased rate of women's literacy;
 - Higher numbers of girls attending primary schools as well as secondary/university/vocational training;
 - Increased number of scholarships awarded to women;
 - Increased female teacher recruitment and training;
 - Increased number of female Afghan students studying or serving as apprentices in the U.S or third countries;
 - Elimination of attacks against girls attending school.
- Health:
 - Continued reduction in maternal and child mortality;
 - Increased use of health services by women;
 - Increased recruitment, training and deployment of female health workers.
- Economic development:
 - Decreased women's unemployment rate;
 - Increased number of women-run businesses;
 - Increased number of women involved in artisanal industries;
 - The creation of a "made by women in Afghanistan" label for goods.

Thank you for taking time for your real job of running the foreign policy of the United States of America to consider my concerns. Your graciousness and consideration has always been overwhelming. This has been one of the great pleasures of getting to know you over the years.

I hope to speak to you soon and, again, thank you.

Sincerely,

Dear Secretary Clinton:

Our client [redacted] was among a group of ten Americans arrested and detained in Haiti on January 29, 2010, while on a humanitarian mission to help Haitian children and families displaced by that country's horrific earthquake. We believe the arrest and detention of [redacted] is the result of a colossal misunderstanding and are writing to request the formal assistance of the United States Government in securing his prompt release.

[redacted] has now been detained for twelve days, yet he has not been afforded an opportunity to speak with [redacted] or with U.S. counsel to assist with his defense against any charges potentially arising under Haitian law. [redacted] was able to speak directly with a representative of the State Department yesterday afternoon, which was much appreciated, but that is no substitute for the ability [redacted]

It is our understanding from press reports that court proceedings against [redacted] and the other Americans continued yesterday and that all the Americans were represented collectively by a single Haitian counsel. We have not been able to independently confirm that this counsel was freely chosen by [redacted] nor are we in a position to determine whether collective representation of all ten Americans is appropriate and in [redacted] interests in light of his particular facts. An American citizen being detained and prosecuted abroad without freely chosen and independent legal representation is disturbing enough, but it is all the more so given the fragile and uncertain state of Haiti's judicial system following the extraordinary events of the past few weeks. Without questioning the integrity of the individuals involved in the Haitian judicial system, we think it is clear that the unprecedented situation that exists in Haiti now requires a response beyond what would be expected in the ordinary course. We are particularly concerned to ensure that [redacted] is accorded the full benefit of consular assistance protections provided for in Article 36 of the Vienna Convention on Consular Relations. We are also concerned about the health of [redacted] and others and want them to have clean clothes, a balanced diet and humane conditions.

We would appreciate it if you could continue to devote significant personal attention to this matter, as we are confident that with your assistance this misunderstanding could be quickly resolved. To that end, we respectfully ask that you make a personal request to the Haitian authorities to allow [redacted] without delay. Similar access should also be provided to the families of the other Americans being held in Haiti. Fresh supplies would also be helpful. We look forward to your response.

Sincerely,

Reginald J. Brown

Boriak of the Russian embassy just called, with the following:

- The original Russian proposal was for Lavrov and Clinton to sign in Prague.
- Subsequently the NSC suggested that this be done on the margins of the nuclear security summit in Washington.
- Russia is prepared to sign the agreement in Washington on the margins of the NSS, again at the Lavrov-Clinton level.
- Russia is looking forward to U.S. proposal on timing and location.

Hi Huma - Tony Rodham emailed and called me, looking for help with [redacted] green card renewal. DHS handles green cards. Do you want me to tell Mr. Rodham that the State Department doesnt handle Green Card matters or do you want me to tell him something else?

Also - he asked for follow up on two other issues:

- [redacted] visit which Lona said that you wanted to regret
- CV for [redacted] He forwarded it to me but I'm not sure why. If this doesnt sound familiar to you I can ask him what its for.

Thanks

Huma, attached is the current list of attendees for Saturday's dinner. We are planning on taking a crack at the seating tomorrow morning Shanghai time. It would be great if you could look through the list and identify those who you would like to seat at HRC's table. Our thought was to have a senior USG "anchor" each table. But also let me know if you think someone like Amb Huntsman should sit at her table instead of hosting his own.

Thanks!

