RELEASE IN FULL

The best solution I can come up with is to have Nina Miller send them to you on my behalf high side. That way, she can get them to you at least during business hours during the week, regardless of my location.

I will send them to her from my non-State email account, not copying myself. She will then send them to us. You know who they are coming from, so even high side from here I will just refer to them as "O Reports," and strip out any other identifying information as to sourcing. -- Jonathan

Flipping this to high side will result in delays whenever the reporting takes place and I am out of the office, which includes weekends plus when I am overseas (for example, I've been out since December 1 and will only be returning to office December 18).

Your choice how to proceed. I will implement however you think best. -- Jonathan

Jonathan,

Given our ongoing concerns about security of opennet, Toria and I wonder if it would be possible for you to flip orbis reports to this system before sending them to us. Understand that's yet another step in the process for you. We just want to be sure we don't inadvertently undermine a very good source of info or worse.

Best, Paul
