Hey Billy,

Following up from Jim's prior message, see below. This is what sparked the discussion/steps taken today for A&I and SP products. I advised that RAD may want to do the same for the QR, but that is not my call.

I agree. We can temporarily remove from websites. Especially financial audits.

Mr. Sopko, Gene, and John,

Please see below from State, Bureau of the Comptroller and Global Financial Services; Carole (Cc'd) is a strong, supportive colleague with whom I've worked for many years and she is tasked to execute this action on behalf of State Comptroller.

Bottom Line: State thinks some of the information in our reports (think Afghan companies/contract information) could put individuals at heightened risk given recent developments in Afghanistan. From my perspective, scrubbing OUR reports would be onerous and not timely (consider the work to just scrub our published financial audits). One option may be to temporarily disable certain portions of the website while the dust settles in Afghanistan and we decide on a long-term solution—I am not sure the implication of such action given our Congressional mandate to make our reports public, though. This decision is obviously above my paygrade. For what it is worth, my advice would be to consider working with State on this; State is already taking action websites it/USAID controls and the other OIGs/GAO may be taking similar action.

I am standing by to move out as instructed or to pass the ball to you for action.

Thanks!

Matt

Matt, Thanks for your quick reply. The State Department would like to make an unprecedented request from SIGAR given the recent and dramatic changes in Afghanistan. We've worked together in the past and so I'm reaching out to you first, instead of going directly to Deputy Aloise. I would appreciate any advice and insight you can provide in how to best approach this request.

Essentially, we would like to request for SIGAR to suspend large portions of your website and public access to reports and records. We request urgent assistance in identifying and temporarily removing (and potentially redacting on a longer term basis) all potentially sensitive and identifying information on U.S. government assistance programs/projects in Afghanistan. A great many of your historical publications contain extensive details about activities and partners that could put individuals at risk in the current environment.

For the websites that State/F and USAID/PPL and USAID/MCIO control, e.g. ForeignAssistance.gov, Foreign Assistance Resource Library, Development Experience Clearinghouse etc. immediate actions are being taken to remove the following type of information for awards for Afghanistan or regional awards where Afghanistan is expressly mentioned:

- Implementing partner name
- Implementing partner DUNS#
- Award Title
- Award Description
- Evaluations, assessments, studies, other publications that contain any of the above are being temporarily removed until they can be reviewed carefully

We are also making requests to the GAO and the OIG communities to assist in this effort. Because SIGAR is probably the most extensive source for vendor and other information in Afghanistan through the information available for your website, it might be easiest to disable the website functionality for accessing reports and other publications and notifications. Obviously we request this as soon as possible. I've available to discuss further at (b) (6) Could you please advise what you think the best way for us to advance this request to your upper management? Thanks for your help, Carole

Greetings Carol,

I received word from the SIGAR Front Desk that you were trying to reach me.

How can I help?

Matt