Dear Team -

Attached is the RSVP list for the Secretary's dinner at the USAP. We have had a great response especially from the Chinese officials and the USAP sponsors. We extended 178 invitations - currently we have 124 accepts and 31 regrets. We are following up with 24 who have not yet responded including 10 sponsors.

We are doing a seating meeting tomorrow at 11:00 am at the PAS Program Room. At the meeting will be Kris Balderston for sponsors, Chris Wurzel for Chinese Officials and the protocol team. You are welcome to join us and provide input or send any suggestions via email this evening. We will have 15 tables with a senior USG or key official hosting the table.

Thanks,
Grace Garcia

Thank you, I think Michelle Kydd Lee , had Darrel Strom make a call as well, so you might want to check in with him, so you do not double up.

Subject: Mexico State Luncheon Guest List

Hi Huma – please see attached guest list for the Mexico State Luncheon – most are recommendations from the desk. We also included proposed names of the Secretary's personal guests (highlighted in yellow) – these are folks that either have a connection to Mexico or are friends that did not attend the India State Luncheon etc. We would especially love your feedback on those names.

A few other notes:

*We crosschecked our list with the WH Dinner/Reception list to avoid overlap. H cleared on MOC names, Philippe signed off on Press and Hormats office signed off on business names.

*We are still waiting to get the VP's names (approx 30). Will send those once we receive.

*The US Delegation is still TBC – we included Cabinet names recommended by the Desk, but may need to re-evaluate Cabinet participation once we get the US Delegation names.

*The Mexico Delegation will be President Calderon and Mrs. Zavala plus 10 plus an additional 10 spouses/guests.

*All invites are single invites unless otherwise noted.

I have also re-attached the proposed invitation. Please let us know once the list and invite have been cleared. Thank you!

The WH should use this on all the Sunday shows, saying that this is the true GOP agenda and Boehner is behind it. Name Boehner. Force Boehner out. Sid

AUDIO: GOP Rep Says Shutting Down Govt, Even The VA, Is Worth 'The Pain' Because Govt Is Full Of 'Gangrene'
<http://thinkprogress.org/2010/09/10/westmoreland-shut-down/>

Lynn Westmoreland and John Boehner <<http://thinkprogress.org/wp-content/uploads/2010/09/westmoreland.JPG>> During a speech at the Faith and Freedom Coalition <<http://www.ffc Coalition.com/>> convention today, Rep. Lynn Westmoreland (R-GA) explained that as a recruitment officer for the NRCC, the Republican campaign committee in charge of electing House Republicans, he picked candidates that would stand with the caucus in unified campaigns to slash government, starting with health care.

If Republicans take back the House, Westmoreland said, they would use their new majority to force a budget battle akin to the fight staged by former Speaker Newt Gingrich with President Clinton and shut down the federal government. Westmoreland cautioned that he was fully aware that such a move would close down hospitals for veterans and shut down National Parks. But, Westmoreland argued that taking down the government is worth "the pain" because health reform and government programs are like a "gangrene" that "need to be cleaned out".

C06065593 UNCLASSIFIED U.S. Department of State Case No. F-2015-06322 Doc No. C06065593 Date: 04/27/2017

WESTMORELAND: If we hold the line, if we get those courageous men and women to be part of our majority. If we say look, the American people we're listening to the American people, this is what we're going to do. If government shuts down, we want you with us. We want you with us. We gotta have you because later on you all will call us and say look I didn't get my check. Daddy can't go to the VA. You know, the National Parks are closed. We need to be sure that you are with us because let me tell you this, all Americans need to understand. We need to understand this and I hope you can help share this analogy with people. Just as when you talk about what is going to possibly happen, you know I was unfortunate to cut myself with a chainsaw. I don't know how many of you have cut yourself with a chainsaw. Chainsaw is not the cleanest instrument if you're going to cut yourself. [...] He said this is going to sting a little bit and it hurt like crazy. But you know what, if he didn't clean out that wound, it would have never healed. I would have got gangrene. I would have died from it. And what has happened with this country, we have put bandaids on things that need to be cleaned out. It's going to take some pain for us to do the things that we need to do to right the ship.

Listen here:

Gingrich, who spoke after Westmoreland, has repeatedly <<http://thinkprogress.org/2010/04/09/gingrich-shutdown-2-0/>> advised that the GOP should follow through with a plan to shut down the American government.

