Trust you can help.

Two congressional sources tell fox news that fbi interview summaries and notes, provided to the house intelligence committee late Friday, contain allegations of a "quid pro quo" between a senior state department executive Patrick Kennedy and FBI agents during the Clinton email investigation.

Congressman Jason Chaffetz who has been briefed on the fbi interviews told fox, "There was an alleged quid pro quo involving ambassador Patrick Kennedy and the fbi over at least one classified email, and in return for altering the classification, the possibility of additional slots for the fbi at missions overseas was discussed."

Please let us know if the FBI will provide comment on the congressman's assessment as well as timing for the release of the 302s. We were told as early as Monday.

Thank you

Mike

Trust you can help.

Two congressional sources tell fox news that fbi interview summaries and notes, provided to the house intelligence committee late Friday, contain allegations of a "quid pro quo" between a senior state department executive Patrick

FBI (18-cv-154)-8685

Kennedy and FBI agents during the Clinton email investigation.

Congressman Jason Chaffetz who has been briefed on the FBI interviews told Fox, "There was an alleged quid pro quo involving Ambassador Patrick Kennedy and the FBI over at least one classified email, and in return for altering the classification, the possibility of additional slots for the FBI at missions overseas was discussed."

Please let us know if the FBI will provide comment on the congressman's assessment as well as timing for the release of the 302s. We were told as early as Monday.

Thank you

- Catherine
