Mike: Just want to give you a heads up on something we're planning on reporting later today, and give you a chance to push back/respond. We've learned that in the course of the Clinton investigation DOJ gave immunity to Paul Combetta, the Platte River Networks employee who deleted Clinton's emails in late March 2015. Republicans on Tuesday asked DOJ to open an investigation into how the emails were deleted. The fact that Combetta was given immunity takes much of the air out of the idea that DOJ needs to investigate the deletions. Thanks, Mike