Subject: UNGA Women's Reception

Hi all - we need to get the September 20th UNGA Women's Reception invite out the door by Friday morning and wanted to check in to nail down some decisions and get the invite cleared.

Location/Guest List, our options include:

Option 1: 42nd Floor Suite - We could use the suite if we limit the guest list to just principals (which Melanne is fine with per Rachel). Current guest list is 40 foreign, 10 Americans - accepts would shake out to about 30-35 women. Suite can hold 40 people standing w/ room for a camera spray. This would be the less expensive option as we would not have a food/beverage minimum.

Option 2: Basilidon Room (3rd Floor) - We can use this room if we invite principals plus one. Total guests would be approximately 55-70 people. The room is on the larger side for the guest number, but we could configure it to feel a little smaller.

Invitation Clearance:

The draft invite is attached for your review and clearance. We have the time listed as 5:00 - 6:00 p.m. A guest list from S/GWI will be coming later this afternoon.

Please let me know if you need anything else. Thanks! << File: Reception Invitation Draft.docx >>

Subject: FW: love this woman!

Just want you know that I absolutely LOVE the Ambassador to Mali, Gillian A. Milovanovic. She's a career Ambo that went to Mali in 2008. She needs to go far in this place. We are on the phone with her now on PPD. She takes a page out of the Pam White book.

AMBASSADOR Gillian A. Milovanovic

Gillian A. Milovanovic was nominated by the President as U.S. Ambassador to the Republic of Mali on February 21, 2008, and confirmed by the United States Senate on June 4, 2008. She was sworn in on September 26, 2008 and presented her credentials to President Amadou Toumani Toure on October 31, 2008.

In her previous position, Ms. Milovanovic served as U.S. Ambassador to the Republic of Macedonia from September 2005 to August 2008. Prior to that, she served as Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Pretoria, South Africa, from August 2002 to July 2005 and as Deputy Chief of Mission at the U.S. Embassy in Stockholm, Sweden, from July 1999 to August 2002.

Ambassador Milovanovic joined the Foreign Service in 1978. Her early assignments included a tour as an International Relations Officer in the U.S. State Department's Bureau of Oceans and International Environmental and Scientific Affairs, Office of Fisheries Affairs. She served as Vice Consul in Sydney, Australia; Staff Assistant to the Assistant Secretary of State for East Asian and Pacific Affairs; and as a Political Officer in Paris following a year of study at the French Ecole Nationale d'Administration.

In 1987, Ms. Milovanovic joined the U.S. Consulate General in Cape Town, South Africa, where she served as Political-Economic Officer and Deputy Consul General. From 1990 to 1994, she was Political-Military Affairs Officer and Deputy Political Counselor at the U.S. Embassy in Brussels. From 1994 to 1997, she served as Deputy Chief of Mission in Gaborone, Botswana. She was Director of the Office of Nordic and Baltic Affairs at the Department of State from 1997 to 1999.

Ambassador Milovanovic is a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania; Temple University, and the Ecole Nationale d'Administration. She is the recipient of two Superior Honor Awards and two Meritorious Honor Awards from the Department of State.

C06066027 UNCLASSIFIED U.S. Department of State Case No. F-2015-06322 Doc No. C06066027 Date: 04/27/2017

Ms. Milovanovic was born in New York. She is married and has two daughters.

Do you want to stay with potus? He's at the horrible sheraton. We had previously talked about staying elsewhere.
Best hotel is peninsula. Presidential is gone and so is second largest but they have some suites left so I want to sign contract if you are open to that.

We just finished another call with team burma. Think you are good shape.
Reminder you are at the second tier hotel cause the nice hotel owner was problematic.
We talked about doing proper burma pre-brief when you land today. There's a little space in your suite and also a room nearby to accomodate more people.

And dinner best option at the hotel or room service. Their dining hall is small but pleasant. You could maybe have drinks with press.

Few other issues.

As you know they are making a big deal out of the fact that president is hosting lunch since he only does it for heads of state typically. He wants to bring first lady and they want to present gifts.

Also, ethnic minorities started off with women and they got cut and everyone is blaming everyone else about why. We are now working to add back women to meeting.

