DPMS Panther Arms: An American firearms manufacturer headquartered in St. Cloud, Minnesota.

Blue Force Gear Adjustable sling with extra picatinny rail QD adapter: Allows you to control weapon movement and position flexibility.

AR Flip up sights: Normally a scope is utilized as the primary method of aim, but if the scope fails you can utilize the flip up sight.

Accu-shot 3-12x44 adjustable scope: This is a traditional hunting scope which is lightweight, compact, and adequate magnification range.

Vortex red-dot reticle: The Vortex red-dot sight unlike some red dots with smaller aiming points has a larger dot to focus on your target.

Eleven 30 round P-mag magazines: This is a polymer AR magazine produced by MagPul designed to augment/replace the standard stamped steel STANAG magazine. They are available to hold various quantities from 5 to 60 rounds.

1 magazine loader: A device designed to load magazines at higher speeds and with less effort than loading rounds by hand.