RELEASE IN PART
B5

Marc and Ryan feel very strongly that on our side for Karzai it only be the 3 of us so we would not include Jake, Dan or the NSS. After their brief tonight, I agree. We don't care how many the Afs bring. That's up to them.

The hotel is funky fabulous. I actually like it—despite the high weird factor.

If Ban can't do, I'll try to catch him and ask what main issue(s) were for him.

I do not remember any Georgia date and Lona said she did not have it. So whatever we know let's put on calendar asap.

Merkel has to go to Paris for another emergency mtg w Sarkozy but we'll do pull aside.

On balance, all is well. Hope you are too. Phil Murphy sends his love.

i hope i am not getting fired over this hotel...

few notes for tomorrow which is going ok, just crazy:

- you have a LOT of staff around. we are trying to manage the best we can, leaving people behind when we don't need them etc.

- we already knew about [redacted] we got word when you were in asia and i did discuss with you but there is a lot going on [redacted] has been good at giving us a heads up on all meetings. Jordan and Ghana also confirmed for January as you know.

- for breakfast, you can go early if you want, melanne, marc, posner and ryan going through an agenda with them earlier which was always the plan.

- i was surprised merkel canceled bilat but you will still do a walk and talk.

- heard you cut karzai numbers even further. this was originally a much larger meeting and we cut down to bare essentials and Doug Lute begged for this Holmes guy. regardless, we will make sure afghans know since they matched our numbers.

- i know you said you want to see Ban. given how tight schedule is and how inflexible he tends to be, you may lose him fyi.

- Insanoglu asked for a formal bilat at the hotel tonight when you landed since he is staying at the same hotel. obviously told him no, he may try and grab you tomorrow but i don't think you need to do bilat with him.

hope it goes well.

Dear Ms. Abedin,

May I express my sincerest thanks to you and to Secretary Clinton for your care and concern which presumably led to the approval of my green card? The card itself arrived just after Christmas. After living in immigration limbo for so long, I still cannot believe the ordeal is over. Apart from the photograph (for which I can only blame myself), the card is a joy to behold. Thank you.

This comes with my very best wishes for a Happy New Year.

Sincerely,

Haven't really had a chance to download on rest of trip and the plans for next but some notes.

- tomorrow is fine, nothing new to report.
- ghana is a standard funeral. Annan has asked to see you so we will work out a meeting with him. Unless you say no.
- canceled the MCC event in Benin. There were pros and cons but the cons outweighed the pros. Its a successful program, just hasn't manifested itself entirely yet and the stand-alone event risked looking like its wasn't a success. Will get you to Istanbul at a more reasonable hour too.

- turkey is coming together although more time has been spent planning this day that it took to write Anna Karenina. Erdogan and Gul set. No one (except Frank) saw Gul as a must do, but Gul asked to see you so hard to turn down. Plus he's the Turkish leader coming to UNGA. Davutoglu also set and we are moving forward with the plan to see UNHCR reps and refugees with Davutoglu. We are also moving forward on the activists meeting which won't include SNC or any other opposition groups, just the grassroots level activists. Will also plan for press avail.

Hillary and Cheryl:
 As you both know, it is critical for your leadership team to take a breath and step back to review what has been accomplished, what the challenges are going forward, how the team can best meet the SOS' needs and the team be more effective in achieving your multiple goals. .
 Hillary, it is especially important for your team to have a clear sense that you are interested and engaged as the leader of the team – that you are listening and that you are watching. This perception is important in defining you as someone who is not just externally effective but internally effective. You will be adding people to the senior leadership team and it is important that they understand there is a core team actively leading – a team that is focused on making certain that their activities reflect the Secretary's vision and goals.
 You have a limited amount of time so I propose you keep it simple and focus on the three discussion questions outlined in this memo. I have also written some brief remarks which HRC could use to open the meeting.

Suggested Opening Re Purpose of Meeting - HRC

Express gratitude.

We have had a few months of working together and more and more of the team will be put in place over the next few months. It is important to me that we operate as a leadership team and that we take the time to look back at the last couple of months and informally evaluate how we are doing; what we could do better and what challenges lay ahead of us.
 Our discussion tonight is going to be a general one. We will be adding others to our leadership ranks and I want us as the core leadership group to set a tone and to make adjustments operationally that support and give direction the others who will

Hello Huma,

I hope you are well and enjoying your new adventure. Laurene asked that I pass this along to you in hopes of sharing it with Secretary Clinton.

Thank you.

Best,
Stacey

February 10, 2009

The Honorable Hillary Clinton

U.S. Department of State

2201 C Street NW

Washington, DC 20520

Dear Madam Secretary,

May we please bring your attention to the work of Dr. Sakena Yacoobi of the Afghan Institute of Learning (AIL), and her imminent trip to Washington DC. She will be in town February 14-15, and again on February 18. Dr. Yacoobi is in a unique position to provide you with invaluable insight and guidance. She, like you, is one of the most impressive and inspiring women we have ever met. We encourage you to make every effort to meet with Dr. Yacoobi.

Sakena Yacoobi has spent the last 28 years providing education, training, and health care services to women and children in Afghanistan and Pakistan. She, like Professor Muhammad Yunus, understands leveraged social change occurs through the empowerment of women and children.

Born in Herat, Afghanistan, Dr. Yacoobi came to the United States in the 1970s for her college education. She left her professorship at the University of Michigan after visiting Afghan refugee camps in Pakistan and learning about the plight of Afghan women and children.

Dr. Yacoobi founded AIL in 1995. Its first mission was to educate women and children in these camps. Understanding the culture and customs of her people, she appealed and trained the local mullah to be AIL's first teacher. Throughout the 1990s Dr. Yacoobi and her AIL staff risked great personal harm in operating 80 underground home schools for 3,000 women and girls. Her model has proven to be scalable and highly leveraged.

AIL now operates 41 women's learning/education centers, five health centers, and three mobile health clinics. Seventy percent of AIL's 450 staff members are Afghan women. Under Dr. Yacoobi's leadership, AIL has become one of the largest nonprofit organizations in Afghanistan and currently serves more than 350,000 women and children each year with an operating budget of only of $1.5 million per year.

Dr. Yacoobi has received multiple awards and is on the board of the Global Fund for Women. She is both a Senior Ashoka Fellow and a Skoll Fellow. Last month, Sakena was honored with The Henry R. Kravis Prize in Leadership. She received the 2007 Gleitsman International Activist Award from the Center for Public Leadership at Harvard's Kennedy School of Government. In 2005, Dr. Yacoobi was given the Democracy Award of the National Endowment for Democracy. Sakena and AIL received the 2004 Women's Rights Prize from the Peter Gruher Foundation for raising awareness and furthering the rights of women and girls. In 2002, she was awarded the Peacemakers in Action Award from the Tanenbaum Center for Inter-religious Understanding.

Subject: Re: tonight?p

I wanted to put something on your radar that I didn't want to bring up last night, yet feel like it would be awkward not to mention. I want to work at the Embassy for the incoming Ambassador (assuming there's budget), and had sent messages to Cheryl and Rahm re potential schedule-C slot telling them I wanted to be considered for the job.

I should have said something last night, but I'm glad not to have taken up time our dinner time with it. I hate bringing up shop talk with you, but on the other hand would really value your candid thoughts - what are the odds / do I have a shot? are there names already in the mix, is something already locked in, etc.?

Safe travels and hopefully see you soon.

Here is another update of the U.S. delegation list -- we were under the impression that Amb. Wayne was traveling alone, but he will have 2 staffers with him. Chris (P), maybe you can run the whole list by the UK tomorrow and see how hard they push back.

Principals who will need access to Main Hall

Secretary Clinton
Ambassador Holbrooke
A/S Gordon
Ambassador Wayne
TBD: Liz Sherwood-Randall
DASD Sedney (ideally the whole meeting, but at least session 1)
USAID COO Fulgham (at least session 2)
Treasury DAS Larry McDonald (at least session 2)

Staff who will need access to the venue

Secretary Clinton's staff: ?
Embassy London staff: ? (Chris Palmer, others?)
SRAP staff: 5 (Dan Feldman, Jarrett Blanc, Ashley Bommer, Mary Beth Goodman, John Silson)
EUR staff: ?
NEW: Embassy Kabul staff: 2 (Kathy Hadda, Allie Almero)
NSA staff: 1 (Tim Nusraty)
DoD staff: 1 (Baily Hand)
USAID staff: 2? (Jim Beaver, TBA?)
Treasury staff: 0
UK-badged staff: 2 (Chris Lavine, Alex Evans)

Hey Huma, thanks so much for getting back to me. What's a better email for you?

Yeah, I've been pounding the pavement, but haven't had much luck. If there's anything you can do at State, it would mean a lot! I've attached my most recent resume and just published an article on

[REDACTED]

It's a tough job market and getting into the Administration has been very difficult because I'm an HRC person. If you have any ideas, please let me know. Thanks so much!

Hi there Huma:

[redacted]

Meantime, attached is a letter I'm hoping you'll be able to print for HRC, briefing her and also Melanne about a trip to Afghanistan from which I just returned. It spanned approximately the first half of Ramadan with the purpose of the mission being to conduct a series seminars/trainings around the country -- in four provinces -- for female Members of Parliament running for re-election and for the many women running for Parliament for the first time, under the near constant threat of death. I did these seminars with Afghan-American and women's rights activist, Nasrine Gross and with a current Member of Parliament in Afghanistan (not running for re-election), Sabrina Saqeb.

Please do confirm receipt and that you'll pass it along to her, if you would. I know she is occupied by the pressing Israeli-Palestinian talks which will soon resume / begin in earnest. But I know she will be interested in this.

Thanks very much.
Best,
Susan

September 3, 2010

The Honorable Hillary Rodham Clinton
Secretary of State
U.S. Department of State
Washington, DC

Dear Hillary:

My apologies for being so out of touch over the last many months and huge congratulations on Chelsea's wedding (and also Huma's), which surely gave you much joy, while probably also being a reminder of how unfathomable the passage of time can seem! Deepest congrats as well on your numerous missions and accomplishments as Secretary of State, not least the recent inception of direct talks between Israelis and Palestinians at last. I wish you Godspeed on this and all else you do.

I'm writing now to bring you up to date on a fact I did not apprise you (or Melanne) of in advance so as not to press for any specific response either way. In short, I've just returned from a two-week mission to Afghanistan that spanned the first half of Ramadan. Its purpose was to conduct, along with Afghan-American and women's rights activist, Nasrine Gross (of the civil society organization in Kabul, the Roqia Center), a series seminars/trainings around the country for female Members of Parliament running for re-election and for the many women running for Parliament for the first time.

The project received no financing (i.e., Nasrine and I covered all expenses out of pocket with some help from her Roqia Center (part of Kabultec, her 501c3), which does have a small, multi-purpose grant from the nonprofit Fetzer Institute. Logistically, the work was kindly and gingerly facilitated by the Ministry of Women's Affairs, which helped lay the groundwork with the relevant Directorates of Women's Affairs in the provinces. It was facilitated as well by the Massoud Foundation, which ensured our security while traveling, identified safe lodgings, trustworthy drivers/guides, and the like.

Please rest assured that at no time did we speak of or imply during our candidate seminars or interchanges with the Massoud Foundation that our presence in-country or our activities there were in any way prompted or sponsored by you, by Melanne, by the State Department, the U.S. Embassy, the Obama Administration writ large, or by any branch of the U.S. government.

The seminar consisted of Nasrine (on social issues in Afghanistan that most affect women and families and how to navigate gender norms in the country in order to campaign), of me (on strategies and tactics needed to persuade and win the confidence and vote of the people, addressing also how best to do an end-run around gender stereotypes/prejudices that tend to all female candidacies), and of Member of Parliament, Sabrina Saqeb (not running for re-election and thus free to take part, whom I gather Melanne met during her recent trip to Kabul; Sabrina addressed how Parliament actually works and what these women will need to learn and do to function effectively as elected officials).

These trainings were held in 4 provinces, i.e., Kabul (drawing candidates from Laghman and elsewhere); Balkh (i.e., Mazar-i-Sharif, drawing also from Samangan); Herat (drawing from Badghis as well and maybe elsewhere); and Parwan (drawing too from Kapisa and Panjshir). Our security could not be guaranteed in the southeast and we were thus prevented from working there. In the interest of fairness and lack of bias, we invited all female candidates on the ballot in each province regardless of political ideology, ethnic background, and so on. After each seminar, I also interviewed as many MPs and new candidates as were willing and able to wait to be interviewed in turn. In the end, through a translator, I amassed about 18 interviews, enabling a bit of a profile of these candidates to be culled from their backgrounds and responses. FYI, one interviewee was the MP, Fauzia Galani, whose campaign workers were kidnapped (indeed, while she was at our seminar, it seems), and then killed a few days later, apparently by the Taliban. Another was the MP from Kandahar, Malalai Ishaq Zai, who first uncovered and courageously publicized the fraud there in the presidential election in spite of repeated, ominous death threats, given the number of candidates she knows there who were murdered there. She now runs for "re-election" from Kabul.

In terms of the training seminars, the Kabul event was held in an auditorium at the Ministry of Women's Affairs and attended by 80 to 90 people (including press and observers). It was formally opened and closed by Minister Ghazanfar (after the Imam's prayer opening), and she joined with us again at the end in handing out the certificates / diplomas of attendance for everyone there.

In Mazar, the event was held at the Directorate of Women's Affairs and opened (after the initial prayer) by the Director of WA there, Faraiba Majeid, with an audience of 30 to 35 (including observers and press). While we were in Mazar, the Governor of Balkh, Gov. Atta, sought to meet with us and tried to arrange it, though the time feasible for him was during the seminar so not feasible. As an alternative, he later sent his cultural attaché to meet with us and also to guide us (and me as a Western woman) through Mazar's extraordinary blue mosque and shrine.

Upon our arrival in Herat, we met with the Director of WA, Manizha Sadeq (Ismail Khan's daughter), at her Directorate Offices, and then held our event the next day in a conference hall at the Guest House/Hotel where we were staying. The event was attended by 40 or 45 people including guests and press, and was opened (after the prayer) by Herat's Chief of Police. Indeed, given that this very day the Governor of the Province was replaced, the new Governor sent his sister to the seminar to observe the goings-on along with her UNDP aide. The new Governor is a Herati and replaces a Nurestani, a somewhat reassuring fact for Heratis, though the distinction likely captures only minimally the meaning behind or potential outcomes of the replacement.

The event in Parwan was the smallest of the 4 and again was held at the Directorate of WA in the province. It was also opened (after the prayer) by the Director of WA, Sarjan, with 20 to 25 people in attendance (including press and observers).

As far as press and other interviews, they were numerous, mainly with Nasrine in Dari. In Mazar, though, I was interviewed in English by several reporters from Afghan press outlets (as a group). In Herat, I was also interviewed, that time by a group of 3 representatives from UNAMA (French and Afghan) and UNDP (Afghan). While in Parwan, I did an interview with Radio Free Europe as well (along with Nasrine who was both the other interviewee and my translator). VoA scheduled a phone interview from the States with Nasrine, which I assume eventually took place. Tolo TV and several other press folks were at the Kabul event but I was too occupied with candidate interviews there. A ISAF employee who attended there (working in Human Terrain Analysis) tried hard to get an interview with me then and at the end of our whirlwind travel for seminars/interviews when we were back in Kabul – to gain insights from what we learned – but I was unable to manage it given the compressed schedule. Perhaps Nasrine will do this since she remains in-country. We also had a brief dinner with Ann Marlowe whom we both know (neo-con of Wall St. Journal Op-Ed page) the night she arrived at the Serena Hotel in Kabul where she would be staying (also the night before my departure). She is not doing an embed this time, but rather, will focus on the mood of the people, so it's feasible she may say mentioned our work in what she writes, though we discussed few details.

As a side note, our travel to and from Mazar and Herat was by ordinary Afghan airlines, Ariana and Pamir. We also traveled by car from Mazar (in Balkh) to the province of Samangan where we met with the Governor of that province, Gov. Anosh, the Director of Women's Affairs there, Mahrokh Saifi, and an orphanage director, Hanifa, all at the Governor's offices. Afterward, we delivered to the orphanage the more than 10 boxes of food, clothing, and school supplies that Nasrine had amassed for the children. At the orphanage, we had the truly moving and delightful experience of meeting with all the children there, having first been received by a set of 8 to 10 very young girls singing to us in unison in their uniforms, and by two large (and separate) classrooms of girls and of boys, with whom we spoke and played. We then visited the Directorate of WA at their offices and saw (and purchased) various women's sewing crafts. At a later date, we traveled by car from Kabul to Kapisa – to the Directorate of Social and Cultural Affairs for the province to meet with the Director there, along with the Director of WA – for the purpose of delivering some of the same kinds of goods for a fledgling orphanage project, where we met with a small group of orphans there but were unable to visit the orphanage per se. From there we drove to Panjshir, where we were met by the Director of the nearly complete Mausoleum for the fallen Ahmad Shah Massoud (Maulana Siddiqi) and after visiting the Mausoleum saw as well Massoud's famed strategic planning room (known by some as his "map room"), both on the sprawling, otherwise incomplete multi-purpose construction site there. That night, it was an Iftar dinner and lodgings at the Massoud Foundation's guesthouse not far down the road. The next day we then drove from Panjshir to Parwan for our last formal candidate seminar, followed by the return drive to Kabul.

Just so you know, I was also invited by the Massoud Foundation to speak to their top leadership, at their headquarters in Kabul, an event held at the end of the trip. The meeting involved about 30 participants, including many Pashtuns, along with various Tajiks and Hazaras (and probably other groups) from around the country gathered in Kabul, presumably not only for this occasion. The presentation was to be (and was) focused on building coalitions in conjunction with civil society organizations to connect to the people as the bedrock for forming political parties (or in this case for coalescing and combining huge numbers of political parties into a more functional number within one coalition to get things done). My focus was also on the pressing responsibilities that accrue to any loyal opposition in any legislature (and body politic), i.e., being the advocate of the people, advocating for and where feasible passing needed legislation (and getting it signed into law), and centrally, holding the executive branch accountable (by means of oversight functions) to ensure adequate implementation of the law and respect for the separation of powers. As you no doubt know, the Afghan constitution provides Parliament with no subpoena power and no contempt of parliament provision or legal recourse when individuals lie in parliamentary hearings (or so the constitution, I'm told, is understood). Parliament can, however, hold hearings and "invite" members of the executive branch to appear to answer questions.

I should say as well that in Mazar, our first stop was to meet with Khalid, a humble and cultured man (formerly the closest compatriot and aide, or among the closest, to Ahmad Shah Massoud), at his compound in Mazar. His compound, which he planned and is developing, is a newly emerging township under the rather grand vision of a family-friendly, cradle-to-grave, self-sufficient community. While it remains under construction, some of its homes completed and sold, and 4 fully equipped, completed playgrounds alluringly mark each quarter of the property. It was the cousin of Khalid's (also well known man in the region) who essentially drove us everywhere we went, including Samangan, and to and from the airport in Mazar. At the end of our stay, the night before our departure, we shared an outdoor Iftar dinner with him and with Khalid and under the nighttime sky and learned more about his plans and about Massoud's pragmatic development ideas and projects (e.g., micro-hydro) for their troubled land, which continued to inspire Khalid in his work on the new township in progress. The township, incidentally, also contains a completed conference hall and several other functioning facilities, including a restaurant favored by the German contingent of ISAF, whose armored vehicles and tanks came rumbling past us in the compound heading for dinner at the restaurant down the road, churning up the dust still more as we dined outdoors in the night.

In Herat, we were at all times accompanied by an armed security official from the Massoud Foundation provincial office in Herat (Mr. Amini), who graciously made it his business as well to show us numerous local tributes, and shrines, and to bring us to the Foundation's offices in Herat to meet the Director there, Ab. Razaq Ahmadi, also a very cultured man, who came to the opening of our seminar. He showed us the extensive library and collection of books for sale there, both religious and secular, their facilities for training young people in computers and for taking the Afghan tests to gain university admission, as he explained his aims to expand and improve higher education in Herat.

Back in Kabul, late one evening (after Iftar), we also met with Ahmad Wali Massoud at his residence. This private meeting was particularly candid and sobering for me, and of considerable interest, including for U.S. foreign policy in the region. (Dr. Abdullah, incidentally, was out of the country during my time in-country, although I did meet with him briefly when he was in New York.)

If you or Melanne would like me to meet with anyone at State or anyone else to debrief about the details of any of the above, i.e., my experiences/observations during this trip, including the interviews with the female candidates or anything else, I will be happy to do so. Many individuals with whom I spoke were very candid and straightforward about their views, either on or off the record.

As you know, I can be reached by email or through my NYU office phone or home office phone, all noted above.

All my best to you and yours, as ever,

Susan
